$40,000 Needed For Jail

BENTON — Sheriff John Dennis said this morning it appears that Scott County Jail can "come up to meet the American standards" at a cost of $40,000 to $50,000.

Sheriff Dennis met Thursday with Bill Duncan of Jefferson City, who is a representative of the State Department of Law Enforcement Assistance Council.

Sheriff Dennis explained he and Duncan will meet with the county court soon to discuss the jail.

Sheriff Dennis said it appears matching funds from the federal and state governments are available on a 50-50 basis. He said the most important things in improving the jail would be lighting, plumbing, and heating. He said the jail gets to 120 degrees in the summer and in the winter one side is so cold that moisture forms on the ceilings.

Duncan said with the improvements the jail could be one of the better ones in the state and he considers the $40,000 to $50,000 a "nominal expense."

He said with what the Sheriff has to work with the jail is in good condition. He said the jail is clean in considering the age of the building, the spirit of those persons who are jailed is good, and he complimented the cleanliness of the kitchen.

$45,000 Increase in Revenues

BENTON — It appears that county general revenue fund will increase by more than $45,000 for 1971 over 1970. This fund pays county official's salaries, maintenance of county property costs along with public health and welfare.

Of the increase, about $25,000 will go to public health and welfare. Under that category, county court members indicated the foster home care program will be increased substantially.

The other part of the increase will go to building repairs. There is about $20,000 earmarked for improvements, including the county's 40-year old jail.

This increase is being realized without an increase in taxes, which are 45 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

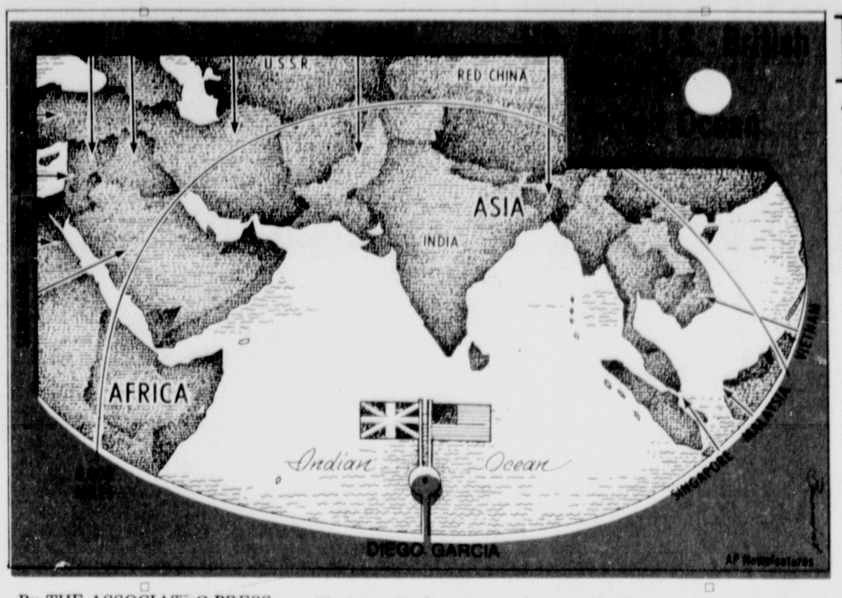

The county court has approved the same tax base as used last year, and indications were in the court house this morning the tax base may be reduced if any change is made.

This increase came about as a result of a hike of $1 million assessed property valuation. The other major portion of the county's budget is in the road and bridge fund. It will remain about the same.

There will be a public hearing Friday at 10a.m. on the county budget. The hearing will be in the county courtroom.

County court members this morning announced they will meet Monday and Thursday beginning Feb. 1.

They have been meeting on Mondays and Fridays at 9 a.m.

A lonely atoll in the Indian Ocean has been earmarked an air and radio communications base for the Unites States and Britain.

U.S. officials in Washington said Diego Garcia, an island measuring 13 miles long and 5 miles at its widest, would serve American and British ships and aircraft in the Indian Ocean.

The installation is expected to cost about $19 million to build and will be manned by about 250 Navy personnel.

Work on the base is slated to begin this March and will take about three years to complete.

Officials said they expected the facility to be equipped to monitor radio exchanges between ships plying the waters of the Indian Ocean.

The base is also expected to be used as a refueling stop for British vessels assigned to the Malaysia-Singapore defense network.

Diego Garcia, a British territory of the Chagos archipelago, served as a British air base in World War II. It lies about 1,200 miles below the tip of India.

Officials said that about 600 inhabitants on the island and some agricultural workers employed there will be relocated.

The proposed base has been under study for about four years and is an outgrowth of the desire of Washington to maintain a U.S. presence in the area.

Supreme Court Listens to Ouster Case Arguments

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Supreme Court heard final arguments Thursday in the ouster case against Pemiscot County Sheriff Clyde Orton, then took the matter under advisement.

Defense attorney Jim Reeves characterized the case as being "distorted from the very beginning."

Reeves said Dale Rollings, the chief assistant attorney general who directed the prosecution, told the court on two occasions Sheriff Orton ran liquor officers from Mississippi and Alabama out of Pemiscot County.

"That simply is not so," Reeves said. Instead, he said, they had an exchange of words and in one case Orton "simply told them if they were still here tomorrow they'd be in jail."

Reeves also contended the Supreme Court did not have jurisdiction. He said action taken against the sheriff should have begun in Circuit Court, and if convicted of the misdemeanors he has been charged with, ouster proceedings could then begin.

Throughout the hearing Orton sat in a chair at the back of the courtroom, listening intently and chewing gum.

At the other end of the double row of chairs in the courtroom sat Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth. He took no part in presenting the case to the supreme court.

A special commissioner of the Supreme Court, former Circuit Judge Ray Weightman of Maryville who heard the case, last September recommended that Orton be removed from office for willful violation and neglect of duty.

Weightman concluded that Orton was guilty on three counts of having permitted open gambling in the county, including rooster fighting in Hermandale.

Weightman also found that Orton permitted liquor to be transported to dry areas of Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee without proper bills of lading.

Tollings told the Supreme Court that deppite a newspaper article reporting the existence of cockfighting near Hermandale, the sheriff took no action.

He said the cockfighting was conducted in a barn with bleachers capable of seating up to 300 spectators, and placards were displayed announcing the names of the contesting roosters along with the names of their owners and the time of each bout.

Reeves said the newspaper article was just an item near the bottom of a gossip column and both Circuit Judge William Ragland and Oorton denied having seen it. Reeves added the author of the column admitted he did not take the information about the cockfighting to the prosecuting attorney.

Reeves said he admired Commissioner Weightman and was not critical of him "but his report finds the defendant guilty of things he wasn't charged with."

The Supreme Court can accept Weightman's recommendation in full and oust Oorton from office, accept portions of it or discard it and reach its own conclusions.

Truman Condition Remains Good

A bulletin released at 10:30 a.m. EST, said the 86-year-old Truman, hospitalized Thursday morning with stomach pains, sat up in bed this morning to drink some tea and read a newspaper.

Thursday night, the bulletin said, the former president had a light supper of tea and soup, read the evening paper and watched television. He also had a soft drink before retiring at 10 p.m.

Truman's wife, Bess, who accompanied him to the hospital in an ambulance Thursday, returned to the hospital at 9 a.m. today after spending the night at the truman's Independence, Mo., home.

Hospital spokesmen said Truman had a reasonably restful night but that his sleep had been interrupted. They added he had experienced some modrately severe abdominal pain Thursday afternoon.

Dr. Wallace Graham, Truman's physician, has given no diagnosis of the ailment. He has said only that he will know more when he has the results of tests within a few days.

Spokesmen said Truman was carrying on in his usual calm manner but was anxious to return home.

The hospital said another bulletin will be issued at 4 p.m. EST.

RUINS of a fire that destroyed nearly half a block of business buildings in Hayti Thursday. Two businesses, the Town Tavern, where the fire apparently started, and the clothing and ready to wear Leader Store were almost destroyed. Adjacent businesses were damaged by smoke. Total loss to the buildings and contents is estimated at more than $100,000.00.

Nixon Focus Likely to Be Domestic

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, his eye presumably fixed on 1972, delivers his State of the Union message tonight, outlining for Congress and the nation "new approaches and new initiatives" he thinks will ease the country's problems.

Nixon went out of his way to promise in advance the boldest and most far-reaching remedies ever proposed for national ills.

The traditional message will be delivered live to a joint session of Congress and will be televised and broadcast beginning at 8 p.m. EST.

For a brief time, consideration was given to postponing the speech because of the death Thursday afternoon of one of the most power-laden senators, Democrat Richard B. Russell of Georgia.

The White House said it checked with aides to Russell, dean and president pro tem of the Senate, and with the congressional leadership and was advised Nixon should deliver his address as scheduled.

The focus of the President's remarks will be domestic problems and his prescriptions for dealing with them. Foreign policy questions will be dealt with in mid-February in a lengthy written document informally labeled the President's "state of the world" report.

The New York Times and the Washington Post, meantime, said in today's editions that Nixon has informed the Cabinet he will propose in his message a consolidation of the Departments of Agriculture, Labor, Housing and Urban Development, Health, Education and Welfare, Commerce, Interior and Transportation into four Cabinet agencies.

Under the proposal, Agriculture, Commerce, Labor and Transportation would be brought together to form the Department of Economic Development, while Interior, HUD would become part of the three other proposed departments.

Bohannon Resigns Bank Presidency, Lea Succeeds

Don Bohannon, president of First National Bank, today announced his resignation as president and the election of Pat Lea, executive vice president of the Bank of Sikeston, as First National's new president and chief executive officer. The change is effective immediately.

Bohannon said that he would be active in the bank, assisting the new president until the annual stockholders meeting in March. He said he would move his offices to the former Stallings - Huff Insurance Agency building on South Kingshighway. He will remain active as the president of the First National Company of Sikeston in which he acquired controlling interest in December. The First National Company is a one - bank holding company, which owns controlling interest in First National Bank.

Bohannon said he has founded the National Mortgage Company and will enter the mortgage banking field.

Lea joined the Bank of Sikeston in August of 1965 and was elected executive vice president in April of 1966. Prior to that he served as executive officer of the Arkansas Valley Bank in Dardanelle, Ark.

Don Bohannon

Pat Lea

He attended Arkansas State University in Jonesboro and graduated from Arkansas law school in 1956. He is a 1959 graduate of the School of Banking of the South, Louisiana State University.

Lea is serving as chairman of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission, is president to the Kiwanis club and president of the Southeast Missouri Charter Bank Administration Institute.

He has served as chairman of the Sikeston United Fund and president of the Southeast Missouri Development Council.

He is a member of the First Baptist church and is married to the former Mary Elizabeth Lewis of Conway, Ark.

They have two children, Melissa, 10, and Laura, 11, and live at 710 Courtney Drive.

Bohannon has been with First National Bank since 1958 serving as assistant cashier, cashier, vice-president as president.

Driver Dies Of Heart Attack

OLD APPLETON--An Oak Ridge man died of a heart attack while driving near Old Appleton shortly after noon yesterday.

At 12:15 p.m. on route D a mile south of Old Appleton, a 1966 Buick traveling east driven by Harry Thompson, Jr., 44, Oak Ridge, went off the road into a ditch, the highway patrol said.

Thompson was dead on arrival at Southeast Missouri hospital in Cape Girardeau.

The patrol said the Cape Girardeau county coroner ruled the death resulted from a heart attack.

$1,328 in Items Stolen

A break-in was reported at Lewis Furniture Company on West Malone early yesterday morning. Police said this morning that four television sets, two radios, a stereo tape player and a shotgun valued at $1,327.95 were reported missing.

Apparently the thief was locked in the building after closing time Wednesday night because a lock was broken off on an inside door when the thief left the building. No outside locks were broken.

Observance of Birthday Changed

Supt. of Sikeston Schools Lynn Twitty announced today that George Washington's birthday would be observed by the closing of school on Feb. 15.

Nightgown Catches Fire, Girl Burned

CATRON--A flaming nightgown, ignited by a gas space heater, Monday caused second degree burns to Debbie Matlock, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Matlock, route one.

She is in the Missouri Delta Community Hospital, Sikeston, with burns on one-fourth of her body.

Her father attempted to smother the flames with a nylon robe, which reportedly melted. He then rolled her on the floor to extinguish the blaze.

He suffered burns on his hands.

Stroup Now Serving As Area Assistant

BENTON — Tom B. Stroup, director of the Scott county extension center, has been assigned as area associate director of Scott, Mississippi, New Madrid, Dunklin, Pemiscot and Stoddard counties. He will continue to be headquartered in the center in Scott County.

In this new assignment Stroup will be responsible for the extension programs, in-service training Assignments, area credit and short course classes and other administrative assignments in the six Bootheel counties.

He will be associated with Glenn Patton, area director in the Bootheel, who is headquartered at the Mississippi county extension center in Charleston.

All agricultural requests previously handled by Stroup will be directed to the agronomy or farm management specialists in the area.

Stroup, who has been ill, will return Monday to his office after a two - month leave of absence.

He was hospitalized from Nov. 21 to Dec. 8, in the St. Francis hospital in Cape Girardeau. On Dec. 1 he underwent his third back operation for removal of a disc since 1951.

Fred Glover Heads Peace Officers

By MIKE JENSEN

CAPE GIRAREAU--The Southeast Missouri Peace Officers Association yesterday elected four Scott County men to office at a meeting in a cafe near here.

Fred Glover, juvenile officer of Scott and Mississippi Counties, was elected president; Jack Stewart, deputy sheriff of Scott County, vice president; Sgt. Leonard Campbell of the Sikeston Police Department, secretary-treasurer; and Dolph Webb, Sikeston Fire chief, sergeant-at-arms.

Cliff Hodge, special officer with the Overton police department in St. Louis, gave a self-defense demonstration. Hodge has developed a method of self-defense that has been adopted by the highway patrol and St. Louis county police.

The group received training on riot control and the use of self defense against new weapons that criminals employ.

Hodge was critical of the press saying that it often made the police officer look like a "bad guy" when he is actually only defending himself. He gave examples of the 1968 Chicago riot in which several police officers were injured. He developed his self-defense methods from his experience in these riots.

The next meeting will be in Sikeston in April.

Fred Glover

Heckemeyer Chairman Of Committee

JEFFERSON CITY--State Representative Tony Heckemeyer of Sikeston has been named chairman of the house miscellaneous committee.

He said this committee will be the one that will recommend Whithers to impeach State Treasurer Bill Robinson, who is under grand jury indictment on a charge of using his office for self-gain.

Heckemeyer also has been appointed to serve on the house economics committee. He said he is "one of seven conservatives on the committee."

No Report Cards In School Experiment

A new process of student analysis is being tried for the first time today in the elementary departments of the public schools. The experiment is temporarily replacing the old report card method.

Parents of elementary age students have been requested to schedule a conference with their child's teacher today to be given a personal report on their child's progress, to ask questions or give suggestions. For those parents, who are not able to schedule a meeting, a written report will be mailed about their child's progress.

Superintendent of Schools Lynn Twitty said the school system has thought about the idea of having a parent conference rather than a written report card for some time. Conferences have been held in the past when there was a problem.

"Many schools use this method," Twitty said. "If today's conferences are successful they will be continued in the future on a once a year basis," he said.

Heart Campaign Leaders Appointed

Gene Yokley has been named chairman of Heart Days for Business and Mrs. Robert Turnbull will head Heart Sunday, Heart Fund Campaign Chairman Charles Royal announced today.

Yokley is president of the Jaycees and secretary of Young Democrats. He is a past president of the Dunklin County Heart Association a director of the Missouri Heart Association.

This is the second year that Mrs. Turnbull has served as Heart Sunday chairman. She has been a member of the Heart Fund staff volunteers.

Heart Days for Business is a solicitation of businessmen by businessmen. It will cover stores, professional offices and 11 other nonresidential places.

Volunteers for Heart Sunday will call on their neighbors during the seven-day period starting Feb. 15. Approximately 180 volunteers are being recruited for the canvass.

Theft Ring Cases To Circuit Court

MARBLE HILL, Mo. (AP) — Five of six persons arrested in connection with an alleged automotive theft ring have waived preliminary hearings and will appear in Bollinger County Circuit Court Monday.

County Prosecutor Kenneth Shrum said Clifford W. Petton Jr., 23, of Lutesville is charged with tampering with a motor vehicle and flourishing a dangerous weapon.

Stanley D. Petton, 21, also Lutesville, is charged with tampering.

Three St. Louis - area residents are charged with receiving stolen property. Schrum identified them as Ronald L. Franklin, 26, Arnold; Richard Roper, 16, St. Louis, and William A. Boyd, 18, St. Louis.

Jolie Ann Niere, 19, of Affton, is charged with tamperihg and is awaiting a preliminary hearing, the prosecutor said.

The six were arrested Tuesday by the sheriffs of Bollinger and Madison Counties and the Missouri Highway Patrol in a raid on a house in the Marquand area near the Madison County line.

Officers said they found a large number of automobiles at the site and three were identifed as stolen vehicles.

Church Gives $2,500 to Delta Project

HAYTI — The Missouri Delta Ecumenical Ministry received a $2,500 grant from the national office of the United Church of Christ in New York to aid in its work with poor people.

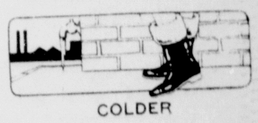

This is the first time in the five - year history of the Hayti centered ministry that support has been received from the United Church of Christ.

With this addition, the ecumenical base of the ministry has been expanded from five to six denominations.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

The only way the average woman can find out if her husband likes a dish she has prepared is to notice if he eats it without scolding.

* * *

A MAN WELL QUALIFIED

Recently the Seniority system for the selection of Congressional committee chairmen has come under increasing attack, largely by newly elected, "maverick," junior members of our national legislative bodies. It is the same junior members who, during the last session of Congress, were the major obstructionists to legislation — any legislation, except that precisely in accord with their own whims. One of our better newspaper columnists, William S. White, reports that "these, the junior members, have been pursuing a policy of all or nothing, of rule or ruin, that is leaving a litter of smashed legislation. They are not wise enough, because they are not experienced enough, to understand that politics in a free society must rest at last upon civilized compromise. They are not industrious enough to work their way forward by merit; they want to run the show before they understand the script."

The altogether disgraceful record of the last Congress should, in itself, demonstrate the shallow and self-serving nature of the campaign againstt the seniority system. But William White points out another compelling reason why the seniority system should be retained. "Another term for seniority is 'know how'," he writes, "and while undeniably the system occasionally produced a chairman of limited ability, it could also fairly be said that the seniority system in the professions occasionally produces a senior law partner who is no Blackstone or a senior medical partner who is no Lister. On the whole, however, a man becomes senior — in the professions and in Congress - mainly because he knows more about the matter in hand, having studied and practiced it longer."

A convincing argument in favor of the seniority system can be found in the automatic advancement of the very able and experienced F.Edward Herbert of Louisiana to the office of Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, to succeed the late Representative Mendel Rivers. Congressman Hebert (pronounced "ABear") is the first Louisianian to serve 26 consecutive years in the U.S. House of Representatives. His background, training and long years of experience — plus the year-after-year "vote of confidence" by the people of his district attest his qualifications for the important post.

A THOUGHT FOR 1971

According to Intelligence Digest in its review of world affairs, the year 1970 ended with the publication of memoirs attributed to Nikita Khrushchev. There has been, and doubtless will continue to be, much controversy about their authenticity. For understandable reasons, Khrushchev denies authorship. The Soviet authorities say that they are a forgery.

But, whatever their authorship, these memoirs undoubtedly give a substantially accurate picture of the USSR -- whatever errors of detail they may contain -- and a very revealing picture it is.

No doubt discussion and debate will go on for a long time about the lessons learned from Khrushchev's memoirs. In fact, there is only one thing which it is necessary to learn from them. That is that the whole concept, constitution, and practice of Communist Russia is infamous, corrupt, depraved, and criminal.

In a word, it is evil. And it is administered and upheld by evil men for evil ends. That is a fact which is clearly revealed in almost every paragraph of Khruschev's memoirs.

We see Stalin as a drunken barbarian and Beria as a lecherous and sadistic ruffian. All the Soviet leaders are shown up to be as astrocious a collection of scoundrels as one could find anywhere. There is not one word which suggests any moral standard of any kind as a basis of or inspiration for policy.

And it is men brought up and trained in this school with whom we have to deal today. That is what should be learned from Khrushchev's memoris.

Nevertheless, this evil creed and the power of these evil men are a factor in human affairs and prevade and influence every aspect of the international situation.

All western foreign policy and many western domestic policy decisions have to be made within the context of the activities of Moscow and Peking.

Millions of words have been written to adduce historic, political and economic reasons for this. There are, of course, such reasons. But there is one basic reason from which all the others arise. It is that atheist revolutionary ideology has been allowed to gain an ascendancy over Christian theology. All the many ancillary reasons for the pervading influence of Communism arise from that one basic factor.

The physical destruction of evil movements has been accomplished over and over again in history, and within a short time the same evil thing has reappeared in another form or under another name. Within the lifetime of most of us the power of Nazism was overthrown, only to be replaced by the power of Communism.

Nazism and Communism are different manifestations of the same thing. Both -- and their predecessors -- are diametrically opposed to the basic Christian belief that there is no such thing as a supreme human authority.

We have condemned ourselves to the use of physical means for the protection of the Free World and these means cannot be discarded merely to suit our own convenience when they become economically too onerous or physically too dangerous. But they can never bring more than temporary relief or security.

The overflow of the evil thing, whatever form it may take, which seeks to dominate the world will be acheived only through acceptance of the whole Christian faith with all its obligations. That is the only way.

The War on Poverty has cost us $8 billion, and now comes the Department of Health, Education and Welfare saying many American children have nutritional deficiencies comparable to children in underdeveloped nations. The cause just might be ignorance of what constitutes a balanced diet, says the Department's preliminary report. You can bet your last jar of government peanut butter it just might be, else someone might question the wisdom of spending $8 billion, only to learn some Americans are still poorly fed. Watch this one, because the guaranteed income riders of the socialist sage will use this preliminary report to shoot up capitalism's town.

LATIN TERRORISM

Twenty-two diplomats and other foreigners have been kidnapped in Latin America -- and five murdered -- since Jan. 16, 1968, when Guatemalan terrorists fatally machine-gunned two American military attaches. Since then, the nations of the hemisphere have sought vainly for a strategy for dealing with the new wave of urban terrorism. They will try again at a nine-day meeting of the Organization of American States beginning Monday, Jan. 25, in Washington. Under discussion by the foreign ministers of 23 member nations will be a report prepared by the Inter-American Juridicial Committee "on acts of terrorism, and, particularly, kidnapping, extortion and assaults against persons."

The report was drafted at the request of a foreign ministers meeting held in Washington last summer. At that time, the foreign ministers overwhelmingly approved a resolution urging that political terrorism, including kidnapping, be handled as a common crime subject to extradition. Traditionally, Latin America nations rarely extradite people considered political fugitives. Brazil, Argentina and the United States, prime movers behind the efforts to do something about terrorism, were hopeful that the committee would produce a resolution that would deny asylum to political terrorists. Diplomatic sources report, however, that the proposal to be presented to the ministers is weak. A behind-the scenes battle is forecast to strengthen it.

Some nations -- Mexico and Chile among them -- are said to be opposed to any proposal calling for uniform action because it would restrict their independence of action. Each nation has gone its own way in dealing with the terrorists. Brazil has followed a policy of releasing prisoners whose names have been furnished by the kidnappers in exchange for the hostages. Uruguay and Argentina have steadfastly refused to make deals with the terrorists. The tragedy of the situation is that the terrorists have turned the regard of others for human life -- and their own disregard for it -- into an effective weapon.

The Public Service Company of Colorado announced that children of the future may never need braces for their teeth or have to worry about cavities. Experiments are currently being done with a laser beam to treat teeth to prevent decay. Used with the proper intensity, the laser seals tiny passageways through which agents of toothdecay penetrate the enamel on teeth. Experimental tests are being done on animals and extracted human teeth. Clinical trials on human subjects are at least two years away, but tests will soon begin on teeth which are scheduled for extraction. Electricity may also be used to straighten crooked teeth and to repair injured and diseased bone. The possibility of negative electrodes stimulating bone production is being explored. It is believed that positive electrodes are associated with diminished bone formation. Experiments have shown that pressure produces a type of electricity in bones which may be the reason for pressure reshaping bones.

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — If everyone said only what he really meant, and meant everything he said, this world would be a bear pit.

The friction generated by our clashing egos would rub us all raw. If each man or woman told the other what he really thought of him, human society as we know it would be impossible.

That is why we have double talk, which is as essential to society as the wheel is to progress. Double talk is the art of saying something pleasant while thinking, perhaps, just the opposite. This enables us to salve the other fellow while salving our own desire to be honest, too.

For the uninitiated, here are a few examples of double talk in quotes, followed in each case by what the person who said them was actually thinking:

"My dear, quit worrying about it. It fits you like a glove."—That's why it makes you look like a baseball catcher's mitt.

"What we can't change we have to put up with. After all, a neither of us is getting any younger."—But if I thought I looked as old as you do, I'd put on a mask.

"Professor, taking your course in Plato makes me feel like I'm strolling in Athens on a sunlit day."--But anyway you slice it, it's still Greek to me.

"Smithers, we mustn't try to skip up the rungs of the ladder of success too quickly or we'll miss some of the view, won't we?"--Does this nitwit have the effrontery to think he can beat me out of my job?

"I have listened to you carefully, and rest assured I'll give your words thoughtful consideration.'--They went in one ear and out the other so fast they didn't even make an echo.

"The tensions of today build up in all of us. My advice is that you should take a long vacation somewhere alone where you can find yourself—the real you."—At least then you can't pollute my environment.

"Do you really mean you want me to tell you what I think you should do?"—You tempt me, Mac, you tempt me.

"Don't you feel it's too cold a day, Myrtle, to go bird watching?"—Let's stay inside by the fire, baby, and I'll ruffle your feathers.

THE AGE OF GAB

The United States has overtaken Canada in the yak-yak sweepstakes.

Latest figures reported in "The World's Telephones," an annual compilation by AT&T, reveal that Americans made an average of 701 local and long - distance telephone calls each during 1968.

Canadians had been the most talkative people in the world in every year since 1951 but thy dropped to second with 693 conversations per capita in 1968,, the most recent year for which statistics are available.

There were also a lot more telephones to accommodate all this talk. In 1968 their number increased by 16 million to a world total of 238 million.

The United States led with the absolute most — 109,256,000 — but second -place Japan with 20,525,000 had the highest ratio of telephones to population — 54 for every 100 persons.

Tokyo alone had 3,641,000 Ameches, almost as many as the state of Ohio. New York City had 5,723,353, but according to local citizens most of those often didn't work.

Mose than 200 countries and territories are now on speaking terms with 97 per cent of the world's 238 million telephones.

Clearly a lot of gab is being spread around by Mr. Bell's invention. But how much understanding?

An author, once accustomed to making large royalties from writing books, told me that he could no longer afford 'the luxury of writing'. He meant that sales of new books were so meager that he made little money.

I repeated this to a bookseller and his comment was interesting.

'Your friend,' he said, 'is the victim of a delusion that handicaps millions of people. Some men havythe idea that they can't afford to be the president of a corporation at a salary of less than $100,000 a year, and other men think they can't afford to lay bricks for less than $25 a day. I say that at no time is any man worth more than he can get. If I put a minimum price on my time, I never could have stayed in the bookselling business. By adjusting myself to the realities of my situation, however, I have been able to make a living for twenty years.'

LAY TAX COMPLICITY TO MARGINAL RATE SETUP

"It is not necessary to look very far for the principal source of the ever - increasing complexity of the income tax ... it is the progressively graduated marginal rate structure," Norman B. Ture of the Planning Research Corpoeation told attendees at the 21st National Tax Conference.

This rate structure, said Ture, Principal of thycorporation's Economics Department, has exerted "enormous pressures" for changes in the law to afford exceptions from the full application of the high, graduated rates with respect to particular goups of taxpayers.

"It should be obvious", Ture said, "that the search for tax shelters will continue so long as marginal rate graduation continues to afford such strong incentives for tax shelters.

Progressively graduated marginal tax rates, he said, can hardly be justified in terms of their contributions to the total revenues.

NOT ONE CENT FROM TAXPAYERS

From the standpoint of capital investment, the investor-owned light and power industry is the largest industry in the nation, according to the chairman of the Federal Power Commission, Mr. Lee C. White. this means that it takes more dollass to buy the machinery to generate a given amount of electricity than it does to produce anything else. When an electric company expands to meet growing energy requirements of an area, it adds heavily to community payrolls, tax revenue and opportunities for industrial development.

Typical of investor - owned utility expansion taking place all over the country is that of a single power company in the state of Utah. A press release describes the investment program of this company calling for the expenditure of $223 million throughout its service area in Utah, southeast Idaho, Wyoming and Colorado during the next five years. The president of the company points out that its expansion plans call for investment at an average of $3,75 million each month over the next 60 months. One hundred and thirty - four million dollars of the $223 million program will be in "new money" from voluntary investors all over the nation. The remaining amount will be generated within the company from earnings. Translated into energy, the five - year investment will result in new generating c·pacity sufficient to supply the needs of a city of about ,75 million people in addition to necessary transmission, distribution lines, substations and other equipment.

The most significant aspect of this power development story from Utah is the source of the money. It should be noted well that the taxpayers of other states are not being called upon to pay the cost of providing "cheap power" for privileged customers half a continent or more away. This is the great difference between tax-supported commercial government ventures and taxpaying, investor - owned private enterprise.

H.L. Hunt Says

RETALIATION

Harassment of U.S. citizens in Russia has broadened the chasm between the two countries and heightened tensions on both sides. The Russians have shoved Americans and commited vandalism on their automobiles. These deplorable acts came in the wake of a bomb explosion at a Russian installation in this country.

These incidents are regrettable and all are inexcusable. It would be well if both governments put a halt to these outrages. Undoubtedly, the authorities of this county will attempt to identify and apprehend the bombers. But it is unlikely that the Russians will stop the indignities being heaped on U.S. citizens presently in the U.S.S.R.

Unlawful acts in both countries call attention to differences in the philosophies of the two nuclear giants. The Russians offered no excuses or apologies for the untoward conduct of their citizens. This nation did announce its intentions of preventing similar bombing offenses.

With the end of a clumsy and one-sided alliance in World War II, the powers of the nuclear age went their own diplomatic ways. Moscow, with all its secrecy and intrigue, has constantly made a sham of diplomatic intercourse with Washington. Expansion and aggression have been the communist keynotes rather than the time-tested instruments of diplomacy. It is to be hoped that a criminal or lunatic in this nation doesn't push us even closer to atomic confrontation via the senseless exploding of dynamite in a pipe at a Russian installation. HLH

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--Literally thousands of government officials, researchers, speech writers, assorted aides and assistants have contributed to President Nixon's State of the Union speech. For weeks, they have been digging up facts, suggesting ideas and polishing up prose for the Great Address.

One White House aide, apologetically to be sure, even came up with a quotation from Richard Goodwin, a speechwriter for former President's Kennedy and Johnson. Goodwin's liberalism would taint his ideas in the eyes of most White House inhabitants today. Nevertheless, aide Andrew Rouse, in an internal memo full of ideas for selling the President's government reorganization plan to the public, wrote:

"Bureaucracy as a form of organization tends to contort policy to existing structures rather than adjusting structures to reflect change in policy. Richard Goodwin (who perhaps I should not be quoting) said 'structure is policy.'"

Inside the White House, the reorganization has stirred more excitement than any other presidential proposal. Rouse submitted two lengthy memos, one dated December 31, the other January 2, with his suggestions on how to present the reorganization in the State of Union message.

"Government organizations have not, will not, and probably cannot change themselves..." he wrote. "Every once in awhile, it is important to wrench government organizations so as to adjust them to current realities. In doing so, we recognize that in ten years the system will be once again completely out of whack."

HIGHER TAXES

Citing the money that can be saved from eliminating government duplication, Rouse stated bluntly: "It is quite evident that there will be a demand for more funds in the foreseeable future...People, when they consider the demands for new taxes, often ask the question, will they help? Will I get my money's worth? The answer to that question today, I am sure, is usually no, the money goes down a rat hole....

"Reorganization of government structure both in Washington and in the field signals government's determination to make sure people get their money's worth. The receptivity of the nation to more taxation will never be enthusiatic. But considering that new taxation is probably inevitable, reorganization can help make the reception of the news positive."

He pointed out several examples of government overlap, wast and rivalry that should be eliminated by the President's proposed reorganization. Typical examples:

"The Bureau of Reclamation, the Corps of Engineers and the Soil Conservation Service are each involved in water development projects," wrote Rouse. "It is not uncommon for three agencies to complete projects on the same river such that the project of one interferes with the effect of the project of the other."

The Economic Development Administration's structure, he said, "evolved quickly out of the necessity to start shoveling money. The agency had a waiting list of potential grantees compiled before it had an office."

WASHINGTON EXPOSE

HOSPITAL COSTS --We have been flooded with calls, letters and copies of medical bills since we wrote recently about hospital and health insurances costs. But none was more astonishing than the case of a lady clerk who went to a hospital for treatment of a minor injury. Her hospital bill included the charges for circumcision. A short time later, at a Virginia hospital, a burly construction worker hobbled into a hospital with a hurt leg. He came out with a bill that included a $25 delivery room fee. Both these cases were confirmed by the Kemper Insurance companies, which caught the overcharges. They gave us another: two workers, both in need of glass eyes, were sent off to different opticians. One optician charged $75, the other $275 for the same kind of glass eye. No wonder hospital costs soar by 151 per cent every 10 years.

ARMY SPYING--The brass hats apparently don't intend to cooperate with the two congressional committees that are investigating the Army's practice of spying on civilians. A memo, intended for the eyes of Washington's 116th Military Intelligence Group, directs: "All files, records and information in the possession of the executive branch is privileged and is not releasable to any part of the legislative branch without the specific direction of the President. Any request for information received by any member of this unit from anyone representing the legislative branch will be referred to the commanding officer, deputy commanding officer or operations officer." Army sources tell us that much of the information about civilians was slipped to Army Intelligence by the FBI, which doesn't want the raw data to leak to Congress.

FOOTBALL AIRLIFT--We recently reported that 14 Air Force generals used Air Force planes to fly to the Sugar Bowl football game in New Orleans. We have now learned 11 Air National Guard planes were also deployed to airlife 500 cadets to watch their Air Force Academy lose to the University of Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl. The planes were rounded up from such farflung points as Washington, D.C., Cheyenne, Wyo. Martinsburg, W.Va., Dallas, Phoenix, Van Nuys, Calif., and Nashville and Knoxville, Tenn. About 30 crewmen received full pay and allowances, plus $25 per diem and free tickets to the game.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

BLUE REVOLT: New York Cops Pull Nation's First Law and Order Political Strike.

NEW YORK: -- Late in the evening of Thursday, Jan. 14 power in this town passed to the people -- 25,000 of them. But they weren't the "people" campus crowds chant about. They were the cops. They truly were the power. No governor, no mayor, no city council, no union leaders could move the.

They struck. It was no "job action." It was purely and simply I believe, a political strike move.

Thus for the first time in the history of American law and order, the forces which took an oath to puphold the safety of the people went out on a political strike. Having happened in New York, it will happen again and again. Those who've shouted Pig now have polarized the police -- and in turn have catalyzed the era of strikes by which the people who work for the people no longer will feel strained to withhold their labor, their guns, muscles, brains or any other skill which moves the mechanixm of government.

Note well what happened as 85 per cent of the cops of the biggest and most powerul force in the land staged their precinct sit-ins. They permitted their contract to run only 14 days past the New Year's Eve expiration. They struck without giving the city the usual run for its money -- which it doesn't have being short some $300,000,000in operating cash. They sat in allegedly because the Court of Appeals had told them to bring their suit for $2,700 in retroactive pay to a Supreme Court jury trial . The cops refused to go out on emergency duty -- though the fire fighters had, or as railway union leader Les Dennis had promised tomove commuters, coal to power stations and defense material.

Yet behind the scenes these cops, who do well indeed,had been pledged retroactivity. Their pay is fine. Like other police, it's gone up 45 per cent in the past five years. They can retire with half pay at any age after "20". They can go out after "15" with good pension rights. They can retire on full pay after 35 years at any age -- meaning as early as 56 years. Compare this with the auto workers' $500-a-month pension after 30 years.

They have fantastic fringe benefits, one of the best drug and dental plans, full hospitalization and surgery. They can go sick for a year. They're covered for life.

When this new contract eventually is signed, they'll be earning over $13,000 at least. Half of them live in the suburbs and few begrudge them this. Why then did they give the city just 14days before they set a precedent from which there will be a chain reaction in municipalities across the U.S.? Why did they leave 8 million people and hundreds of thousands of visitors unprotected in a city with 275,000 drug addicts responsible for 70 per cent of the crime -- compulsive crime but nonetheless deadly?

This was rank-and-file action. This was the response to power to the people. This was the reaction -- if they can do it why not us -- to the uproar on the campus.

Remember that cops are people and people are young these days. The Patrolmen's Benevolent Assn. (P.B.A.) tells me some 60 per cent of its members are under 30 years of age; and most of them are between 24 and 28 years ; and most of them have been 3 and 5 years "on the job."

These young men are tough. During a recent TV interview they stood in the background and mocked their leaders shouting language which has been turned into the new culture by a dozen institutes of higher learning. They weren't blaspheming the newsmen - just their leaders who were attempting to show some responsibility.

And some weeks ago some of them revolted at the 19th precinct (near the Soviet embassy.). Not wanting to touch off a city-wide strike, the superior officers actually punished no one-- though the men were as wrong as an LSD trip. They actually sat down in protest against an investigation of corruption in the Police Dept.

Well, now that 25,000 New York cops have struck because they hate the mayor; because they're frustrated; because they loathe being reviled by the militants; because they fear their image in their home communities, what happens?

The very same thing which this column predicted exactly five years ago after some 32,000 men struck New York's transit facilities. Nothing then would be sacred not hospitals, not fire houses, not police stations, not garbage collections, Nothing.

And certainly not the federal government. There were airport strikes and that grim postal strike last March.

And now that anything goes, there may be another stoppage as Moe Biller's militant Manhattan-Bronx Postal Union, the 35,00 member affiliate of the National Postal Union, bristles over internal union negotiations. There may be a strike of workers against some Pentagon operation. Nothing will be sacred or immune.

The world will be if the New York Police -- the big town's first line of defense -- can strike in defiance of the people, the mayor, the courts, the governor, why can't we?

No doubt this will hurt the AFL-CIO's new drive for laws in 50 states which would give the public employe the same right to strike as those workers in the private sector. AFL-CIO Vice President Matty Guinan, president of the Transport Workers Union (he succeeded Mike Quill) has headed a committee which drew up model municipal right-to-strike and anti-injunction laws. Chief labor lobbyist Andy Biemiller has just dispatched copies to all central state labor groups. How can they now expect sympathy for their cause in state legislature? True, the New York patrolmen's Benevolent Assn. is an independent outfit. True, Jerry Wurf's Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes' police locals are forbidden to strike.

But what care the rank and file now about leaders? They like slot machine unionism. They put in their dues and they want the jackpot each time. If not, then the hell with their leaders. Well, power has passed on to some people.

Obviously now some people are more equal than others.

LINWOOD, Kan. (AP)— The Linwood High School boys wrestling team has a new coach—23 year-old Clara Shub.

Mrs. Shub was named to the post last week. Her principal duties at the 90-student school in Leavenworth County are as teacher of vocal and instrumental music for both the high school and the seeventh and eighth grades.

She took the job of wrestling coach because the boys wanted to compete and none of the male staff members at the school felt able to handle the job.

"I grew up in western Kansas, where wrestling is big," she said, when asked about her qualifications for the coaching job.

She comes from Atwood, Kan., and she and her husband, Charles Shub, a candidate for a doctor of philosophy degree in computer science at the University of Kansas, are avid sports fans. They live in Lawrence, Kan.

The school is not a member of any regular league but plans to enter various state-approved meets. The team was entered in the 126, 145, 157 and 165pound classes Saturday in a regional tournament at Tonganoxie.

Cougars Here Monday

How do you chart offensive and defensive plans against a team you haven't seen play all season?

"We'll go with our regular offense and assign matchups on defense according to size and speed," said Memphis Coach Babe McCarthy whose Pros engage the Carolina Cougars for the first time this season here Monday night.

The 8 o'clock American Basketball Association regular season game will be held in the Sikeston Public School Field House. A 7 o'clock preliminary game will match a local church league all-star team against a team composed of church league coaches.

Because of scheduling problems and arena availability difficulties, the Pros and Cougars are the only two ABA teams who haven't clashed this season. They played six times last year, but only four players remain from the 1969-70 Cougar team that won three and lost three against McCarthy's club which was then located in New Orleans.

"They have what appears to be a fine ball club," said McCarthy. "I've been watching their box scores and have talked with other coaches in the league. They are certainly better than their record would indicate."

The Cougar roster contains several familiar names to most knowledgeable basketball buffs. The most prominent is "Pogo Joe" Caldwell, 6-5 forward who jumped to the ABA after six seasons in the NBA' Caldwell, a former St. Louis and Atlanta Hawk star, is the Cougars' top scorer and ranks 10th among the loop's top scorers with a 22.7 average.

Three other ex-NBA players are on the Cougar squad. Two are former Hawks. One is Dave Newmark, 7-1 center from Columbia. The other is George Lehmann, 6-3 guard from Campbell. Backing up Newmark at center is Rich Johnson, 6-10 second-year man from Grambling and a member of the Boston Celtics last season.

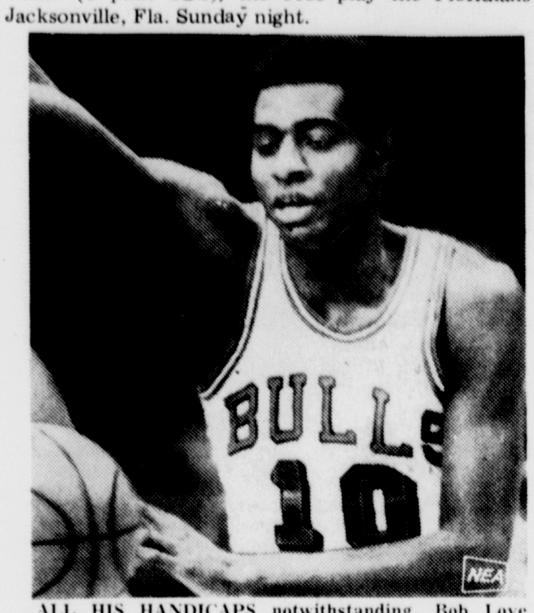

A pair of former collegiate All-Americans play in the backcourt for Carolina. They are Bob Verga, 6-1, Duke, and Larry Miller, 6-5, North Carolina.

McCarthy said he wasn't definitely decided on his defensive matchups for Monday's game, but indicated he would likely assign rookie Wendell Ladner, 6-5, Southern Mississippi, to go against Caldwell. He is sure to put Steve Jones on Miller and James Jones on the deadly shooting Verga,who is averaging 20.2.

"I'm not sure about the other two matchups," McCarthy said. "I may start Wilbert Jones at forward and Gerald Govan in the middle or I may go with Govan at forward and put 6-11 Craig Raymond on Newmark."

Tickets for Monday night's game are on sale at the principal's office at the Sikeston High School.

Following Saturday's nationally televised ABA All-Star Game (1 p.m. CBS), the Pros play the Floridians in Jacksonville, Fla. Sunday night.

Passing Show

LOS ANGELES (AP)— John Brodie of the San Francisco 49ers and Daryle Lamonica of the Oakland Raiders will be the starting quarterbacks Sunday when the greatest collection of talent in pro football history tangles in the first Pro Bowl matching stars of the American and National conference.

Unlike past all-star clashes, this game, which will be nationally televised by CBS starting at 1 p.m., PST, is expected to be played to its fullest — with no prohibitions on blitzing or any other arrangements made between the coaches.

With NFC Coach Dick Nolan naming Brodie and AFC Coach John Madden naming Lamonica a passing show is expected for the clash of 81 of the National Football League's top stars in a contest heightened by elements of the old AFL-NFL rivalry.

For as much as anything this is a test of prestige for the combatants on each side following a season in which the NFC won 27 games and the AFC 12 in head-on meetings. The AFC's Baltimore Colts grabbed the Super Bowl over the NFC's Dallas Cowboys.

That pride in conference may be the major reason no gentlemen's agreements have been reached between the coaches to guard against an all-out battle.

That not only offers the prospect of a major offensive battle with all the major statistical leaders on hand, but a hardhitting defensive struggle revolving around savage front fours.

Aiming at Brodie will be an AFC front four that totals over 1,100 pounds—6-foot-7, 295-pound Bubba Smith of Baltimore, 6-7, 287-pound Buck Buchanan of Kansas City, 6-4, 270-pound Joe Greene of Pittsburgh and 6-3, 256-pound Rich Jackson of Denver.

Lamonica, meanwhile, will have to contend with a lighter, but quicker NFC quartet of 6-5, 250-pound Deacon Jones of Los Angeles, 6-5, 260-pound Bob Lilly of Dallas, 6-4, 250-pound Alan Page of Minnesota and 6-6, 255pound Carl Eller of the Vikings.

That creates several interesting match-ups. Jones will be going against 6-6, 270 tackle Jim Tyrer of Kansas City and Lilly against the Chiefs' 6-5, 260 pound guard Ed Budde. On the other side, two Rams — tackle Charlie Cowan and guard Tom Mack — will have to handle Smith and Buchanan, respectively.

With the battle along the lines ensured, the most explosive performers in the NFL will begin parading their talents.

The NFC offensive unit named by Nolan to start includes 1,000-yard receiver Gene Washington of the 49ers and 1,000-yard ground gainer Larry Brown of Washington. Two other 1,000-yard producers, — receiver Dick Gordon of Chicago and running back Ron Johnson of the Giants, wait their turn.

Brodie's other weapons at the start will be another receiver named Gene Washington, of the Vikings, tight end Charlie Sanders of Detroit and running back MacArthur Lane of St. Louis.

The AFC-starting offensive and defensive units are dominated by the Raiders and the Chiefs. Oakland will have six players on the offensive side and one on defense while Kansas City has two on offense and five on defense.

Lamonica will have two of his own receivers in Warren Wells and tight end Raymond Chester plus a familar running back in Hewritt Dixon and two line mates—center Jim Otto and tackle Harry Schuh. Receiver Gary Garrison of San Diego and running back Leroy Kelly fill out his complement of starting offensive weapons.

In reserve on the bench will be the conferences leadg rusher, Floyd Little of Denver, and top receiver, Marlin Briscoe of Buffalo.

Defensively, the Raiders starter is cornerback Willie Brown while the Chiefs are Buchanan, linebackers Willie Lanier and Bobby Bell, cornerback Jim Marsalis and safety Johnny Robinson.

In addition to prestige, the players will be battling for winner's shares of $2,000 each, with $1,500 going to each member of the losing team. If the teams are tied at the end of regulation time, they will play sudden death to determine the outcome.

Fame Voters Throw Curve

NEW YORK (AP) — Thrown a curve by the baseball writers, Yogi Berra, Early Wynn and Ralph Kiner face an even tougher task of gaining admittance to baseball's Hall of Fame next year when left-handed pitching ace Sandy Koufax becomes eligible.

Koufax, who hurled four nohitters and established numerous major league strikeout marks during his illustriouscareer with the Los Angeles Dodgers, will pass his five-year waiting period next year.

The Baseball Writers Association of America slammed the door—at least for this year—on top vote-getters Berra, Wynn and Kiner Thursday when they failed to draw the necessary 270 votes, or 75 per cent mention, on the 360 ballots.

Berra, the former New York Yankee catcher, who came closest with 240 votes in his first year of eligibility, was philosophical, saying: "Maybe next year." But he added: "It gets tougher every year with new men becoming eligible."

Kiner, the former Pittsburgh slugger who finished third in the balloting with 212 votes, echoed Berra's feelings:

"You can always say there will be another. But there is no surety. You have new men coming in. Next year there will be Sandy Koufax among others."

While Berra and Kiner were disappointed, yet hopeful, Wynn, who won 300 games during his career that spanned three decades (1939-1963) with Cleveland, Washington and the Chicago White Sox, said:

"It's a damn shame they don't put somebody in. I'd rather see someone, anyone, get in. It's a letdown. I can't tell you how I really feel. The language would be embarrassing."

Berra got some consolation from the fact that his old teammate Joe DiMaggio also failed to gain the Hall of Fame on his first try.

Ted Williams, Stan Musial, Bob Feller and Jackie Robinson previously were elected the first time they were eligible. Baseball writers with at least 10 years experience took part in the voting.

The Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y., may land new inductees this year when the Hall's Veterans Committee votes Jan. 31 on executives and players who have been inactive for more than 20 years.

Turkey Season Set

JEFFERSON CITY--Missouri turkey hunters will have a longer season from April 22 through May 2. Three new counties will be added to the open area--Benton, Maries and Oregon. There will be 44 counties open.

Primary advantage of a longer season is to overcome the effects of adverse weather on gobbling activity and to increase the possibility of having the season open during the peak of gobbling activity.

Good hatches the last two years have led to a good population increase in wild turkeys. The longer season should result in a larger bag by turkey hunters who last year killed a record 1614 gobblers.

Spring turkey hunting takes advantage of a male turkey's inability to keep from opening his mouth to let his lady turkey friends know where he is.

But bad weather in past seasons has slowed gobbling activity and kept hunters from scoring.

Limit will be one male turkey or turkey with a visible beard, as in past seasons. Shooting hours will be from 5 A.M. and noon, Central Standard Time.

Legal weapons are shotgun with shot shell or longbow. Open counties include Adair, Barry, Benton, Bollinger, Butler, Callaway, Camden, Carter, Cedar, Crawford, Dent, Douglas, Franklin, Gasconade, Hickory, Howell, Iron, Jefferson, Madison, Maries, McDonald, Miller, Monroe, Montgomery, Morgan, New Madrid, Oregon, Osage, Ozark, Perry, Phelps, Pulaski, Reynolds, Shannon, St. Clair, Ste. Genevieve, St. Francois, Stone, Sullivan, Taney, Texas, Warren, Washington and Wayne.

All turkeys must be tagged and checked between 7 A.M. and 3 P.M. at a checking station in the county where taken or an adjoining one on the day taken.

Whiling Away The Hours

COLUMBIA--If you haven't got anything better to do, stop by and help Dick Vaught count 107,000 pinholes in a picture.

Vaught, waterfowl biologist for the Department of Conservation, has that little project on the boards now. "It takes quite a little time," he says with the understatement of the year.

On Jan. 5, the Department helped in the annual statewide waterfowl count, administered throughout the Mississippi flyway by the U.S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife.

Vaught took aerial photos about 400 feet over three waterfowl areas--Swan Lake, the Dalton Cutoff and the Missouri River. At the same time, he estimated the number of waterfowl he saw at 107,000.

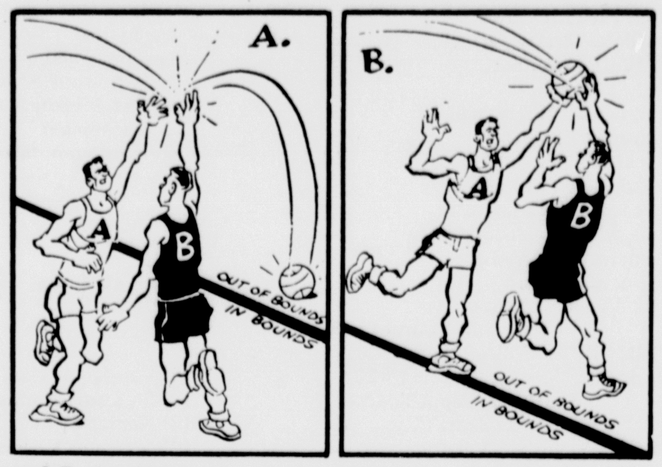

He'll take the blown-up prints of the pictures, put a pinhole everwhere he sees a goose or duck, then illuminate the print from behind. . . and start counting.

That is, he and waterfowl biologists Karl Slagle and Ken Babcock and some of the secretaries in the Columbia Game and Fish Research Center and anyone he can shanghaii will do it.

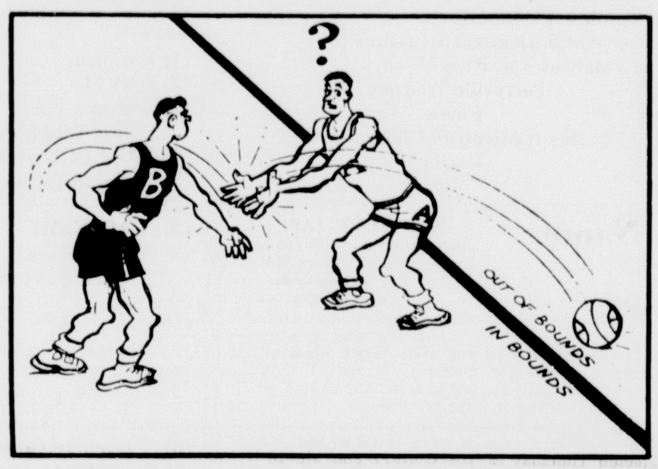

"We've checked ourselves like this eight or 10 times over the years," Vaught says. "We come out plus or minus five per cent from our eyeball count. We have been within two per cent."

BASKETBALL RULES

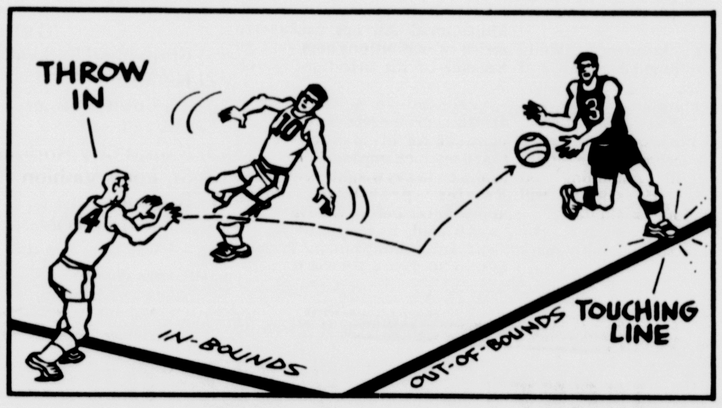

Simplified and Illustrated

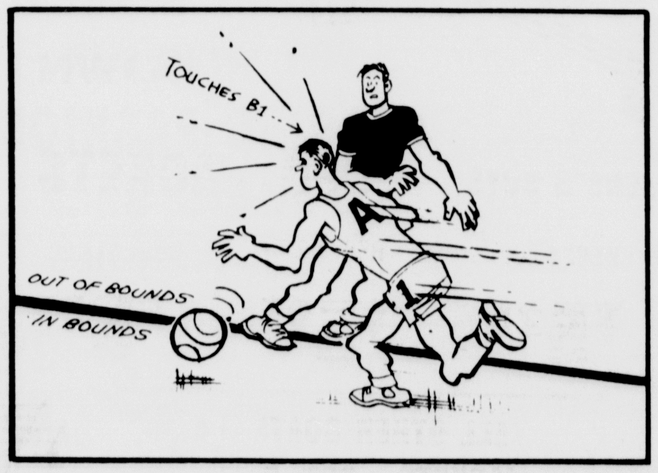

If A and B simultaneously touch a ball before it goes out-of-bounds or if A and B simultaneously touch a ball while they are both out-of-bounds or if the officials disagree as to who caused the ball to go out, play is resumed by a jump-ball at the nearest circle between the two players involved.

If A is holding the ball and B knocks it out of his hands to out-of-bounds it is A's ball out.

Player is not out of bounds when he touches a player who is out of bounds.

Hayti Ranked 4th in State

Nine SEMO cage quintets were selected among the top 10 in their respective class after polling three of the state's major newspapers, Globe-Democrat; Kansas City Star; and Springfield News and Leader; and a well known source in the Central Missouri area.

Undefeated Hayti, sporting an unblemished 15-0 season slate, rated the highest of the Southeast representatives, holding down the number two spot in Class M behind defending state M champ, Hermann. Coach Bill Beck's Indians were rated fourth in the entire state.

SEMO's only other undefeated quintet, Van Buren's Bulldogs, placed third in the Class M ratins behind defending S champion New Haven and tourney finalest, Skyline.

Charleston and Notre Dame of Cape Girardeau rated fifth in their respective Class L and M division while Leadwood was eighth in M; Parma eighth in S; Richland of Essex ninth in M and Delta 10th in S.

Charleston was the eighth ranked team in the overall poll of the three classes.

Pros. Top Floridians

ABA Roundup
By THE ASSOCIAED PRESS

If Memphis can make as much progress off the court as the Pros are making on it, the troubled American Basketball Association franchise ought to be in good shape again soon.

The Pros stung the Floridians 116-106 Thursday night in Nashville, Tenn., while Memphis citizens scurried around, trying to raise enough cash to insure keeping the financially troubled team in Memphis.

Another $30,000 was pledged Thursday by individuals trying to keep the Pros in Memphis. That raised the total pledged so far to $230,000. An estimated $800,000 is needed. The ABA has been operating the team since December when owner P.L. Blake withdrew, citing $200,000 in losses in 60 days.

On the court, the Pros are doing quite well, thank you. They've won seven of their last nine games and used their three Jones boys to wear out the Floridians Thursday night.

The Jones trio had 64 points, 27 by Jimmy, 20 by Steve and 17 by Wilbert. Mack Calvin, the ABA's No. 2 scorer, led the losers with 24.

Indiana strung eight straight points in the final minutes to break an 80-80 tie and whip Denver. The losers went 2 minutes, 17 second without a point during the Pacers' hot streak.

Oilers Name New Coach

HOUSTON (AP)—Ed Hughes says he believes the Houston Oilers can provide fans with an exciting and winning ball club.

Hughes, 43, offensive assistant for the San Francisco 49ers, was selected Thursday as the Oilers new head coach.

He signed a five-year contract at an undisclosed salary and in so doing accepted his first head coaching job after 12 years as an assistant.

Hughes announced he was retaining Walt Schlinkman, defensive backs, and Fran Polsfoot, receivers, the only assistants still remaining on Lemm's staff. He said he will select four more assistants.

The Oilers, riddled by injuries, fell to a 3-10-1 mark last season.

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Joan Shipman Payson, Jack Dempsey and Willard Mullin will be honored Tuesday, Jan. 26 by the National Cartoonists Society at its annual sports night.

Mrs. Payson, main owner of the New York Mets and part owner of Greentree Stable, will be honored as the No. 1 lady of sports. Dempsey, former world heavyweight boxing champion, is being feted as the Athlete of the Century and Mullin as the Sports Cartoonist of the Century.

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Heavyweight boxer Muhammad Ali has canceled a series of exhibitions here Jan. 22 because of his title fight March 8.

Ali said in a telegram to Dayton promoters Tuesday his contract for his Madison Square Garden championship bout against heavyweight king Joe Frazier prohibited boxing appearances before the fight.

Ali said, however, he would fight in exhibition in Dayton within 30 days after the title tilt.

A new plan to give farmers the credit they deserve
LAND BANK OPEN - END FARM LOAN
Why shouldn't farmers be able to use their equity in farm land for capital credit needs as they come along without having to get a new loan each time additional capital funds are needed?
ANSWER: They should and they can under the OPEN-END plan. As a qualified borrower, you can obtain the money you need now -- additional funds for any eligible purpose may be borrowed at a later date, up to the predetermined level of credit established for a specified period. Ron Jaynes' SPORTS CORNER

BASKETBALL in Southeast Missouri early in the season was a real challenge to predict, but after Tuesdsy night's 14 of 16 showing, think we've finally got the situation analyzed ... At least we hope so.

Tonight's schedule will be a good testing grounds as a number of top clashes are on tap.

Before we get down to the job at hand, we'd like to remind those of you wanting to comment ... pro or con ... on our column or any other facet of the sports pages ..... Please sign your name to the correspondents so that we may print it .... A recent letter from someone claiming to be a member of the Bluejay basketball team will not be printed for lack of signature.

Now ... On with the show. (Sounds like Mike Jensen's Column)

ADVANCE AT RICHLAND -- Many area teams make claim to playing the toughest schedule ... But the Richland Rebels layout of games must rank among the top ... Here they are going against Stoddard County rival .. AHS. Both teams have displayed explosive offenses this season and the key to this victory will be which one will ignite first ... We think the Rebels ... RHS 84, AHS 73.

CLARKTON AT HAYTI -- It's the teams that you don't expect to pull the upsets ... that do ... The Reindeer aren't near the team their 1-11 record may indicate ... they're much better ... and if the Tribe don't watch out the Deer could knock them from the unbeaten ranks ... We doubt it though ... Hayti 98, Clarkton 68.

POPLAR BLUFF AT KENNETT --After somewhat of a showing of poise in the Bloomfield tournament ... the KHS Tribe have returned to early season form ... It hasn't been an enjoyable season for the Indians, who have had bad nights connecting with the basket and still worst nights throwing up a defense ... They might snap out of it tonight against the rival L visiting Mules ... We see a close encounter with the score ... Poplar Bluff 61, Kennett 57.

SIKESTON AT LILBOURN -- Coach N.P. McDaniel's Bulldogs showed they can play with the best in Southeast Missouri last Firday evening .... They'll be facing one of the best tonight ... We see a close contest ... with the BULLDOG VICTORY... Sikeston 78, Lilbourn 70.

HOLCOMB AT PARMA -- The Pirates speed, defense and sharp shooting on the home court and before the home town fans will be too much for the Hornets to overcome ... Vance Pawielski will get his chance to star again in the late minutes of the contest ... Another one point bank for the 4-foot -2 cager ... Parma 66, Holcomb 50

NEW MADRID AT TWIN RIVERS -- If the Royals keep improving as they have ... Don't count them out at Regional time ... But don't count them in yet either ... especially in this contest with the Indians. Pressure has been the Royals' biggest object to overcome ... and they'll face it tonight ... New Madrid 68, Twin Rivers 56.

MALDEN AT BLOOMFIELD -- We've gone with the Wildcats one too many times this season ... No more though ... The Greenwave Cagers will prevail.. Malden 71, Bloomfield 50.

NORTH PEMISCOT AT PORTAGEVILLE -- In years past, whenever these two have met, ... its gone right down to the wire ... This match should be no different. The Mustangs have lost three of its last four games, while the Bulldogs have shown signs of peaking ... A little more defense on PHS's part and they'll knock off the NPHS cagers ... We don't see that big effort though ... North Pem 72, Portageville 62.

BERNIE AT WOODLAND -- Both of these two quintets were rated high in early season polls of projected SEMO powers ... but have been among the so - called "door mats" so far ... It's an extra hard game to predict ... but we'll stick our necks out and say Bernie 64, Woodland 63.

RISCO AT SENATH -HORNERSVILLE -- An earlier match between this two foes proved the Lions the best ... but it took a late quarter surge to post the win ... The Tigers will again prove a real test for the host ... but SHHS will prevail... 70, 62.

We see Ellsinore over Lesterville; Parkway West beating Cape Central South Pemiscot over Campbell, Fredericktown defeating Potosi; Clearwater edging Greenville; Van Buren adding their 18th; South Iron turning back Bunker; St. Vincent dumping Arcadia Valley; Leadwood over Ste. Genevieve; Flat River edging Bismark and Leopold topping Cape St. Vincent.

Keep these names in mind ...

The Sikeston Archery Club again topped the Cape Girardeau Archery Club in a rematch, with a total score of 2,719 to Cape's 2,493.

High scorers for the clubs were Pat Bishop of Sikeston with a 296 and Wendell Kerr of Cape with a 281.

Archers from Sikeston were:
Pat Bishop, Steve Duke, Rex Mullendore, Robert Karnes, Bobbie Taylor, Donald Lynn, Jean Ann Nicholson, Bill Headlee, Bobby Hooper and Mike Duke.

Archers from Cape were:
Allen Cox, Toney Sebek, Jon Limbaugh, Jim Johnson, Kitty Murphy, Paul Linell, Betty Kerr, Lon Murphy, Stan Turner and Wendell Kerr.

Team shoots will start Sunday, January 24. Anyone interested can obtain information at D. & M. Archery Lanes in Sikeston.

Coach Dan Devine named the first of his new Green Bay Packer coaching staff Thursday — Dae Hanner, who has been with the team 13 years as player and six as defensive line coach.

As part of his coaching duties, Hanner had been in charge of scouting in the Big Eight Conference and has known Devine personally from visits to the University of Missoui campus.

Amos Otis had the best hitting for the Kansas City Royals in 1970 when he went 5-for-5 against the Cleveland Indians on May 2.

Jim Rooker proved again a pitcher can help himself in more ways than one when he collected three game-winning hits in 1970 for the Kansas City Royals.

Braves Bobcats

SCOTT CITY — Scott County Central gunned down Delta 71-60 to set the state for Saturday night's championship bout in the Scott-Mississippi conference tournament varsity bracket, where the Braves go against rival Kelly at 8:30 p.m. Illmo-Scott City knocked off Oran in a JV-clash Thursday to move into the title bout of that division against another Kelly quintet at 7 p.m.

A balanced scoring attack lifted coach Ron Cookson's sharp-shooting Braves into the finals and past the second seeded Bobcats. The Braves had five players in double figures, with Sophomore Louis Wheeler leading the attack with 16 points. John Fort added 15; along with Robbie Phillips while Charles Watson chipped in 13 and Denny Alcorn 12.

The Braves rebounded from a 19-12 firs period deficit into a 37-34 half time lead and added to the lead in each of the third and fourth quarters.

Bill Hanlon the smallest man on the court at 5-foot-8, led the Bobcats offense with 15 points.

I-SC bounced from an 11-4 first period deficit to unend the favored Eagle quintet behind the 27 point scoring performance of Rick Amick. Oran got 15 points from Bruce Roberts.

Consolation finals are set tonight.

Ann Landers

Vasectomy Not Legal in Conn, Maybe Texas

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you stated in your column that the vasectomy was legal in all states. This is to inform you that Section 17-19 of the Connecticut General Statutes allows vasectomy only on individuals who "would produce children with an inherited tendency to crime, mental illness or mental deficiency." Furthermore, Section 53-33 of the Connecticut General Statutes makes it illegal for anyone to perform, assist in, or otherwise promote the performance of the operation described in Section 17-19.

The penalty for violation of this statute is a fine of not more than $1,000 or imprisonment for not more than five years or both.

Your advice seems to be in violation of Section 53-33 since you appear to be promoting vasectomy in situations where there is no medical necessity. ----D.C.R. (Hartford Attorney)

Dear Hart: I appreciate your writing and I stand corrected. Your letter hints that I may be subject to a $1,000 fine and five years in stir, on the grounds that I am promoting vascetomy. I am not a promoter. I am a columnist who expressed views on a variety of subjects. Birth control is one of those subjects. I believe that people who want to limit the size of their families should be free to utilize any technique which they consider suitable for them -- without interference from church or state.

Dear Ann Landers: Vasectomy is not legal in Texas because it may constitute legal mutiliation, which is defined as depriving an organ of its function. ---H.A.T. (M.D.)

Dear Doc: I hope one day in the not-too-distant future the Texas legislators will acknowledxge the fact that some organs have more than one function. Thank for letting me know that they have not yet reached this point.

Dear Ann Landers: How far should a mother go to save her married daughter from destruction? Her husband gambles and she is alone every night with her baby. The suppers gets cold on the table and she worries that maybe he is dead in a ditch somewhere. She can't work because of poor health. I'm sure most of her sickness is from worrying about bills and where her husband is. When she threatens to leave him he cries and says he needs her. They argue all the time about unpaid bills and her being alone so much.

If her health was good I would mind my own business but I feel it is my duty to help my daughter before she has a complete breakdown. The only solution I can see is for her to get rid of that no-good bum. How can I get this across to her? ---A Grieving Mon

Dear Mom: When your daughter has had enough punishment she will throw the bum out. In the meantime, stay out of it. No one can save anybody. Everyone must save himself. If your daughter reads my colum she might be interested in the address of Gamblers Anonymous -- just in case her husband decides HE has had enough and wants to cure himself of this illness and lead a decent life. It's GAMBLERS ANONYMOUS, Box, M, Norwalk, California 90650

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marrige will work? Read Ann Landers' booklet "Marriage -- What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of Daily Sikeston Standard enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Mrs. Carol A. McMeachin, 28, expecting her second child in June, doesn't want to leave her classroom.

Mrs. McMeachin said she advised the board in writing Dec. 9 that she did not wish to leave but heard nothing until she was notified last week that a replacement had been hired.

She argues that she did not apply for leave, nor does she want it.

"I will not resign and in order to be replaced I will have to be fired," she told the board.

The board said Monday night it would like to have more time to consider the matter.

Mrs. McMeachin presented a letter from her doctor stating that from a medical standpoint she could continue working until she develops labor pains.

Nixon Invites Home Pastor to Conduct White House Service

WASHINGTON (AP)--President Nixon has chosen the pastor of his California church to conduct Sunday the first White House worship service of 1971.

The clergyman is T. Eugene Coffin of the East Whittier Friends Church, of which the President remains a member despite long residence in New York and Washington.

Case for God: Part IV

Coming of Christ Gave Man Foundation for Hope

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the final installment of a four-part series about the case for God, dealing with the crowning revelation in His sojourn with men in the person of Jesus.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

The saga of man, striving for an ideal existence but never really making it, took a reassuring turn on that singular day, Anno Domini, the "Year of the Lord." After that, people could keep trying with higher heart.

They had a surer basis for it now, a foundation for hope, for the courage to push on, to reach for the dream. It was not just fantasy. It was real, flesh and blood, what believers see as the emergence of perfection in human history.

It could happen because it happened, the appearance of a genuinely new element in the life stream of man, and it opened a fresh era of marking time ever since, brightened by the coming of Jesus.

They wrapped the child in strips of swaddling bandages to keep his body firm, as was the Jewish custom, and laid him in a hollowed-out stone manger in the cavern stable, for there was no room in the inn.

"The Word was made flesh and dwelt among us."

It was a humble setting, in a conquered province, dominated by foreign military legions, oppressive and ruthless. The poor and the sick languished in the land and the innocents were slaughtered in Bethlehem.

Incidents even then foreshadowed the struggle that utter goodness faces in the world. But "the light shines in the darkness and the darkness has not overcome it," says John's gospel.

Humanity still falters, despoils and dies, but the advent of Christ, regarded by his followers as the union of man with God, showed forth the possibility among men of man's deepest yearning—an undefeatable life.

The "New Jerusalem," Scripture calls it, the perfect community.

By whatever designation, the final goal of man's endless search for full living can only be an "intimacy with God," says Catholic theologian Karl Rahner, and Jesus is the "great sign" that it makes sense.

"Through Him the world and history have found their own meaning," he adds. It "can perceive its true destiny to be a partaking" in Him, and thus "hidden away in the Love of God."

Down the ages, as traced in Scripture, there had been intimations, inferences and events displaying divine concern for humanity, but "when the time had fully come," as the apostle Paul writes, "God sent forth His Son" to put the climactic seal on all of it.

"For God so loved the world..."

Like a flash of lightning in the midnight sky of man's ambiguities, frustrations and failures, he is seen as summing up God's revelation, embodying directly in the human grain the potentiality of what man can be, a cohering with God himself.

"I am the Way, the Truth and the Life," Jesus said.

However, while he is almost universally admired as a paragon of manhood, a towering teacher in word and action, expressing the highest ideals of insight, ethics, compassion and integrity, many question what church doctrine terms his "divinity," his oneness with God.

This doctrine isn't meant to say that Jesus was all of God in His multidimensional complexity everywhere, but that he flawlessly incarnated God's qualities as a man, that He was uniquely whole (the meaning of holiness) as a man, truly identified with God, but within man's boundaries.

"Man's brother" and "God's partner," Karl Barth once put it.

But the paradox, a form that deepest truth often takes in man's perspective, also bothered Jesus' apostles. As they headed with him to the Mount of Olives after their Last Supper, a worried, questioning Philip said:

"Lord, show us the Father, and we shall be satisfied."

Jesus sad: "He who has seen Me has seen the Father."

He repeatedly affirmed it on other occasions, "I and the Father are one." "I am in the Father and the Father in Me."

As many churchmen have pointed out, He was either who He said He was, or else a dishonest impostor or lunatic, and no great teacher at all, as some patronizingly suggest. It won't wash both ways, by His own assertions.

"I am the door," he said, man's bridge between his anxious incompleteness and his aspiration for wholeness. "I am the bread of life. I have come that they might have life, and have it abundantly."

But He also was fully man, "made like his brethren in every respect," Hebrews says, sorrowing, laughing, angry, tired, hungry, tempted by lures of self-aggrandizement, yet always submitting himself to Him for it.

"He who believes in Me believes not in Me but in Him who sent Me," He said. "My teaching is not mine, but His who sent me." "The Son can do nothing of his own accord ... I seek not My own will but the will of Him who sent me."

It was His behavior, actions and attitudes, however, more than any explanations, that distinguished Him. He shunned the will-to-power or self-gratification that have blighted humanity through the ages, always devoting himself to the good of God's will instead and crediting others.

"The Son of man came not to be served but to serve," He said. "For whoever would save his life will lose it; and whoever loses his life for My sake, he will save it." Again, equating service of God with helping those in need, He said, "As you have done it to one of the least of these, My brethren, you have done it to Me."

Ordinary people, however, while sensing that authentic fulfillment does lie in Jesus' way, and even experiencing fragments of it in their own moments of real commitment to others, also know they can't fully make it, on their own.

In short, they're fallible, fumbling, fouling up themselves and their world, sometimes even when trying hardest, caught in their own egotisms and a flawed history, a handed-down web of interacting injustices, fears, conflicts and evils that afflict men and disorder their communities.

Yet, at times, in fleeting, partial ways, people do surpass themselves, their minds rising above immediate data, catching a glimpse of something transcendant in themselves. It's a hint of what was given Christ in full measure.

"The Kingdom of God is within you," Jesis said.

Nevertheless, it is crimped, hampered, muddled, and so is human history. But Jesus has entered it, in all its difficulties, and with all the mystery of His greatness, attested supremely in His eventual crucifixion and resurrection.

He is the "encouragement to seize the hope set before us," says the epistle to the Hebrews. He displayed the full possibilities for man. "Through Him you have confidence in God," says Peter's epistle.

He is the promise of God within human history that it "will reach an ultimate fulfillment," says Lutheran theologian Carl Bratten.

It does not say man can do it all for himself, but it says that with God all things are possible among men, and leaves the future open, with hope injected into it.

"It points man ahead to the horizon of new possibilities," Bratten says.

That horizon remains obscure, charged with difficulties, setbacks and death, with no prescribed techniques for setting it all aright and no real basis for thinking it's possible to do so, or for hoping or even trying, except in Jesus.

But He has come, affirming that it can be done, that the effort is worth while, illuminating a path and lifting up a hope. "Now we see not yet all ..." Paul wrote, "but we see Jesus."

It is a commitment, not to any "ism", but to a person, one passionately involved in human life itself, bringing into it what believers consider the most man can know of God, His will and His purpose for each and for all.

To share it, He said, "Follow me."

Baptist Commission Opposes State Aid to Private Colleges

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Christian Life Commission of the Missouri Baptist Convention Wednesday registered its opposition to the proposal of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes that the state help defray costs of students attending private colleges and universities.

Hugh Wamble of Kansas City, chairman of the commission, said in a statement "our commission is distressed and alarmed that the state's top official would recommend taxing all citizens to finance private higher education. Most private colleges are under church control. The governor, therefore, has actually proposed financing church-controlled education out of state tax funds."

In his message to the Legislature earlier this month Hearnes recommended a student assistance program that would be extended even to those who chose to attend a private school in Missouri.

Wamble reported that the Missouri Baptist Convention adopted a resolution at its annual meeting in October, 1970, opposing "the taxing of all citizens to finance church-related education."

"The vast majority of Baptists believes," Wamble said, "that it is both morally wrong and constiutionally impermissible for government to use its taxing power to raise money for church-controlled education. Missouri Baptists have three colleges-- William Jewell College of Liberty, Southwest Baptist College of Bolivar, and Missouri Baptist College of St. Louis and Hannibal-but we do not think the government has any right to tax us or other people to finance them."

SW Baptist Alumni Meeting Set Feb. 7

Area alumni and friends of Southwest Baptist College and prospective college students are invited to attend the annual Area 28 alumni chapter meeting to be held at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 7, at the First Baptist Church in Sikeston.

Jesse E. Wade, dean of alumni and college relations at Southwest Baptist in Bolivar, will be in charge of the program.

Betty P. Miller of Sikeston, chapter president, says it will be a time to greet old friends and make new acquaintances, and he urges all alumni and friends in the area to make plans to attend and bring others to the meeting.

The meeting will be open to the public, and Miller especially urges young people who will be entering college soon to come and familiarize themselves with what Southwest Baptist has to offer.

Rev. Howard Melton to Pastor Church

CHARLESTON--The Rev. Howard Melton of Sikeston has accepted the position as pastor of the Free Pentecostal Church on Johnson St. and began his duties Jan. 3.

Rev. Melton began his studies for the ministry six years ago and was ordained last month. A resident of Sikeston for 21 years, he and his family reside at 219 Petroleum St., Sikeston.

Rev. Melton had a radio broadcast on the Charleston station in 1969 and says he plans to begin a new radio program in the near future.

Area Youth To Meet at Illinois Ave.

An area youth service will be held at Illinois Avenue General Baptist Church in Sikeston Saturday at 7 p.m.

The purpose of the service is to emphasize the value of young people in the community and the need for them in the church program.

All young people are urged to attend and invite others who would like to fellowship with other young people. Adults are welcome to attend, also.

Movies Insulting To Man, Animals

By DAVID POLING

An article in Variety noted that some 100 million people seem to be staying away from the movies. It's not that these people are against popcorn and cartoons; they simply want something better than is being offered and they will wait until it arrives.

In "Have Faith Without Fear" (Harper & Row), Kenneth L. Wilson nails the reason for the disappointment of the 100 million:

"A few years back, film producers listened to somebody who said, 'Tell it like it is!' and they never got over it. They discovered all kinds of things that most of us didn't know about, and they made movies out of them. To read the pages advertising today's motion pictures, you would think that lust, violence, brutality and general kookism prevail."

Wilson observes that the motion picture pages of our newspapers are a real shocker, even for mature audiences. "What happens to some of the characters in the movies today shouldn't happen to a dog—and doesn't. We're going to have to find a more accurate way of talking about 'animal passions' or 'barnyard morals.' Such epithets insult the animals."

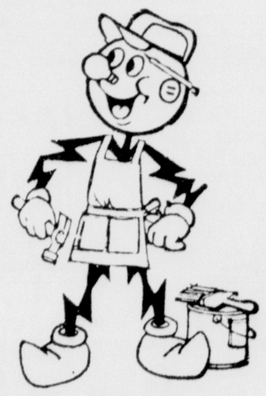

A sick culture becomes mirrored or reflected in the arts. The confusion of man and the calamity of our moral condition is rather clear in art, theater and films. The unfortunate conclusion drawn by some is that everyone is corrupt, that every home rots and all teen-agers are breathless to be the next Easy Rider.

What the movies need (as well as our own personal reflections) are some fresh sensations of hope and improvement. Wilson says it for us when he writes:

"There's surely a better world out there somewhere. This is not only the American Dream, but the Christian hope. This has been the motivation of every scientist, every explorer, every social worker, every minister, every parent. Let's see where we are—certainly!

JASON AND MARYHAZEL
By KUET LASSWN

The first time Jason and Maryhazel sang together they didn't, because Maryhazel cried out of fright. "Jason had always been a single and I believe he should stay with it. I'd sung with groups but I was scared stiff."

That was almost two years ago. Today Maryhazel is smiling, laughing, and, because of what's happened to the young duo in the last few weeks, she and Jason are almost in a state of shock.

First, they were booked into New York's St. Regis Hotel and opened to rave reviews. The reviews attraced Johnny Carson, who immediately put them on his show. Also attraced were leading record companies, so that "now we are in a position to choose where we want to go," Jason said.

Overnight success? Not at all. Besides the hours the two have spent working together to perfect their style, each had paid their dues, Jason as a single with his guital playing coffee houses and clubs from coast to coast and Maryhazel singing with group in and around the Detroit area.

Both remember the same first musical experience, their respective mothers singing to them. Jason's mother and father were both in a chorus, and Maryhazel's mother is a classical ballet instructor and "sang with a sweet, soothing voice."

"When I was 17," Jason told us, "my family said if I wanted to be an entertainer, I'd have to do it on my own, so I took off with my guitar."

"I sang in chorus at Wayne State University and then began singing with groups. That's how Jason and I met. He was playing the Bitter End in Detroit and we touch of Lennon and McCartney and of all the rock and all the hit it off right away."

"I was looking for a girl singer to team up with. I took Maryhazel, my guitar, and my arrangements out to a park, unpacked them and told her to sing with me. That's when she burst into tears so I packed it all up again but finally convinced her that we'd be great together," Jason recalled.

About 75 percent of what the duo sings are Jason Originals, both words and music. "There's one I love best, 'Je Vous Aime Janne'."

said the tall, pretty blonde with the peaceful blue eyes.

"Writing is hard work for me," Jason interjected. "You get an idea and you start on it and then you have to work and work at it until you get it all out of your head."

Jason's an intense, serious young man "Looking for the answers." Maryhazel is much more at peace with the world "because of her religious strength," Jason believes. One comes away with the feeling that the drive is Jason's, and what keeps the act even is Maryhazel. "I'm as excited every night as I was the first night," she says.

Jason, on the other hand, wonders "where do we go from here? The recording has to be right, the right company, the right arrangements, the right songs." And, he's thinking beyond that.

Just as their diffferent personalities mesh, so does their music. In tone and approach, their voices, like their personalities,play counterpoint to each other, and Jason takes full advantage of it in his arrangements. The music is the sum total mostly of Jason's musical experience. There's folk,there's jazz,(he idolizes top jazz guitarists) and there's a blues he's heard looking for the answer in one spot after another.

"There's so much more happening," Maryhazel says. "Sullivan is interested. People who wouldn't talk to us before are calling us for engagements."

Cape Allows Credit by Examination

CAPE GIRARDEAU--Southeast Missouri State College has joined the growing number of colleges and universities across the nation which allow college credit by examination through the college-level examination program of the College Entrance Examination Board.

The college-level examination program, commonly called CIEP, allows adults who have learned their lessons in the "school of hard knocks" or otherwise to take examinations in certain general and specific subject areas and receive varying amounts of college credit if they pass.

Currently available through CLEP are general examinations which measure proficiency in five basic liberal arts areas and subject examinations which measure achievement in 28 specific undergraduate courses.

Nearly 500 institutions of higher education throughout the country now participate in CLEP. Each college establishes its own policy as to the amount of credit it will accept.

The Southeast Missouri State policy permits up to 15 hours of credit by examination, whether it be through CLEP, the college's own credit-by-exam program, which is in its infancy, or a combination of the two.

To be eligible for CLEP credit at SEMO State, the prospective student must meet the college's admission requirements and be at least 21 years old unless he has served at least one year on active duty in the armed services.

No CLEP credit will be awarded to a student who has enrolled for any college work in the area or subject in which he takes an examination. And the CLEP credit is not officially recorded on the student's transcript until he has passed at least 30 hours of regular course work at the college with a C average.

The general areas and subjects to which credit through CLEP may be applied at Southeast Missouri State will be determined by the departments involved or the faculty committees on general education and credits and classifications.

The national CLEP program was established on an operational basis in 1967 and is funded by the Carnegie Corporation.

CLEP tests are normally given during the third week of each month at 57 test centers scattered throughout the states. However, there is an experimental program in Missouri, Project Circuit Rider, which in effect takes the tests to the people.

It is administered by Dr. Margaret Fagin of the Extension Division of the University of Missouri-St. Louis. Dr. Fagin will travel to out-state areas to give the tests wherever 14 or more candidates assemble.

AN AMERICAN LEGION PRAYER FOR OUR PRISONERS OF WAR

Lord, shelter the prisoners of war in Southeast Asia. Open the hearts and minds of their captors that they may be restored to their homes and loved ones.

Each has carried the burden of battle. Each has discharged an obligation of his country. Each has been subjected to hazard, pain, and imprisonment beyond the lot of the soldier.

O, Lord, these gallant men who bear so great a burden must not be forsaken. God of Justice to whom we pray, Thy compassion we beseech: Lift their burden, give them strength and strike the shackles that deny them freedom.

December 16, 1970

Dear Editor:

The above "An American Legion Prayer For Our Prisoners of War" is being sent to you with the hope that you will consider its publication in your newspaper. We seek this action as a demonstration to our own people and those of the world that during this holiday season America has not forgotten her servicemen who are prisoners of war in Southeast Asia.

This is the season of mankind's greatest expression of hope and all Americans share the hope that these men soon will be returned to their loved ones. Also, we are told by those who are well versed in dealing with the North Vietnam ruling regime that they are very conscious of public opinion in America.

We feel that this prayer expresses the hopes of Americans for these unfortuante prisoners of war, and we feel that its dissemination through the American press might be of some help to these unfortuante Americans who bear this burden during this Yuletide season. Some have done so for as many as six past Christmas seasons.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,
JAMES C. WATKINS,
Director
National Public Relations Division

Pregnant Student Policy Changed

CHARLESTON--The board of education approved a change in the policy on treatment of students who become pregnant.

Under the old policy, a pregnant student was dropped from school and remained out until the year following the birth of the child.

Under the new policy, as under the old one, the student is to be dropped from school "after it has become apparent that she is pregnant."

The student can be readmitted, if it is not too late to get credit for the semester's work, "after the birth of the baby and after a doctor clears the mother to take part in normal school classes, including physical education."

A person readmitted will not be allowed to participate "in leadership roles of non-class activities."

A student who has a second child cannot be admitted without approval of the board of education.

In other action the board:

* Accepted the resignations of Bob Adams, Anniston fourth grade; Mary Susan McDonald, Hearnes school primary; Lucille Cox, business education, CHS; and Judith Ringwald, A.D. Simpson school. A sick leave of absence without pay was granted to Orva Walker, A.D. Simpson School.

* Approved the contracts of Jeanette Launius, business education, CHS; Peggy Grimes, A. D. Simpson; and Marilyn Henderhan, Hearnes School.

* Authorized Superintendent Tom Wells to decline a grant authorization under the federal Emergency School Assistance Program. The grant did not authorize the board of education to carry out the full program requested, and approval came too late in the school year for a full effectiveness.

Judgment Errors Cited By Park Board

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)--Actions taken by the State Park Board in acquiring or selling land in and around Babler State Park in St. Louis County have been called "errors of judgment" by a special Commission.

There was no surreptitious dealing or secrecy in the employment of the company owned by William W. Dolan for the appraisal and sale of some tracts, the Commission report said. Dolan was appointed earlier by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes as a member of the State Real Estate Commission, a regulatory body.

The Commission said the money paid Dolan, a total of $54,412, was about 20 per cent below the customary St. Louis metropolitan rate for handling real estate transactions.

Nor did the commission find anything improper in the employment by the Park Board of former state Rep. Eugene P. Walsh of St. Louis and special counsel in litigation against the Babler testamentary trustees.

That was even approved by the attorney general, the Commission said. It added that the Park Board also should have sought the attorney general's approval before employing Walsh's legal services in real estate transactions.

Walsh, former legal assistant to Gov. Hearnes, was paid $9,660 for handling the litigation against the Babler trustees and $6,020 for representing the Board in real estate transactions.

The Special Commission commended the St. Louis Globe-Democrat for bringing to light a situation "which needed public scrutiny," but it said the stories were too sensationalized.

St. Louis Comptroller John H. Poelker was chairman of the commission. Harold E. Thayer, president and chairman of the board of Mallinckrodt Chemical Co., and Harry F. Harrington, a director of Boatmen's National Bank, were members. Legal counsel was Howard S. Levie of St. Louis.

EXTEND THE USEFULNESS OF YOUR VACATION HOME BY HEATING IT

About 2 million American families now have a second or "vacation" home, and their numbers are growing at the rate of about 100,000 a year.

There was a time when such homes were sparsely furnished and had few conveniences, but now this has changed. Vacation homes have electricity, running water, bathrooms and even such plumbed-in conveniences as dishwashers. Water-using conveniences have been made possible by private water systems, which, unlike the old dug wells consist of the well, an electric pump, a storage tank, and automatic controls for turning the pump on and off.

However, the majority of vacation homes still don't have central heating. What heat they get is often provided by fireplaces, and they're lighted more for the rustic, old-fashioned aura they provide than for warmth.

This may be why most families enjoy their vacation homes only a few summer weeks or at most a few months of the year. The addition of central heating would make the home inhabitable the other three seasons. Even if the owner does't wish to use the home, it can be rented to others. This is a practical idea, since more and more families are taking their vacation during the winter, spring or fall instead of the traditional summer months.

So if you have an unheated vacation home, why not extend its useful life by adding a hydronic (hot water) heating system with baseboard radiation? The baseboard, installed around the perimeter of the rooms, will blanket the walls with warmth and enable you to keep even the most isolated homes comfortable. Moreover, if you rent the home, the heating system will pay for itself in no time.

Cash and Beer Stolen

CAMPBELL--Approximately $40 in change and cases of beer were taken in a breakin of the Four Mile Club Wednesday night the highway patrol said.

A cigarette machine was broken into.

Armed Forces

VALPARAISO, Fla.--Technical Sergeant Donnie O. Kesler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kesler, Route three, Sikeston, Mo., is a member of the Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., squadron that has received the air force outstanding unit award for exemplary performance in operating the Free World's first "space age" radar system.

Sergeant Kesler, a computer maintenance technician with the 20th Surveillance Squadron, will wear a distinctive service ribbon to mark his affiliation with the unit.

Squadron personnel maintain and operate a gigantic 13-story radar that performs the functions of many radars nearly simultaneously and is the first designed specifically for detecting and tracking satellites and ballistic missiles. The 20th was cited for distinguished service in installing, testing and subsequently operating the facility as part of the Aerospace Defense Command's frontline defense system.

Sergeant Kesler is a 1952 graduate of Morehouse (Mo.) high school. His wife, Sarah, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wylie, 704 Pine St., Sikeston.

Shooting Victim in Intensive Care

KENNETT--An 18-year-old Clarkton girl is in the intensive care ward of the Baptist Hospital in Memphis, recovering from a gunshot wound incurred in her home Tuesday night.

Dunklin County Deputy Sheriff Radford Raines said Norma Jones was accidentally shot behind the right ear at 9:10 p.m. Tuesday. Her boyfriend, Charles Tripplett, 22, reportedly told officers that he and the girl both had their hands on the gun when it accidentally discharged.

Tripplett and a Clarkton policeman took the Jones girl to the Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett and she was later transferred to Memphis.

A spokesman for the Baptist Hospital said that the Jones girl was still in instensive care but was "holding her own." Circumstances surrounding the shooting are still being investigated by the Missouri Highway Patrol, Deputy Sheriff Raines and the Clarkton police.

No charges have been filed.

Budget Hearing Tuesday

CHARLESTON--The Mississippi County Court will hold the required public hearing on the 1971 proposed county budget at the Courthouse next Tuesday, Jan. 26, at 10 a.m.

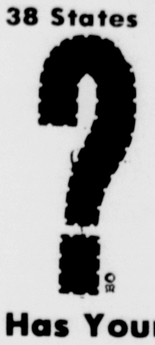

The session will be held in the County Court room on the south side of the Court house, according to County Clerk Arthur Lee Goodin.

A public hearing is required before the budget can be finally approved and sent to the office of the State Auditor to be filed.

Best Baseball Bats

Baseball bats are made from the northern white ash because its wood has the right hardness, resilience and weight. The best bats are made from second growth trees with a diameter of 12 to 15 inches because their wood is more resilient than that from larger, older trees.

somehow you never seem to have enough electric outlets

● You buy a new blender. Or a percolator. Or an electric carving knife. And there is no outlet to plug it in. Or you get a new television and the nearest place to plug it is 16 feet away. Sound familiar? It happens all too often, simply because someone didn't plan the wiring properly.

● Adequate wiring takes planning. Adequate wiring includes a properly sized electrical service entrance, or fuse box, large enough to handle present and future growth. Adequate wiring includes enough circuits —as well as outlets—to let you use electricity conveniently and safely.

● Before you build, buy or remodel, consider the wiring.

Discarded Items Will Aid Disabled

ST. LOUIS--To the 750 handicapped men and women at Goodwill Industries, January, February and March are slow months.

Donations of usable and repairable discards of clothing, household items, small applicances and many other items, provide jobs and rehat , but the first three months of the year contributions are especially low due to the weather and wait until spring house cleaning factors.

When contributions are low, the sorting, cleaning, repairing and production lines are forced to close, and the handicapped working hours and wages.

Each filled Goodwill bag provides employment in some way to more than 25 different handicaps and the equivilant of at least 4,800 bags, or 72,000 pounds, are needed daily to keep them fully employed.

Interested contributors may contact Goodwill Industries for Goodwill bags and materials to be used in any such collection drive.

For details contact Curt Ray, director of community relations, Goodwill Industries, 4140 Forest Park, St. Louis and ask for information concerning tax deductions.

Insurance Position to Huckstep

DES MOINES–Ronald G. Huckstep has been appointed assistant general agent for the Chester C. Elson, Mutual of Omaha Agency.

Huckstep came to Des Moines from Omaha, where he was a training consultant for Mutual of Omaha and its life insurance affiliate, United of Omaha. He was district manager for Mutual of Omaha at Cape Girardeau, three years during which his agency ranked in the top 10 of Mutual of Omaha's leading 100 United States agencies.

He was the receipient of the company's highest honor, the field management award. Previously he served for five years as a field underwriter for the company.

A native of Charleston, Mo., he is an alumnus of Murray State College in Murray, Kentucky. He is a licensed security underwriter and a member of the Health and Life Underwriters Association. He and his wife, Eunice, are parents of four children and are members of the Methodist church.

Judge Craig to Take Part in Panel

CAPE GIRARDEAU--A four-day regional drug education training program for 148 teachers and school administrators in Southeast Missouri will be held on two weekends next month at Southeast Missouri State College.

The dates are Feb. 5-6 and Feb. 19-20. The program will run from 9 a.m.-8 p.m. on Feb. 5 and Feb. 19 and from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. on Feb. 6 and Feb. 20, according to Lester Leaton, assistant professor of chemistry at Southeast Missouri State and project coordinator.

Invitations have been extended to 50 southeast Missouri schools to send representatives with the number of participants allowed each school determinded on an enrollment basis, Leaton said.

The overall purpose of the seminar, according to the coordinator, is "to provide the latest information concerning the various aspects of drug abuse among young people."

"We will get into the problem during the first two days," the chemistry professor said, "and present some possible solutions during the last two days, although we are the first to admit we don't have all the answers."

Leaton emphasized that the educators chosen by the various schools should be present for all four days of the project, which is jointly sponsored by the State Department of Education and Southeast Missouri State.

Last August Leaton received specialized training in the development of drug education programs for local communities at the University of Wisconsin, and recently he helped conduct such a project in Springfield at Southwest Missouri State College.

He said the first item on the agenda for participants in the forthcoming program will be an evaluative test to determine how much they know about drugs.

This will be followed by a sociological overview, or sort of keynote address, delivered by Jim DeFee, instructor of social science at the college and a former prison official in Texas.

Other confirmed speakers and panel participants include Judge Marshall Craig of Sikeston; Robert Burdine, a Cape Girardeau juvenile officer; Al Seier, Cape County prosecuting attorney; the Rev. Max Jenkins of the First Christian Church of Cape; and the Rev. Dumitri Turk of the Teen Challenge Center near Cape.

An important part of the project, according to Leaton, will be small group discussions in which the participants will try to arrive at ways in which the information they receive can be used beneficially in their local communities.

Revised Capital Gain Tax Laws Help, Hurt Investors

ST. LOUIS--With the number of stock market investors having risen above 31 million in 1970 and the stock market having gyrated as it did, more income taxpayers than ever before will be affected by the revised tax laws covering capital gains and losses, says C. Robert Meyer, President of the Missouri Society of CPAs.

Long-term capital gains and losses realized in 1970, which will be reported in income tax returns to be filed by April 15, 1971, are subject, Mr. Meyer says, to new rules that may adversely affect taxpayers in medium and upper brackets.

The tax ceiling of 25 percent, exclusive of the surtax which applied for 1970 but has now expired, continues to apply a long-term gains Mr. Meyer says, on the first $50,000 of such gains ($25,000 for a married taxpayer filing a separate return). However, the tax ceiling on gains above $50,000 has been raised to 29.5% plus the surcharge, and will climb to 32.5 percent in 1971.

And the tax on long-term gains above $50,000 (or above $25,000 for a married taxpayer filing a separate return) is scheduled to go up even more. After 1971, one half of such gains will have to be counted as regular income. The top bracket on regular income is still 70 percent, so that after 1971 the ceiling on each year's long-term gains over the $50,000 or $25,000 mark will be 35 percent.

Effective with long-term losses incurred in 1970, two dollars of loss are required for each dollar of deduction. Thus, in order to deduct the $1,000 of loss allowable in any one year it is necessary to have incurred $2,000 in long-term losses. Pre-1970 long-term losses are still fully deductible at the rate of $1,000 a year until the entire loss has been written off.

Short-term losses incurred in 1970 or those carried over from previous years can still be applied, net of short-term gains, against ordinary income dollar-for-dollar up to the $1,000 maximum allowable in any year.

Taxpayers with unusually large long-term gains for 1970 can in some cases ease their tax burden, Mr. Meyer says, under new, more liberal conditions for income averaging. That is the subject of his next discussion.

House Approves Creation of Four New Committees

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri House Tuesday adopted rules for the session which included the creation of four new committees.

Rep. Richard J. Rabitt, D-St. Louis, majority leader and rules committee chairman, said the new committees would include environment and natural resources, consumer protection, urban affairs, and welfare.

All committee assignments are to be made by Wednesday, said Speaker James E. Godfrey, D-St. Louis.

The Democratic majority in the House successfully fought off efforts to amend other portions of the rules including an effort to make public the vote of committee members. The amendment was introduced by Rep. Robert Pierce, R-Cape Girardeau.

Other amendments called for creation of an expanded rules committee made up of nearly equal number of Republican and Democratic House memmembers.

Blackwell Belatedly Sworn After Bid to Halt Salary

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, was sworn in belatedly Tuesday as a re-elected senator in the new 1971 Legislature.

The action came after A. C. Sullivan Jr. of Farmington had demanded that the state comptroller not pay Blackwell's salary until he took the oath of office in the Senate chamber as required by the constitution.

There was no fuss about the swearing in, although Blackwell reportedly told Senate leaders Monday he already had been sworn but did not say where or when.

Today Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, advised Blackwell about the Sullivan letter and the constitutional requirements. Blackwell then walked up to be sworn in by Lt. Gov. William S. Morris, the presiding officer.

Under the circumstances, Blackwell's $8,400 a year salary would not start until today.

"This senator," Sullivan said in a letter to Comptroller John C. Vaughn, "did not assume the duties of his office in accordance with the constitution and . . . he has performed no duties or services for the state and is not entitled to be paid until such requirements are met.

"It would seem to me if (Blackwell) . . . is going to lead the people out of darkness into the promised land then it is essential for him to assume his duties of office and faithfully discharge them.

"Since I am a resident of this senatorial district and voted for the senator in November and I am a taxpayer of the state, I have a right to raise the question of expenditure of state funds to him for no services performed."

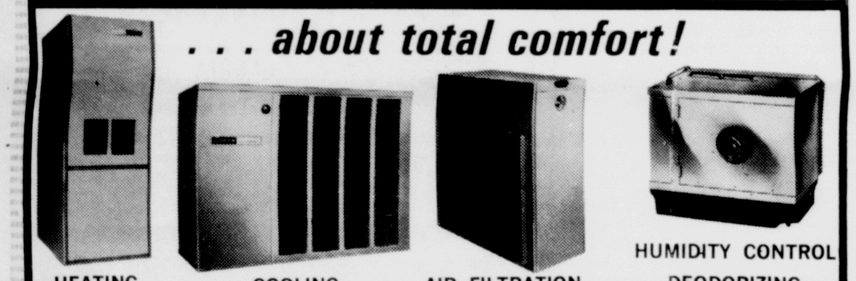

Comptroller Vaughn said he assumed he would have to withold payment of any senatorial salary to Blackwell if Blackwell has not been sworn in for the 74th General Assembly that convened Jan. 6.

Blackwell led the successful referendum campaign against September, 1969, version of an income tax increase. He also was president protem of the senate for a year, deposed last January by his fellow Democrats because they felt he took too much power into his own hands.

$400 Million in Bonds Asked For Capital Improvements

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has recommended to the Missouri Legislature bond issues totaling $400 million to finance pollution controls and new buildings, repairs and maintenance work for state institutions.

One proposal calls for $150 million to help finance construction of sewer treatment plants and sewer systems, and the other for $250 million would go to building needs at state hospitals, universities and colleges and correctional institutions.

The pollution proposal, combined with federal and local funds, is designed to speed the day when the state's rivers, lakes and streams are no longer polluted by municipal wastes.

Hearnes said the need for capital improvements "is beyond reach of what we could accomplish through pay-as-you-go appropriations."

He urged legislators to take another look at the priority of capital improvement projects submitted to them two months ago and "carefully select and appropriate for those capital improvements in order that the people may know exactly what would be built when they vote on the bond issue."

Without the bond issue, Hearnes said, only about $18 million should be appropriated for capital improvements. Here is how major institutions would fare with the bond issue approved and in parentheses the bare bones recommendations for the governor:

University of Missouri's four campuses in Kansas City, Columbia, Rolla and St. Louis, $74 million ($2,500,000).

Southwest Missouri State at Springfield, $5,523,000 ($279,560).

Renovation of the state Capitol plus addition of a Centrex phone system, $2,522,900 ($1,500,000).

State Highway Patrol, $1,136,250 ($1,136,250), including Troop E headquarters in southeastern Missouri (not necessarily near the present location of Poplar Bluff) and Troop G headquarters at Willow Springs.

State fair at Sedalia, $4,208,934 ($106,800).

A new maximum security prison, $7,853,810 (nothing).

A new maximum security facility for the state Board of Training Facilities, $3,306,100 (nothing).

Training school for boys at Boonville, $1,066,828 ($125,000).

St. Joseph State Hospital, $2,096,750 ($224,084).

Farmington State Hospital, $4,244,075 ($333,500).

St. Louis State Hospital, $9,140,500 ($300,000).

St. Louis State Hospital, $9,140,500 ($300,000).

Higginsville State School and Hospital, $366,918 ($43,000).

Marshall State School and Hospital, including facilities at Carrollton, $4,423,270 ($180,517).

St. Louis State School and Hospital, $1,442,000 ($343,000).

George Gershwin composed the first jazz concerto for the piano in musical history—"Concerto in F"—which he introduced in 1925 at Carnegie Hall, says The World Almanac. Gershwin had a genius for incorporating jazz and folk elements into his serious music, composing such other uniquely American musical expressions as "Porgy and Bess" and "Rhapsody in Blue."

Hearnes 'Way Ahead' of C Of C Proposal

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — St. Louis Chamber of Commerce officials, meeting Wednesday with Gov. Warren Hearnes found the governor "way ahead" of their proposal to establish a State Department of Transportation.

"The governor was way ahead of us in his thinking of such a department because of work done by the (Governmental Reorganization) 'Little Hoover' Commission," commented A. J. O'Brien, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Metropolitan St. Louis.

That commission is making a study on feasibility of establishing a state transportation department.

The idea behind a separate department of transportation is patterned after the federal Department of Transportation. It could coordinate all state transportation under one single unit. The purpose would be to achieve a well-balanced system —rural and urban—to include all modes of travel, rail, air and highway.

As the group from St. Louis talked with Hearnes about transportation, two proposed constitutional amendments were introduced in the Missouri House to cover the area.

One would convert the present State Highway Department to a Department of Transportation and add to its highway duties one to "aid state and local transportation systems."

TO THE FARMERS

of MISSISSIPPI, SCOTT and NEW MADRID COUNTIES:

I'm pleased to announce that final negotiations have been completed with Ford Motor Company, T & I Operations that will enable us to relocate, expand, and improve our overall capacity to serve you.

I mention this because I want everyone to know the importance I place on my franchise affiliation with Ford Motor Company, and also how pleased I am able to form an organization that is planned and scheduled to grow with you in the Southern Missouri Agri-Business Community.

To be more centrally located and convenient to the largest number of customers, it has been decided to relocate our place of business from Charleston, Mo., to the east side of Sikeston, Mo., in March of this year to offer you the full line, from the smallest to the largest, of Ford Farm & Industrial Equipment.

We have and will have many items at bargain prices plus offering a complete rental and leasing program. Ford's Credit & Leasing Program is second to none.

MORE THAN DOUBLED is the fabric department at the T G and Y Family Center giving customers a large selection.

Fabric Center Almost Doubled

The T. G. and Y. Family Center at the Kingsway Plaza Mall almost doubled its fabric area, Manager Jerry Bratcher announced.

"Due to the tremendous acceptance os our fabrics, we increased the department from 16 tables of bolt goods, to 31 tables, together with an additional 50 feet display counters devoted to flat folds mill ends, remnants and upholstery materials," he said.

"We now have over 3,000 square feet of fabric space with over 1,000 bolts of first quality name brand fabrics."

The store has double knits in solids, stripes and bold designs, plus all the new spring fabrics. It also has patterns, supplies for knitting, crochet and embroidery work, together with zippers, threads, trims and other notions and accessories.

Jim Edwards Named Bank Vice President

NEW MADRID--Sam L. Hunter, Jr., president of The Bank of New Madrid, announced this week that James N. (Jim) Edwards has been promoted to vice-president and cashier of the bank.

Edwards is a native of New Madrid and started with the Bank of New Madrid in 1956. He was made assistant cashier in 1960 and was promoted to cashier in 1964. He is a graduate of New Madrid High School, attended Southeast Missouri State College, and is a graduate of School of Banking of the South at Louisiana State University.

The new vice president and cashier is an active member of the First Presbyterian Church where he holds offices of elder and treasurer. He is married to May Hillis of Brosley and the couple have three children.

Q—When was the length of a baseball game standardized?

A—In 1857, a new baseball rule fixed the length of a game at nine innings and provided that an interrupted game would be legal after five innings.

Q—Which are the only Latin American countries in which Spanish is not the official language?

Mabrey Joins NATE Panel

CAPE GIRARDEAU--Dr. Cleo Mabrey, director of student teaching at Southeast Missouri State College, learned last week that he has been appointed for a three-year term to the fiscal affairs committee of the National Association of Teacher Educators, which has headquarters in Washington, D.C.

The committee assists the executive secretary of the association in preparing the organization's budget, which must then be approved by the national delegate assembly. The organization will open its national convention in Chicago on Feb. 23.

Dr. Mabrey, who has been a member of the Southeast Missouri State faculty since 1961, is also president-elect of the Missouri unit of the Association of Teacher Educators.

Earlier this year Dr. Fred Goodwin, associate professor of speech and director of forensics at the college, was notified he had been named chairman of the committee on intercollegiate debate and discussion of the Speech Communication Association.

This five-member committee has the task this year of formulating the national intercollegiate debate question for the academic year 1972-73.

The Prayer from the upper room

Fathers, do not provoke your children to anger, but bring them up in the discipline and instruction of the Lord. (Ephesians 6:4, RSV)

PRAYER: Father, forgive us for creating human ghettos that blight, twist and warp young lives in this era of affluence. Reveal to us the solutions to these overwhelming problems and give us the courage to apply them under Thy divine guidance. Amen.

That's The Law

Confession in Sleep No Test of Guilt

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

Barney went on an ill-fated business trip with several partners. After a day of conferences that were tough, he looked forward to a bed that was soft. He was so tired,in fact, no sooner had he hit the hay than he began talking in his sleep.

What he had to say really perked up the ears of two of his partners who were sharing the same bedroom with him. Specifically, Barney confessed to pilfering company funds in the exact amount that the company had earlier found missing.

The result? Barney's partners lost no time in having him arrested and charged with larceny.

"He's a real chiseler," the irate partners told the judge. "He carved out a fortune with our money. And, two of us heard it right from his own mouth."

The whole thing is absured," was Barney's answer. "They can't believe what I said in my sleep. My subconscious is a terrible liar. I'm innocent."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict sleep talking Barney of larceny?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that a man is not conscious of what he says when he talks in his sleep; that words spoken by him in that condition are no evidence of guilt.

Based upon a 1861 California Supreme Decision.

Ward Retires As Manager Of Airport

MALDEN--R. L. Ward, manager of the Malden Airport for the past 25 years, has submited his resignation effective as of Monday, Jan. 28. Mr. Ward requested the Airport to relieve him of his responsibilities as soon as possible in view of his health and advancing years.

George Anderson, Councilman of Ward IV and an employee of Farm & Home Appliance and Furniture Company, has been appointed manager of the airport to succeed Mr. Ward. Mrs. Anderson has resigned as a member of the City Council and as a candidate for re-election. Also, he has resigned his position with Farm & Home.

Bob Green, chariman of the Airport Boards, said that Mr. Anderson's appointment was approved unanimously by the Board. Mr. Green said that Mr. Ward will assist Mr. Anderson in becoming familiar with the responsibilities and duties that are involved in the job.

He said that the Airport Board expressed their appreciation to Mr. Ward for the outstanding dedicated service over the past 28 years that he has worked at the Airport of which most of this time was as manager.

The 2800-acred Airport and Industrial Park is owned by the City of Malden. It was deeded to the City of Malden after World War II by the federal government. The property is managed by an Airport Board appointed by the Mayor. The Board in turn appoints a manager who acts as supervisor. Mr. Ward has been the only manager since the city took possession.

A—The Biblical Book of Leviticus, chapter 25, verse 10.

Q—What is the political status of Monaco?

A—It is a principality. Under the terms of a treaty signed with France, if Monaco's royal family has no male heirs, the principality will come under French rule.

"Shantyboys"

Lumbermen are often referred to as "shantyboys," the term being derived from the French "chanter," meaning "to sing." The life and the setting of the shantyboy are found in lumbermen's songs.

Today In History

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1901, an era ended in England as Queen Victoria died at 82.

On this date:

In 1791, George Washington appointed commissioners to survey the District of Columbia.

In 1905, scores of Russian workingmen were killed as Cossacks and imperial army troops fired on demonstrators in St. Petersburg.

Schaffner Gives Budget Review

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — James Schaffner, director of revenue who referred to himself as a "conservative old Dutchman," presented his 1971-72 budget to the House Appropriations Committee Thursday night.

Schaffner then provided a detailed explanation of every item on his $115.8 million budget as recommended by the governor.

The totals are about $15 million more than the department got last year.

The only exception to the governor's recommendations Schaffner took was for a machine to automatically insert licenses, forms and so forth into envelopes.

"Now that's not a shiny new toy," he said of the $17,000 machine which had been cut from his request. "That's a work tool" which, he said, would expedite handling the more than 20 million pieces of mail sent out annually by the department.

Schaffner told the committee that additions to his staff would be limited to data processing. He called the division a "training ground" for keypunch operators adding that the turnover in that division last year was 40 per cent.

The 28 full time data employes would add $158,000 to the department's payroll.

Schaffner estimated that it would cost Missouri about 11.3 per cent more for salaries in his department if it is placed under the merit system.

Steps Taken To Loosen Seniority

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats and Republicans have taken first steps to loosen the grip of the seniority system on committee assignments, but no big changes are likely for a while.

Acting in separate party caucuses Wednesday, the two parties approved new rules giving members a vote on committee chairmen who now are selected solely on the basis of seniority.

Democrats also limited each member to one subcommittee chairmanship, a move that will open up about 40 prized chairmanships to junior members.

Republicans, whose caucus was marked by a close fight between conservatives and liberals over a top party office, finished their work but Democrats adjourned a 12-hour session still not ready for the opening of the 92nd congress at noon today.

Although seniority changes approved by each party are minimal, their adoption is a triumph for younger members who pushed for the reforms against stubborn resistance by party elders.

The GOP proposal, requiring an automatic secret vote in the party caucus on top-ranking committee members, appears to be more effective than the Democrats' which would put the choice of a chairman to a vote only if 10 members request it.

However, it is somewhat easier for the Republicans, who as a minority party have no chairmen, to take a stronger stand against them.

In either case, given the 50-year stranglehold of the seniority system on the House, few challenges are likely to be made and even fewer to succeed.

Only one chairman faces the prospect of a serious challenge this session—Rep. John McMillan, D-S.C., chairman of the District of Columbia Committee.

The Republican caucus was enlivened by the fight over chairmanship of the GOP conference, the third-ranking party post. John B. Anderson of Illinois, challenged by conservatives, won re-election by a vote of 89 to 81 over Rep. Samuel Devine of Ohio.

The Democrats, their leadership fight settled Tuesday with election of Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana as majority leader, blocked a move to deny Boggs the customary right to pick the party whip.

A proposal by Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, one of Boggs' unsuccessful challengers, to make the whip's job elective was tabled and a move to limit the whip's tenure to two terms in office was defeated 71 to 68.

Before the vote, there was some confusion over the position of newly nominated speaker Carl Albert on the issue. Albert first told newsmen he favored electing the whip but later switched and said he wanted him appointed.

$40,000 Needed For Jail

BENTON — Sheriff John Dennis said this morning it appears that Scott County Jail can "come up to meet the American standards" at a cost of $40,000 to $50,000.

Sheriff Dennis met Thursday with Bill Duncan of Jefferson City, who is a representative of the State Department of Law Enforcement Assistance Council.

Sheriff Dennis explained he and Duncan will meet with the county court soon to discuss the jail.

Sheriff Dennis said it appears matching funds from the federal and state governments are available on a 50-50 basis. He said the most important things in improving the jail would be lighting, plumbing, and heating. He said the jail gets to 120 degrees in the summer and in the winter one side is so cold that moisture forms on the ceilings.

Duncan said with the improvements the jail could be one of the better ones in the state and he considers the $40,000 to $50,000 a "nominal expense."

He said with what the Sheriff has to work with the jail is in good condition. He said the jail is clean in considering the age of the building, the spirit of those persons who are jailed is good, and he complimented the cleanliness of the kitchen.

$45,000 Increase in Revenues

BENTON — It appears that county general revenue fund will increase by more than $45,000 for 1971 over 1970. This fund pays county official's salaries, maintenance of county property costs along with public health and welfare.

Of the increase, about $25,000 will go to public health and welfare. Under that category, county court members indicated the foster home care program will be increased substantially.

The other part of the increase will go to building repairs. There is about $20,000 earmarked for improvements, including the county's 40-year old jail.

This increase is being realized without an increase in taxes, which are 45 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The county court has approved the same tax base as used last year, and indications were in the court house this morning the tax base may be reduced if any change is made.

This increase came about as a result of a hike of $1 million assessed property valuation. The other major portion of the county's budget is in the road and bridge fund. It will remain about the same.

There will be a public hearing Friday at 10a.m. on the county budget. The hearing will be in the county courtroom.

County court members this morning announced they will meet Monday and Thursday beginning Feb. 1.

They have been meeting on Mondays and Fridays at 9 a.m.

A lonely atoll in the Indian Ocean has been earmarked an air and radio communications base for the Unites States and Britain.

U.S. officials in Washington said Diego Garcia, an island measuring 13 miles long and 5 miles at its widest, would serve American and British ships and aircraft in the Indian Ocean.

The installation is expected to cost about $19 million to build and will be manned by about 250 Navy personnel.

Work on the base is slated to begin this March and will take about three years to complete.

Officials said they expected the facility to be equipped to monitor radio exchanges between ships plying the waters of the Indian Ocean.

The base is also expected to be used as a refueling stop for British vessels assigned to the Malaysia-Singapore defense network.

Diego Garcia, a British territory of the Chagos archipelago, served as a British air base in World War II. It lies about 1,200 miles below the tip of India.

Officials said that about 600 inhabitants on the island and some agricultural workers employed there will be relocated.

The proposed base has been under study for about four years and is an outgrowth of the desire of Washington to maintain a U.S. presence in the area.

Supreme Court Listens to Ouster Case Arguments

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Supreme Court heard final arguments Thursday in the ouster case against Pemiscot County Sheriff Clyde Orton, then took the matter under advisement.

Defense attorney Jim Reeves characterized the case as being "distorted from the very beginning."

Reeves said Dale Rollings, the chief assistant attorney general who directed the prosecution, told the court on two occasions Sheriff Orton ran liquor officers from Mississippi and Alabama out of Pemiscot County.

"That simply is not so," Reeves said. Instead, he said, they had an exchange of words and in one case Orton "simply told them if they were still here tomorrow they'd be in jail."

Reeves also contended the Supreme Court did not have jurisdiction. He said action taken against the sheriff should have begun in Circuit Court, and if convicted of the misdemeanors he has been charged with, ouster proceedings could then begin.

Throughout the hearing Orton sat in a chair at the back of the courtroom, listening intently and chewing gum.

At the other end of the double row of chairs in the courtroom sat Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth. He took no part in presenting the case to the supreme court.

A special commissioner of the Supreme Court, former Circuit Judge Ray Weightman of Maryville who heard the case, last September recommended that Orton be removed from office for willful violation and neglect of duty.

Weightman concluded that Orton was guilty on three counts of having permitted open gambling in the county, including rooster fighting in Hermandale.

Weightman also found that Orton permitted liquor to be transported to dry areas of Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee without proper bills of lading.

Tollings told the Supreme Court that deppite a newspaper article reporting the existence of cockfighting near Hermandale, the sheriff took no action.

He said the cockfighting was conducted in a barn with bleachers capable of seating up to 300 spectators, and placards were displayed announcing the names of the contesting roosters along with the names of their owners and the time of each bout.

Reeves said the newspaper article was just an item near the bottom of a gossip column and both Circuit Judge William Ragland and Oorton denied having seen it. Reeves added the author of the column admitted he did not take the information about the cockfighting to the prosecuting attorney.

Reeves said he admired Commissioner Weightman and was not critical of him "but his report finds the defendant guilty of things he wasn't charged with."

The Supreme Court can accept Weightman's recommendation in full and oust Oorton from office, accept portions of it or discard it and reach its own conclusions.

Truman Condition Remains Good

A bulletin released at 10:30 a.m. EST, said the 86-year-old Truman, hospitalized Thursday morning with stomach pains, sat up in bed this morning to drink some tea and read a newspaper.

Thursday night, the bulletin said, the former president had a light supper of tea and soup, read the evening paper and watched television. He also had a soft drink before retiring at 10 p.m.

Truman's wife, Bess, who accompanied him to the hospital in an ambulance Thursday, returned to the hospital at 9 a.m. today after spending the night at the truman's Independence, Mo., home.

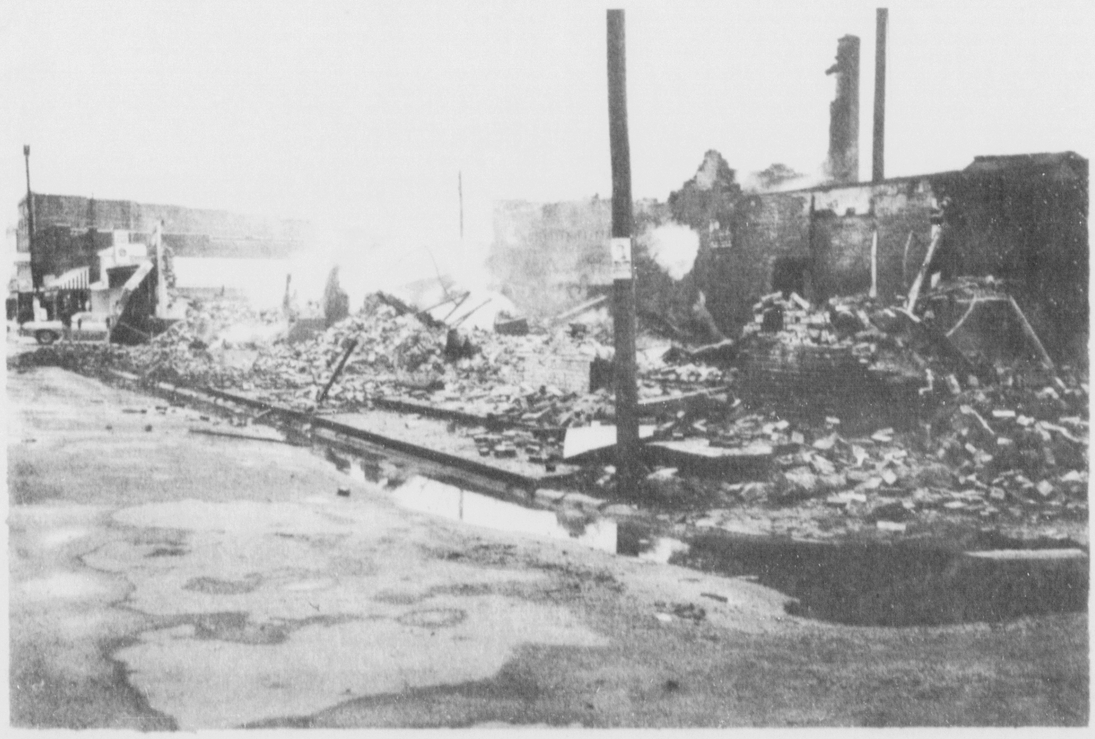

Hospital spokesmen said Truman had a reasonably restful night but that his sleep had been interrupted. They added he had experienced some modrately severe abdominal pain Thursday afternoon.

Dr. Wallace Graham, Truman's physician, has given no diagnosis of the ailment. He has said only that he will know more when he has the results of tests within a few days.

Spokesmen said Truman was carrying on in his usual calm manner but was anxious to return home.

The hospital said another bulletin will be issued at 4 p.m. EST.

RUINS of a fire that destroyed nearly half a block of business buildings in Hayti Thursday. Two businesses, the Town Tavern, where the fire apparently started, and the clothing and ready to wear Leader Store were almost destroyed. Adjacent businesses were damaged by smoke. Total loss to the buildings and contents is estimated at more than $100,000.00.

Nixon Focus Likely to Be Domestic

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, his eye presumably fixed on 1972, delivers his State of the Union message tonight, outlining for Congress and the nation "new approaches and new initiatives" he thinks will ease the country's problems.

Nixon went out of his way to promise in advance the boldest and most far-reaching remedies ever proposed for national ills.

The traditional message will be delivered live to a joint session of Congress and will be televised and broadcast beginning at 8 p.m. EST.

For a brief time, consideration was given to postponing the speech because of the death Thursday afternoon of one of the most power-laden senators, Democrat Richard B. Russell of Georgia.

The White House said it checked with aides to Russell, dean and president pro tem of the Senate, and with the congressional leadership and was advised Nixon should deliver his address as scheduled.

The focus of the President's remarks will be domestic problems and his prescriptions for dealing with them. Foreign policy questions will be dealt with in mid-February in a lengthy written document informally labeled the President's "state of the world" report.

The New York Times and the Washington Post, meantime, said in today's editions that Nixon has informed the Cabinet he will propose in his message a consolidation of the Departments of Agriculture, Labor, Housing and Urban Development, Health, Education and Welfare, Commerce, Interior and Transportation into four Cabinet agencies.

Under the proposal, Agriculture, Commerce, Labor and Transportation would be brought together to form the Department of Economic Development, while Interior, HUD would become part of the three other proposed departments.

Driver Dies Of Heart Attack

OLD APPLETON--An Oak Ridge man died of a heart attack while driving near Old Appleton shortly after noon yesterday.

At 12:15 p.m. on route D a mile south of Old Appleton, a 1966 Buick traveling east driven by Harry Thompson, Jr., 44, Oak Ridge, went off the road into a ditch, the highway patrol said.

The patrol said the Cape Girardeau county coroner ruled the death resulted from a heart attack.

Stroup Now Serving As Area Assistant

BENTON — Tom B. Stroup, director of the Scott county extension center, has been assigned as area associate director of Scott, Mississippi, New Madrid, Dunklin, Pemiscot and Stoddard counties. He will continue to be headquartered in the center in Scott County.

In this new assignment Stroup will be responsible for the extension programs, in-service training Assignments, area credit and short course classes and other administrative assignments in the six Bootheel counties.

He will be associated with Glenn Patton, area director in the Bootheel, who is headquartered at the Mississippi county extension center in Charleston.

All agricultural requests previously handled by Stroup will be directed to the agronomy or farm management specialists in the area.

Stroup, who has been ill, will return Monday to his office after a two - month leave of absence.

He was hospitalized from Nov. 21 to Dec. 8, in the St. Francis hospital in Cape Girardeau. On Dec. 1 he underwent his third back operation for removal of a disc since 1951.

No Report Cards In School Experiment

A new process of student analysis is being tried for the first time today in the elementary departments of the public schools. The experiment is temporarily replacing the old report card method.

Parents of elementary age students have been requested to schedule a conference with their child's teacher today to be given a personal report on their child's progress, to ask questions or give suggestions. For those parents, who are not able to schedule a meeting, a written report will be mailed about their child's progress.

Superintendent of Schools Lynn Twitty said the school system has thought about the idea of having a parent conference rather than a written report card for some time. Conferences have been held in the past when there was a problem.

"Many schools use this method," Twitty said. "If today's conferences are successful they will be continued in the future on a once a year basis," he said.

Theft Ring Cases To Circuit Court

MARBLE HILL, Mo. (AP) — Five of six persons arrested in connection with an alleged automotive theft ring have waived preliminary hearings and will appear in Bollinger County Circuit Court Monday.

County Prosecutor Kenneth Shrum said Clifford W. Petton Jr., 23, of Lutesville is charged with tampering with a motor vehicle and flourishing a dangerous weapon.

Stanley D. Petton, 21, also Lutesville, is charged with tampering.

Three St. Louis - area residents are charged with receiving stolen property. Schrum identified them as Ronald L. Franklin, 26, Arnold; Richard Roper, 16, St. Louis, and William A. Boyd, 18, St. Louis.

Jolie Ann Niere, 19, of Affton, is charged with tamperihg and is awaiting a preliminary hearing, the prosecutor said.

The six were arrested Tuesday by the sheriffs of Bollinger and Madison Counties and the Missouri Highway Patrol in a raid on a house in the Marquand area near the Madison County line.

Officers said they found a large number of automobiles at the site and three were identifed as stolen vehicles.

Bohannon Resigns Bank Presidency, Lea Succeeds

Don Bohannon, president of First National Bank, today announced his resignation as president and the election of Pat Lea, executive vice president of the Bank of Sikeston, as First National's new president and chief executive officer. The change is effective immediately.

Bohannon said that he would be active in the bank, assisting the new president until the annual stockholders meeting in March. He said he would move his offices to the former Stallings - Huff Insurance Agency building on South Kingshighway. He will remain active as the president of the First National Company of Sikeston in which he acquired controlling interest in December. The First National Company is a one - bank holding company, which owns controlling interest in First National Bank.

Bohannon said he has founded the National Mortgage Company and will enter the mortgage banking field.

Lea joined the Bank of Sikeston in August of 1965 and was elected executive vice president in April of 1966. Prior to that he served as executive officer of the Arkansas Valley Bank in Dardanelle, Ark.

Don Bohannon

Pat Lea

He attended Arkansas State University in Jonesboro and graduated from Arkansas law school in 1956. He is a 1959 graduate of the School of Banking of the South, Louisiana State University.

Lea is serving as chairman of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission, is president to the Kiwanis club and president of the Southeast Missouri Charter Bank Administration Institute.

He has served as chairman of the Sikeston United Fund and president of the Southeast Missouri Development Council.

He is a member of the First Baptist church and is married to the former Mary Elizabeth Lewis of Conway, Ark.

They have two children, Melissa, 10, and Laura, 11, and live at 710 Courtney Drive.

Bohannon has been with First National Bank since 1958 serving as assistant cashier, cashier, vice-president as president.

$1,328 in Items Stolen

A break-in was reported at Lewis Furniture Company on West Malone early yesterday morning. Police said this morning that four television sets, two radios, a stereo tape player and a shotgun valued at $1,327.95 were reported missing.

Apparently the thief was locked in the building after closing time Wednesday night because a lock was broken off on an inside door when the thief left the building. No outside locks were broken.

Observance of Birthday Changed

Supt. of Sikeston Schools Lynn Twitty announced today that George Washington's birthday would be observed by the closing of school on Feb. 15.

By MIKE JENSEN

CAPE GIRAREAU--The Southeast Missouri Peace Officers Association yesterday elected four Scott County men to office at a meeting in a cafe near here.

Fred Glover, juvenile officer of Scott and Mississippi Counties, was elected president; Jack Stewart, deputy sheriff of Scott County, vice president; Sgt. Leonard Campbell of the Sikeston Police Department, secretary-treasurer; and Dolph Webb, Sikeston Fire chief, sergeant-at-arms.

Cliff Hodge, special officer with the Overton police department in St. Louis, gave a self-defense demonstration. Hodge has developed a method of self-defense that has been adopted by the highway patrol and St. Louis county police.

The group received training on riot control and the use of self defense against new weapons that criminals employ.

Hodge was critical of the press saying that it often made the police officer look like a "bad guy" when he is actually only defending himself. He gave examples of the 1968 Chicago riot in which several police officers were injured. He developed his self-defense methods from his experience in these riots.

The next meeting will be in Sikeston in April.

Nightgown Catches Fire, Girl Burned

CATRON--A flaming nightgown, ignited by a gas space heater, Monday caused second degree burns to Debbie Matlock, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Matlock, route one.

She is in the Missouri Delta Community Hospital, Sikeston, with burns on one-fourth of her body.

Her father attempted to smother the flames with a nylon robe, which reportedly melted. He then rolled her on the floor to extinguish the blaze.

Heckemeyer Chairman Of Committee

JEFFERSON CITY--State Representative Tony Heckemeyer of Sikeston has been named chairman of the house miscellaneous committee.

He said this committee will be the one that will recommend Whithers to impeach State Treasurer Bill Robinson, who is under grand jury indictment on a charge of using his office for self-gain.

Heckemeyer also has been appointed to serve on the house economics committee. He said he is "one of seven conservatives on the committee."

Heart Campaign Leaders Appointed

Gene Yokley has been named chairman of Heart Days for Business and Mrs. Robert Turnbull will head Heart Sunday, Heart Fund Campaign Chairman Charles Royal announced today.

Yokley is president of the Jaycees and secretary of Young Democrats. He is a past president of the Dunklin County Heart Association a director of the Missouri Heart Association.

This is the second year that Mrs. Turnbull has served as Heart Sunday chairman. She has been a member of the Heart Fund staff volunteers.

Heart Days for Business is a solicitation of businessmen by businessmen. It will cover stores, professional offices and 11 other nonresidential places.

Volunteers for Heart Sunday will call on their neighbors during the seven-day period starting Feb. 15. Approximately 180 volunteers are being recruited for the canvass.

Church Gives $2,500 to Delta Project

HAYTI — The Missouri Delta Ecumenical Ministry received a $2,500 grant from the national office of the United Church of Christ in New York to aid in its work with poor people.

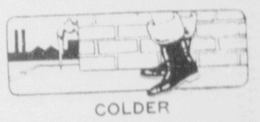

This is the first time in the five - year history of the Hayti centered ministry that support has been received from the United Church of Christ.

With this addition, the ecumenical base of the ministry has been expanded from five to six denominations.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

The only way the average woman can find out if her husband likes a dish she has prepared is to notice if he eats it without scolding.

* * *

Recently the Seniority system for the selection of Congressional committee chairmen has come under increasing attack, largely by newly elected, "maverick," junior members of our national legislative bodies. It is the same junior members who, during the last session of Congress, were the major obstructionists to legislation — any legislation, except that precisely in accord with their own whims. One of our better newspaper columnists, William S. White, reports that "these, the junior members, have been pursuing a policy of all or nothing, of rule or ruin, that is leaving a litter of smashed legislation. They are not wise enough, because they are not experienced enough, to understand that politics in a free society must rest at last upon civilized compromise. They are not industrious enough to work their way forward by merit; they want to run the show before they understand the script."

The altogether disgraceful record of the last Congress should, in itself, demonstrate the shallow and self-serving nature of the campaign againstt the seniority system. But William White points out another compelling reason why the seniority system should be retained. "Another term for seniority is 'know how'," he writes, "and while undeniably the system occasionally produced a chairman of limited ability, it could also fairly be said that the seniority system in the professions occasionally produces a senior law partner who is no Blackstone or a senior medical partner who is no Lister. On the whole, however, a man becomes senior — in the professions and in Congress - mainly because he knows more about the matter in hand, having studied and practiced it longer."

A convincing argument in favor of the seniority system can be found in the automatic advancement of the very able and experienced F.Edward Herbert of Louisiana to the office of Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, to succeed the late Representative Mendel Rivers. Congressman Hebert (pronounced "ABear") is the first Louisianian to serve 26 consecutive years in the U.S. House of Representatives. His background, training and long years of experience — plus the year-after-year "vote of confidence" by the people of his district attest his qualifications for the important post.

A THOUGHT FOR 1971

According to Intelligence Digest in its review of world affairs, the year 1970 ended with the publication of memoirs attributed to Nikita Khrushchev. There has been, and doubtless will continue to be, much controversy about their authenticity. For understandable reasons, Khrushchev denies authorship. The Soviet authorities say that they are a forgery.

But, whatever their authorship, these memoirs undoubtedly give a substantially accurate picture of the USSR -- whatever errors of detail they may contain -- and a very revealing picture it is.

No doubt discussion and debate will go on for a long time about the lessons learned from Khrushchev's memoirs. In fact, there is only one thing which it is necessary to learn from them. That is that the whole concept, constitution, and practice of Communist Russia is infamous, corrupt, depraved, and criminal.

In a word, it is evil. And it is administered and upheld by evil men for evil ends. That is a fact which is clearly revealed in almost every paragraph of Khruschev's memoirs.

We see Stalin as a drunken barbarian and Beria as a lecherous and sadistic ruffian. All the Soviet leaders are shown up to be as astrocious a collection of scoundrels as one could find anywhere. The whole memoirs are filled with corruption and vice. There is not one word which suggests any moral standard of any kind as a basis of or inspiration for policy.

And it is men brought up and trained in this school with whom we have to deal today. That is what should be learned from Khrushchev's memoris.

Nevertheless, this evil creed and the power of these evil men are a factor in human affairs and prevade and influence every aspect of the international situation.

All western foreign policy and many western domestic policy decisions have to be made within the context of the activities of Moscow and Peking.

Millions of words have been written to adduce historic, political and economic reasons for this. There are, of course, such reasons. But there is one basic reason from which all the others arise. It is that atheist revolutionary ideology has been allowed to gain an ascendancy over Christian theology. All the many ancillary reasons for the pervading influence of Communism arise from that one basic factor.

The physical destruction of evil movements has been accomplished over and over again in history, and within a short time the same evil thing has reappeared in another form or under another name. Within the lifetime of most of us the power of Nazism was overthrown, only to be replaced by the power of Communism.

Nazism and Communism are different manifestations of the same thing. Both -- and their predecessors -- are diametrically opposed to the basic Christian belief that there is no such thing as a supreme human authority.

We have condemned ourselves to the use of physical means for the protection of the Free World and these means cannot be discarded merely to suit our own convenience when they become economically too onerous or physically too dangerous. But they can never bring more than temporary relief or security.

The overflow of the evil thing, whatever form it may take, which seeks to dominate the world will be acheived only through acceptance of the whole Christian faith with all its obligations. That is the only way.

The War on Poverty has cost us $8 billion, and now comes the Department of Health, Education and Welfare saying many American children have nutritional deficiencies comparable to children in underdeveloped nations. The cause just might be ignorance of what constitutes a balanced diet, says the Department's preliminary report. You can bet your last jar of government peanut butter it just might be, else someone might question the wisdom of spending $8 billion, only to learn some Americans are still poorly fed. Watch this one, because the guaranteed income riders of the socialist sage will use this preliminary report to shoot up capitalism's town.

LATIN TERRORISM

Twenty-two diplomats and other foreigners have been kidnapped in Latin America -- and five murdered -- since Jan. 16, 1968, when Guatemalan terrorists fatally machine-gunned two American military attaches. Since then, the nations of the hemisphere have sought vainly for a strategy for dealing with the new wave of urban terrorism. They will try again at a nine-day meeting of the Organization of American States beginning Monday, Jan. 25, in Washington. Under discussion by the foreign ministers of 23 member nations will be a report prepared by the Inter-American Juridicial Committee "on acts of terrorism, and, particularly, kidnapping, extortion and assaults against persons."

The report was drafted at the request of a foreign ministers meeting held in Washington last summer. At that time, the foreign ministers overwhelmingly approved a resolution urging that political terrorism, including kidnapping, be handled as a common crime subject to extradition. Traditionally, Latin America nations rarely extradite people considered political fugitives. Brazil, Argentina and the United States, prime movers behind the efforts to do something about terrorism, were hopeful that the committee would produce a resolution that would deny asylum to political terrorists. Diplomatic sources report, however, that the proposal to be presented to the ministers is weak. A behind-the scenes battle is forecast to strengthen it.

Some nations -- Mexico and Chile among them -- are said to be opposed to any proposal calling for uniform action because it would restrict their independence of action. Each nation has gone its own way in dealing with the terrorists. Brazil has followed a policy of releasing prisoners whose names have been furnished by the kidnappers in exchange for the hostages. Uruguay and Argentina have steadfastly refused to make deals with the terrorists. The tragedy of the situation is that the terrorists have turned the regard of others for human life -- and their own disregard for it -- into an effective weapon.

The Public Service Company of Colorado announced that children of the future may never need braces for their teeth or have to worry about cavities. Experiments are currently being done with a laser beam to treat teeth to prevent decay. Used with the proper intensity, the laser seals tiny passageways through which agents of toothdecay penetrate the enamel on teeth. Experimental tests are being done on animals and extracted human teeth. Clinical trials on human subjects are at least two years away, but tests will soon begin on teeth which are scheduled for extraction. Electricity may also be used to straighten crooked teeth and to repair injured and diseased bone. The possibility of negative electrodes stimulating bone production is being explored. It is believed that positive electrodes are associated with diminished bone formation. Experiments have shown that pressure produces a type of electricity in bones which may be the reason for pressure reshaping bones.

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — If everyone said only what he really meant, and meant everything he said, this world would be a bear pit.

The friction generated by our clashing egos would rub us all raw. If each man or woman told the other what he really thought of him, human society as we know it would be impossible.

That is why we have double talk, which is as essential to society as the wheel is to progress. Double talk is the art of saying something pleasant while thinking, perhaps, just the opposite. This enables us to salve the other fellow while salving our own desire to be honest, too.

For the uninitiated, here are a few examples of double talk in quotes, followed in each case by what the person who said them was actually thinking:

"My dear, quit worrying about it. It fits you like a glove."—That's why it makes you look like a baseball catcher's mitt.

"What we can't change we have to put up with. After all, neither of us is getting any younger."—But if I thought I looked as old as you do, I'd put on a mask.

"Professor, taking your course in Plato makes me feel like I'm strolling in Athens on a sunlit day."--But anyway you slice it, it's still Greek to me.

"Smithers, we mustn't try to skip up the rungs of the ladder of success too quickly or we'll miss some of the view, won't we?"--Does this nitwit have the effrontery to think he can beat me out of my job?

"I have listened to you carefully, and rest assured I'll give your words thoughtful consideration.'--They went in one ear and out the other so fast they didn't even make an echo.

"The tensions of today build up in all of us. My advice is that you should take a long vacation somewhere alone where you can find yourself—the real you."—At least then you can't pollute my environment.

"Do you really mean you want me to tell you what I think you should do?"—You tempt me, Mac, you tempt me.

THE AGE OF GAB

The United States has overtaken Canada in the yak-yak sweepstakes.

Latest figures reported in "The World's Telephones," an annual compilation by AT&T, reveal that Americans made an average of 701 local and long - distance telephone calls each during 1968.

Canadians had been the most talkative people in the world in every year since 1951 but thy dropped to second with 693 conversations per capita in 1968,, the most recent year for which statistics are available.

There were also a lot more telephones to accommodate all this talk. In 1968 their number increased by 16 million to a world total of 238 million.

The United States led with the absolute most — 109,256,000 — but second -place Japan with 20,525,000 had the highest ratio of telephones to population — 54 for every 100 persons.

Tokyo alone had 3,641,000 Ameches, almost as many as the state of Ohio, New York City had 5,723,353, but according to local citizens most of those often didn't work.

Mose than 200 countries and territories are now on speaking terms with 97 per cent of the world's 238 million telephones.

Clearly a lot of gab is being spread around by Mr. Bell's invention. But how much understanding?

I repeated this to a bookseller and his comment was interesting.

'Your friend,' he said, 'is the victim of a delusion that handicaps millions of people. Some men havythe idea that they can't afford to be the president of a corporation at a salary of less than $100,000 a year, and other men think they can't afford to lay bricks for less than $25 a day. I say that at no time is any man worth more than he can get. If I put a minimum price on my time, I never could have stayed in the bookselling business. By adjusting myself to the realities of my situation, however, I have been able to make a living for twenty years.'

LAY TAX COMPLICITY TO MARGINAL RATE SETUP

"It is not necessary to look very far for the principal source of the ever - increasing complexity of the income tax ... it is the progressively graduated marginal rate structure," Norman B. Ture of the Planning Research Corpoeation told attendees at the 21st National Tax Conference.

This rate structure, said Ture, Principal of thycorporation's Economics Department, has exerted "enormous pressures" for changes in the law to afford exceptions from the full application of the high, graduated rates with respect to particular goups of taxpayers.

"It should be obvious", Ture said, "that the search for tax shelters will continue so long as marginal rate graduation continues to afford such strong incentives for tax shelters.

Progressively graduated marginal tax rates, he said, can hardly be justified in terms of their contributions to the total revenues.

NOT ONE CENT FROM TAXPAYERS

From the standpoint of capital investment, the investor-owned light and power industry is the largest industry in the nation, according to the chairman of the Federal Power Commission, Mr. Lee C. White. this means that it takes more dollass to buy the machinery to generate a given amount of electricity than it does to produce anything else. When an electric company expands to meet growing energy requirements of an area, it adds heavily to community payrolls, tax revenue and opportunities for industrial development.

Typical of investor - owned utility expansion taking place all over the country is that of a single power company in the state of Utah. A press release describes the investment program of this company calling for the expenditure of $223 million throughout its scrvice area in Utah, southeast Idaho, Wyoming and Colorado during the next five years. The president of the company points out that its expansion plans call for investment at an average of $3.75 million each month over the next 60 months. One hundred and thirty - four million dollars of the $223 million program will be in "new money" from voluntary investors all over the nation. The remaining amount will be generated within the company from earnings. Translated into energy, the five - year investment will result in new generating c-pacity sufficient to supply the needs of a city of about .75 million people in addition to necessary transmission, distribution lines, substations and other equipment.

The most significant aspect of this power development story from Utah is the source of the money. It should be noted well that the taxpayers of other states are not being called upon to pay the cost of providing "cheap power" for privileged customers half a continent or more away. This is the great difference between tax-supported commercial government ventures and taxpaying, investor - owned private enterprise.

H.L. Hunt Says

RETALIATION

Harassment of U.S. citizens in Russia has broadened the chasm between the two countries and heightened tensions on both sides. The Russians have shoved Americans and commited vandalism on their automobiles. These deplorable acts came in the wake of a bomb explosion at a Russian installation in this country.

These incidents are regrettable and all are inexcusable. It would be well if both governments put a halt to these outrages. Undoubtedly, the authorities of this county will attempt to identify and apprehend the bombers. But it is unlikely that the Russians will stop the indignities being heaped on U.S. citizens presently in the U.S.S.R.

Unlawful acts in both countries call attention to differences in the philosophies of the two nuclear giants. The Russians offered no excuses or apologies for the untoward conduct of their citizens. This nation did announce its intentions of preventing similar bombing offenses.

With the end of a clumsy and one-sided alliance in World War II, the powers of the nuclear age went their own diplomatic ways. Moscow, with all its secrecy and intrigue, has constantly made a sham of diplomatic intercourse with Washington. Expansion and aggression have been the communist keynotes rather than the time-tested instruments of diplomacy. It is to be hoped that a criminal or lunatic in this nation doesn't push us even closer to atomic confrontation via the senseless exploding of dynamite in a pipe at a Russian installation. HLH

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--Literally thousands of government officials, researchers, speech writers, assorted aides and assistants have contributed to President Nixon's State of the Union speech. For weeks, they have been digging up facts, suggesting ideas and polishing up prose for the Great Address.

One White House aide, apologetically to be sure, even came up with a quotation from Richard Goodwin, a speechwriter for former President's Kennedy and Johnson. Goodwin's liberalism would taint his ideas in the eyes of most White House inhabitants today. Nevertheless, aide Andrew Rouse, in an internal memo full of ideas for selling the President's government reorganization plan to the public, wrote:

"Bureaucracy as a form of organization tends to contort policy to existing structures rather than adjusting structures to reflect change in policy. Richard Goodwin (who perhaps I should not be quoting) said 'structure is policy.'"

Inside the White House, the reorganization has stirred more excitement than any other presidential proposal. Rouse submitted two lengthy memos, one dated December 31, the other January 2, with his suggestions on how to present the reorganization in the State of Union message.

"Government organizations have not, will not, and probably cannot change themselves..." he wrote. "Every once in awhile, it is important to wrench government organizations so as to adjust them to current realities. In doing so, we recognize that in ten years the system will be once again completely out of whack."

HIGHER TAXES

Citing the money that can be saved from eliminating government duplication, Rouse stated bluntly: "It is quite evident that there will be a demand for more funds in the foreseeable future...People, when they consider the demands for new taxes, often ask the question, will they help? Will I get my money's worth? The answer to that question today, I am sure, is usually no, the money goes down a rat hole....

"Reorganization of government structure both in Washington and in the field signals government's determination to make sure people get their money's worth. The receptivity of the nation to more taxation will never be enthusiatic. But considering that new taxation is probably inevitable, reorganization can help make the reception of the news positive."

He pointed out several examples of government overlap, wast and rivalry that should be eliminated by the President's proposed reorganization. Typical examples:

"The Bureau of Reclamation, the Corps of Engineers and the Soil Conservation Service are each involved in water development projects," wrote Rouse. "It is not uncommon for three agencies to complete projects on the same river such that the project of one interferes with the effect of the project of the other."

The Economic Development Administration's structure, he said, "evolved quickly out of the necessity to start shoveling money. The agency had a waiting list of potential grantees compiled before it had an office."

WASHINGTON EXPOSE

HOSPITAL COSTS --We have been flooded with calls, letters and copies of medical bills since we wrote recently about hospital and health insurances costs. But none was more astonishing than the case of a lady clerk who went to a hospital for treatment of a minor injury. Her hospital bill included the charges for circumcision. A short time later, at a Virginia hospital, a burly construction worker hobbled into a hospital with a hurt leg. He came out with a bill that included a $25 delivery room fee. Both these cases were confirmed by the Kemper Insurance companies, which caught the overcharges. They gave us another: two workers, both in need of glass eyes, were sent off to different opticians. One optician charged $75, the other $275 for the same kind of glass eye. No wonder hospital costs soar by 151 per cent every 10 years.

ARMY SPYING--The brass hats apparently don't intend to cooperate with the two congressional committees that are investigating the Army's practice of spying on civilians. A memo, intended for the eyes of Washington's 116th Military Intelligence Group, directs: "All files, records and information in the possession of the executive branch is privileged and is not releasable to any part of the legislative branch without the specific direction of the President. Any request for information received by any member of this unit from anyone representing the legislative branch will be referred to the commanding officer, deputy commanding officer or operations officer." Army sources tell us that much of the information about civilians was slipped to Army Intelligence by the FBI, which doesn't want the raw data to leak to Congress.

FOOTBALL AIRLIFT--We recently reported that 14 Air Force generals used Air Force planes to fly to the Sugar Bowl football game in New Orleans. We have now learned 11 Air National Guard planes were also deployed to airlife 500 cadets to watch their Air Force Academy lose to the University of Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl. The planes were rounded up from such farflung points as Washington, D.C., Cheyenne, Wyo. Martinsburg, W.Va., Dallas, Phoenix, Van Nuys, Calif., and Nashville and Knoxville, Tenn. About 30 crewmen received full pay and allowances, plus $25 per diem and free tickets to the game.

Inside Labor

NEW YORK: -- Late in the evening of Thursday, Jan. 14 power in this town passed to the people -- 25,000 of them. But they weren't the "people" campus crowds chant about. They were the cops. They truly were the power. No governor, no mayor, no city council, no union leaders could move the.

They struck. It was no "job action." It was purely and simply I believe, a political strike move.

Thus for the first time in the history of American law and order, the forces which took an oath to puphold the safety of the people went out on a political strike. Having happened in New York, it will happen again and again. Those who've shouted Pig now have polarized the police -- and in turn have catalyzed the era of strikes by which the people who work for the people no longer will feel strained to withhold their labor, their guns, muscles, brains or any other skill which moves the mechanixm of government.

Note well what happened as 85 per cent of the cops of the biggest and most powerul force in the land staged their precinct sit-ins. They permitted their contract to run only 14 days past the New Year's Eve expiration. They struck without giving the city the usual run for its money -- which it doesn't have being short some $300,000,000in operating cash. They sat in allegedly because the Court of Appeals had told them to bring their suit for $2,700 in retroactive pay to a Supreme Court jury trial . The cops refused to go out on emergency duty -- though the fire fighters had, or as railway union leader Les Dennis had promised tomove commuters, coal to power stations and defense material.

Yet behind the scenes these cops, who do well indeed,had been pledged retroactivity. Their pay is fine. Like other police, it's gone up 45 per cent in the past five years. They can retire with half pay at any age after "20". They can go out after "15" with good pension rights. They can retire on full pay after 35 years at any age -- meaning as early as 56 years. Compare this with the auto workers' $500-a-month pension after 30 years.

They have fantastic fringe benefits, one of the best drug and dental plans, full hospitalization and surgery. They can go sick for a year. They're covered for life.

When this new contract eventually is signed, they'll be earning over $13,000 at least. Half of them live in the suburbs and few begrudge them this. Why then did they give the city just 14days before they set a precedent from which there will be a chain reaction in municipalities across the U.S.? Why did they leave 8 million people and hundreds of thousands of visitors unprotected in a city with 275,000 drug addicts responsible for 70 per cent of the crime -- compulsive crime but nonetheless deadly?

This was rank-and-file action. This was the response to power to the people. This was the reaction -- if they can do it why not us -- to the uproar on the campus.

Remember that cops are people and people are young these days. The Patrolmen's Benevolent Assn. (P.B.A.) tells me some 60 per cent of its members are under 30 years of age; and most of them are between 24 and 28 years ; and most of them have been 3 and 5 years "on the job."

These young men are tough. During a recent TV interview they stood in the background and mocked their leaders shouting language which has been turned into the new culture by a dozen institutes of higher learning. They weren't blaspheming the newsmen - just their leaders who were attempting to show some responsibility.

And some weeks ago some of them revolted at the 19th precinct (near the Soviet embassy.). Not wanting to touch off a city-wide strike, the superior officers actually punished no one-- though the men were as wrong as an LSD trip. They actually sat down in protest against an investigation of corruption in the Police Dept.

Well, now that 25,000 New York cops have struck because they hate the mayor; because they're frustrated; because they loathe being reviled by the militants; because they fear their image in their home communities, what happens?

The very same thing which this column predicted exactly five years ago after some 32,000 men struck New York's transit facilities. Nothing then would be sacred not hospitals, not fire houses, not police stations, not garbage collections. Nothing.

And certainly not the federal government. There were airport strikes and that grim postal strike last March.

And now that anything goes, there may be another stoppage as Moe Biller's militant Manhattan-Bronx Postal Union, the 35,00 member affiliate of the National Postal Union, bristles over internal union negotiations. There may be a strike of workers against some Pentagon operation. Nothing will be sacred or immune.

The world will be if the New York Police -- the big town's first line of defense -- can strike in defiance of the people, the mayor, the courts, the governor, why can't we?

No doubt this will hurt the AFL-CIO's new drive for laws in 50 states which would give the public employe the same right to strike as those workers in the private sector. AFL-CIO Vice President Matty Guinan, president of the Transport Workers Union (he succeeded Mike Quill) has headed a committee which drew up model municipal right-to-strike and anti-injunction laws. Chief labor lobbyist Andy Biemiller has just dispatched copies to all central state labor groups. How can they now expect sympathy for their cause in state legislature? True, the New York patrolmen's Benevolent Assn. is an independent outfit. True, Jerry Wurf's Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes' police locals are forbidden to strike.

But what care the rank and file now about leaders? They like slot machine unionism. They put in their dues and they want the jackpot each time. If not, then the hell with their leaders. Well, power has passed on to some people.

Obviously now some people are more equal than others.

LINWOOD, Kan. (AP)— The Linwood High School boys wrestling team has a new coach—23 year-old Clara Shub.

Mrs. Shub was named to the post last week. Her principal duties at the 90-student school in Leavenworth County are as teacher of vocal and instrumental music for both the high school and the seeventh and eighth grades.

She took the job of wrestling coach because the boys wanted to compete and none of the male staff members at the school felt able to handle the job.

"I grew up in western Kansas, where wrestling is big," she said, when asked about her qualifications for the coaching job.

She comes from Atwood, Kan., and she and her husband, Charles Shub, a candidate for a doctor of philosophy degree in computer science at the University of Kansas, are avid sports fans. They live in Lawrence, Kan.

The school is not a member of any regular league but plans to enter various state-approved meets. The team was entered in the 126, 145, 157 and 165pound classes Saturday in a regional tournament at Tonganoxie.

Cougars Here Monday

How do you chart offensive and defensive plans against a team you haven't seen play all season?

"We'll go with our regular offense and assign matchups on defense according to size and speed," said Memphis Coach Babe McCarthy whose Pros engage the Carolina Cougars for the first time this season here Monday night.

The 8 o'clock American Basketball Association regular season game will be held in the Sikeston Public School Field House. A 7 o'clock preliminary game will match a local church league all-star team against a team composed of church league coaches.

Because of scheduling problems and arena availability difficulties, the Pros and Cougars are the only two ABA teams who haven't clashed this season. They played six times last year, but only four players remain from the 1969-70 Cougar team that won three and lost three against McCarthy's club which was then located in New Orleans.

"They have what appears to be a fine ball club," said McCarthy. "I've been watching their box scores and have talked with other coaches in the league. They are certainly better than their record would indicate."

The Cougar roster contains several familiar names to most knowledgeable basketball buffs. The most prominent is "Pogo Joe" Caldwell, 6-5 forward who jumped to the ABA after six seasons in the NBA' Caldwell, a former St. Louis and Atlanta Hawk star, is the Cougars' top scorer and ranks 10th among the loop's top scorers with a 22.7 average.

Three other ex-NBA players are on the Cougar squad. Two are former Hawks. One is Dave Newmark, 7-1 center from Columbia. The other is George Lehmann, 6-3 guard from Campbell. Backing up Newmark at center is Rich Johnson, 6-10 second-year man from Grambling and a member of the Boston Celtics last season.

A pair of former collegiate All-Americans play in the backcourt for Carolina. They are Bob Verga, 6-1, Duke, and Larry Miller, 6-5, North Carolina.

McCarthy said he wasn't definitely decided on his defensive matchups for Monday's game, but indicated he would likely assign rookie Wendell Ladner, 6-5, Southern Mississippi, to go against Caldwell. He is sure to put Steve Jones on Miller and James Jones on the deadly shooting Verga,who is averaging 20.2.

"I'm not sure about the other two matchups," McCarthy said. "I may start Wilbert Jones at forward and Gerald Govan in the middle or I may go with Govan at forward and put 6-11 Craig Raymond on Newmark."

Following Saturday's nationally televised ABA All-Star Game (1 p.m. CBS), the Pros play the Floridians in Jacksonville, Fla. Sunday night.

Passing Show

LOS ANGELES (AP)— John Brodie of the San Francisco 49ers and Daryle Lamonica of the Oakland Raiders will be the starting quarterbacks Sunday when the greatest collection of talent in pro football history tangles in the first Pro Bowl matching stars of the American and National conference.

Unlike past all-star clashes, this game, which will be nationally televised by CBS starting at 1 p.m., PST, is expected to be played to its fullest — with no prohibitions on blitzing or any other arrangements made between the coaches.

With NFC Coach Dick Nolan naming Brodie and AFC Coach John Madden naming Lamonica a passing show is expected for the clash of 81 of the National Football League's top stars in a contest heightened by elements of the old AFL-NFL rivalry.

For as much as anything this is a test of prestige for the combatants on each side following a season in which the NFC won 27 games and the AFC 12 in head-on meetings. The AFC's Baltimore Colts grabbed the Super Bowl over the NFC's Dallas Cowboys.

That pride in conference may be the major reason no gentlemen's agreements have been reached between the coaches to guard against an all-out battle.

That not only offers the prospect of a major offensive battle with all the major statistical leaders on hand, but a hardhitting defensive struggle revolving around savage front fours.

Aiming at Brodie will be an AFC front four that totals over 1,100 pounds—6-foot-7, 295-pound Bubba Smith of Baltimore, 6-7, 287-pound Buck Buchanan of Kansas City, 6-4, 270-pound Joe Greene of Pittsburgh and 6-3, 256-pound Rich Jackson of Denver.

Lamonica, meanwhile, will have to contend with a lighter, but quicker NFC quartet of 6-5, 250-pound Deacon Jones of Los Angeles, 6-5, 260-pound Bob Lilly of Dallas, 6-4, 250-pound Alan Page of Minnesota and 6-6, 255pound Carl Eller of the Vikings.

That creates several interesting match-ups. Jones will be going against 6-6, 270 tackle Jim Tyrer of Kansas City and Lilly against the Chiefs' 6-5, 260 pound guard Ed Budde. On the other side, two Rams — tackle Charlie Cowan and guard Tom Mack — will have to handle Smith and Buchanan, respectively.

With the battle along the lines ensured, the most explosive performers in the NFL will begin parading their talents.

The NFC offensive unit named by Nolan to start includes 1,000-yard receiver Gene Washington of the 49ers and 1,000-yard ground gainer Larry Brown of Washington. Two other 1,000-yard producers, — receiver Dick Gordon of Chicago and running back Ron Johnson of the Giants, wait their turn.

Brodie's other weapons at the start will be another receiver named Gene Washington, of the Vikings, tight end Charlie Sanders of Detroit and running back MacArthur Lane of St. Louis.

The AFC-starting offensive and defensive units are dominated by the Raiders and the Chiefs. Oakland will have six players on the offensive side and one on defense while Kansas City has two on offense and five on defense.

Lamonica will have two of his own receivers in Warren Wells and tight end Raymond Chester plus a familar running back in Hewritt Dixon and two line mates—center Jim Otto and tackle Harry Schuh. Receiver Gary Garrison of San Diego and running back Leroy Kelly fill out his complement of starting offensive weapons.

In reserve on the bench will be the conferences leadg rusher, Floyd Little of Denver, and top receiver, Marlin Briscoe of Buffalo.

In addition to prestige, the players will be battling for winner's shares of $2,000 each, with $1,500 going to each member of the losing team. If the teams are tied at the end of regulation time, they will play sudden death to determine the outcome.

Fame Voters Throw Curve

Koufax, who hurled four nohitters and established numerous major league strikeout marks during his illustriouscareer with the Los Angeles Dodgers, will pass his five-year waiting period next year.

The Baseball Writers Association of America slammed the door—at least for this year—on top vote-getters Berra, Wynn and Kiner Thursday when they failed to draw the necessary 270 votes, or 75 per cent mention, on the 360 ballots.

Berra, the former New York Yankee catcher, who came closest with 240 votes in his first year of eligibility, was philosophical, saying: "Maybe next year." But he added: "It gets tougher every year with new men becoming eligible."

Kiner, the former Pittsburgh slugger who finished third in the balloting with 212 votes, echoed Berra's feelings:

"You can always say there will be another. But there is no surety. You have new men coming in. Next year there will be Sandy Koufax among others."

While Berra and Kiner were disappointed, yet hopeful, Wynn, who won 300 games during his career that spanned three decades (1939-1963) with Cleveland, Washington and the Chicago White Sox, said:

"It's a damn shame they don't put somebody in. I'd rather see someone, anyone, get in. It's a letdown. I can't tell you how I really feel. The language would be embarrassing."

Berra got some consolation from the fact that his old teammate Joe DiMaggio also failed to gain the Hall of Fame on his first try.

Ted Williams, Stan Musial, Bob Feller and Jackie Robinson previously were elected the first time they were eligible. Baseball writers with at least 10 years experience took part in the voting.

The Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y., may land new inductees this year when the Hall's Veterans Committee votes Jan. 31 on executives and players who have been inactive for more than 20 years.

Turkey Season Set

JEFFERSON CITY--Missouri turkey hunters will have a longer season from April 22 through May 2. Three new counties will be added to the open area--Benton, Maries and Oregon. There will be 44 counties open.

Primary advantage of a longer season is to overcome the effects of adverse weather on gobbling activity and to increase the possibility of having the season open during the peak of gobbling activity.

Good hatches the last two years have led to a good population increase in wild turkeys. The longer season should result in a larger bag by turkey hunters who last year killed a record 1614 gobblers.

Spring turkey hunting takes advantage of a male turkey's inability to keep from opening his mouth to let his lady turkey friends know where he is.

But bad weather in past seasons has slowed gobbling activity and kept hunters from scoring.

Limit will be one male turkey or turkey with a visible beard, as in past seasons. Shooting hours will be from 5 A.M. and noon, Central Standard Time.

Legal weapons are shotgun with shot shell or longbow. Open counties include Adair, Barry, Benton, Bollinger, Butler, Callaway, Camden, Carter, Cedar, Crawford, Dent, Douglas, Franklin, Gasconade, Hickory, Howell, Iron, Jefferson, Madison, Maries, McDonald, Miller, Monroe, Montgomery, Morgan, New Madrid, Oregon, Osage, Ozark, Perry, Phelps, Pulaski, Reynolds, Shannon, St. Clair, Ste. Genevieve, St. Francois, Stone, Sullivan, Taney, Texas, Warren, Washington and Wayne.

All turkeys must be tagged and checked between 7 A.M. and 3 P.M. at a checking station in the county where taken or an adjoining one on the day taken.

Whiling Away The Hours

Vaught, waterfowl biologist for the Department of Conservation, has that little project on the boards now. "It takes quite a little time," he says with the understatement of the year.

On Jan. 5, the Department helped in the annual statewide waterfowl count, administered throughout the Mississippi flyway by the U.S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife.

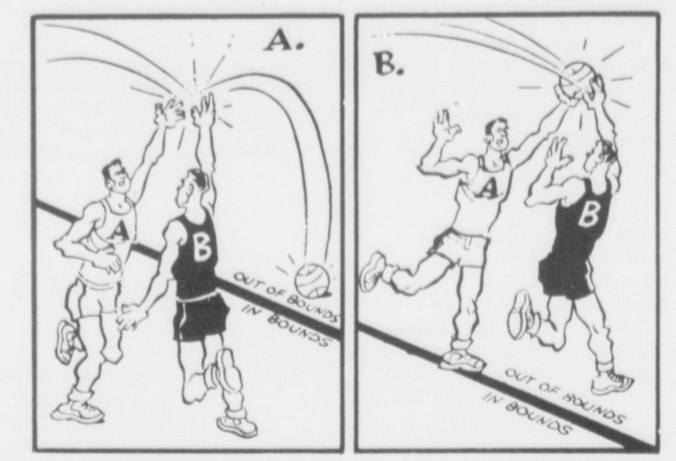

Vaught took aerial photos about 400 feet over three waterfowl areas--Swan Lake, the Dalton Cutoff and the Missouri River. At the same time, he estimated the number of waterfowl he saw at 107,000.

He'll take the blown-up prints of the pictures, put a pinhole everwhere he sees a goose or duck, then illuminate the print from behind. . . and start counting.

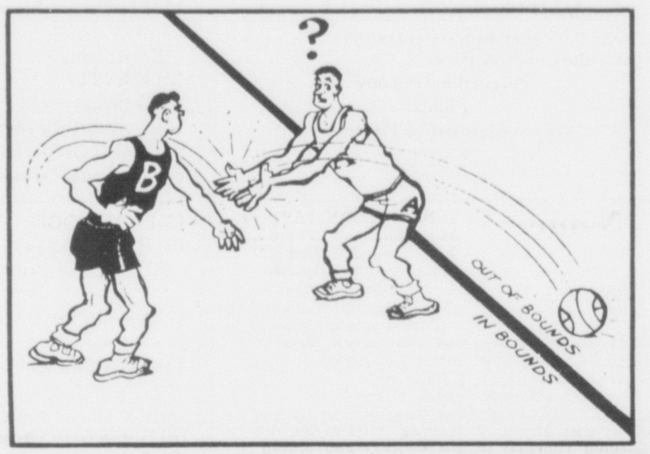

That is, he and waterfowl biologists Karl Slagle and Ken Babcock and some of the secretaries in the Columbia Game and Fish Research Center and anyone he can shanghaii will do it.

"We've checked ourselves like this eight or 10 times over the years," Vaught says. "We come out plus or minus five per cent from our eyeball count. We have been within two per cent."

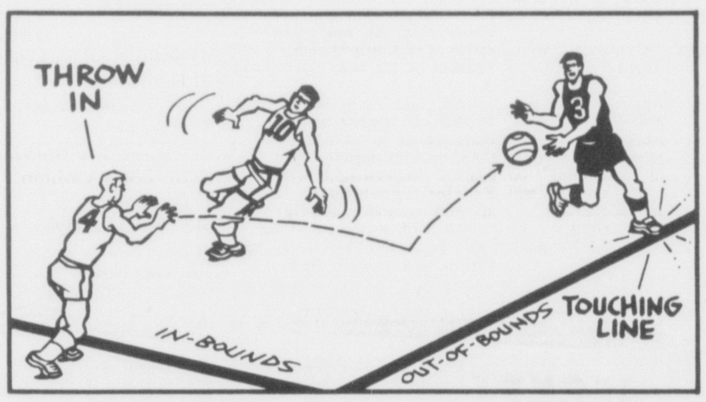

BASKETBALL RULES
Simplified and Illustrated

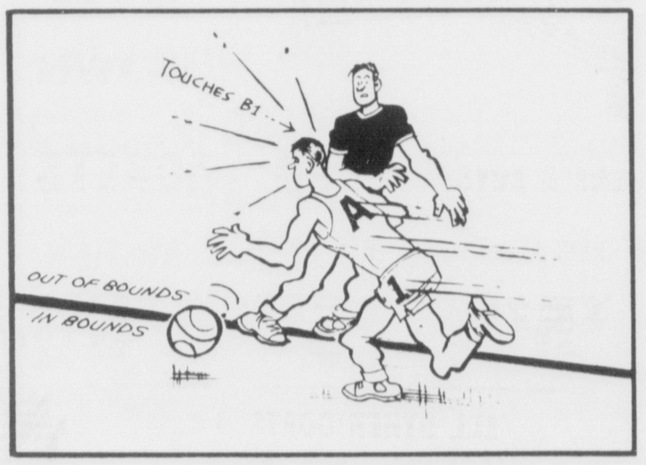

If A and B simultaneously touch a ball before it goes out-of-bounds or if A and B simultaneously touch a ball while they are both out-of-bounds or if the officials disagree as to who caused the ball to go out, play is resumed by a jump-ball at the nearest circle between the two players involved.

If A is holding the ball and B knocks it out of his hands to out-of-bounds it is A's ball out.

Hayti Ranked 4th in State

Nine SEMO cage quintets were selected among the top 10 in their respective class after polling three of the state's major newspapers, Globe-Democrat; Kansas City Star; and Springfield News and Leader; and a well known source in the Central Missouri area.

Undefeated Hayti, sporting an unblemished 15-0 season slate, rated the highest of the Southeast representatives, holding down the number two spot in Class M behind defending state M champ, Hermann. Coach Bill Beck's Indians were rated fourth in the entire state.

Charleston and Notre Dame of Cape Girardeau rated fifth in their respective Class L and M division while Leadwood was eighth in M; Parma eighth in S; Richland of Essex ninth in M and Delta 10th in S.

Oilers Name New Coach

HOUSTON (AP)–Ed Hughes says he believes the Houston Oilers can provide fans with an exciting and winning ball club.

Hughes, 43, offensive assistant for the San Francisco 49ers, was selected Thursday as the Oilers new head coach.

He signed a five-year contract at an undisclosed salary and in so doing accepted his first head coaching job after 12 years as an assistant.

Hughes announced he was retaining Walt Schlinkman, defensive backs, and Fran Polsfoot, receivers, the only assistants still remaining on Lemm's staff. He said he will select four more assistants.

The Oilers, riddled by injuries, fell to a 3-10-1 mark last season.

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Joan Shipman Payson, Jack Dempsey and Willard Mullin will be honored Tuesday, Jan. 26 by the National Cartoonists Society at its annual sports night.

Mrs. Payson, main owner of the New York Mets and part owner of Greentree Stable, will be honored as the No. 1 lady of sports. Dempsey, former world heavyweight boxing champion, is being feted as the Athlete of the Century and Mullin as the Sports Cartoonist of the Century.

Ali said, however, he would fight in exhibition in Dayton within 30 days after the title tilt.

Pros. Top Floridians

ABA Roundup
By THE ASSOCIAED PRESS

If Memphis can make as much progress off the court as the Pros are making on it, the troubled American Basketball Association franchise ought to be in good shape again soon.

The Pros stung the Floridians 116-106 Thursday night in Nashville, Tenn., while Memphis citizens scurried around, trying to raise enough cash to insure keeping the financially troubled team in Memphis.

Another $30,000 was pledged Thursday by individuals trying to keep the Pros in Memphis. That raised the total pledged so far to $230,000. An estimated $800,000 is needed. The ABA has been operating the team since December when owner P.L. Blake withdrew, citing $200,000 in losses in 60 days.

On the court, the Pros are doing quite well, thank you. They've won seven of their last nine games and used their three Jones boys to wear out the Floridians Thursday night.

The Jones trio had 64 points, 27 by Jimmy, 20 by Steve and 17 by Wilbert. Mack Calvin, the ABA's No. 2 scorer, led the losers with 24.

Indiana strung eight straight points in the final minutes to break an 80-80 tie and whip Denver. The losers went 2 minutes, 17 second without a point during the Pacers' hot streak.

Ron Jaynes' SPORTS CORNER

BASKETBALL in Southeast Missouri early in the season was a real challenge to predict, but after Tuesday night's 14 of 16 showing, think we've finally got the situation analyzed ... At least we hope so.

Tonight's schedule will be a good testing grounds as a number of top clashes are on tap.

Before we get down to the job at hand, we'd like to remind those of you wanting to comment ... pro or con ... on our column or any other facet of the sports pages ..... Please sign your name to the correspondents so that we may print it .... A recent letter from someone claiming to be a member of the Bluejay basketball team will not be printed for lack of signature.

ADVANCE AT RICHLAND -- Many area teams make claim to playing the toughest schedule ... But the Richland Rebels layout of games must rank among the top ... Here they are going against Stoddard County rival .. AHS. Both teams have displayed explosive offenses this season and the key to this victory will be which one will ignite first ... We think the Rebels ... RHS 84, AHS 73.

CLARKTON AT HAYTI -- It's the teams that you don't expect to pull the upsets ... that do ... The Reindeer aren't near the team their 1-11 record may indicate ... they're much better ... and if the Tribe don't watch out the Deer could knock them from the unbeaten ranks ... We doubt it though ... Hayti 98, Clarkton 68.

POPLAR BLUFF AT KENNETT --After somewhat of a showing of poise in the Bloomfield tournament ... the KHS Tribe have returned to early season form ... It hasn't been an enjoyable season for the Indians, who have had bad nights connecting with the basket and still worst nights throwing up a defense ... They might snap out of it tonight against the rival L visiting Mules ... We see a close encounter with the score ... Poplar Bluff 61, Kennett 57.

SIKESTON AT LILBOURN -- Coach N.P. McDaniel's Bulldogs showed they can play with the best in Southeast Missouri last Firday evening .... They'll be facing one of the best tonight ... We see a close contest ... with the BULLDOG VICTORY... Sikeston 78, Lilbourn 70.

HOLCOMB AT PARMA -- The Pirates speed, defense and sharp shooting on the home court and before the home town fans will be too much for the Hornets to overcome ... Vance Pawielski will get his chance to star again in the late minutes of the contest ... Another one point bank for the 4-foot -2 cager ... Parma 66, Holcomb 50

NEW MADRID AT TWIN RIVERS -- If the Royals keep improving as they have ... Don't count them out at Regional time ... But don't count them in yet either ... especially in this contest with the Indians. Pressure has been the Royals' biggest object to overcome ... and they'll face it tonight ... New Madrid 68, Twin Rivers 56.

MALDEN AT BLOOMFIELD -- We've gone with the Wildcats one too many times this season ... No more though ... The Greenwave Cagers will prevail.. Malden 71, Bloomfield 50.

NORTH PEMISCOT AT PORTAGEVILLE -- In years past, whenever these two have met, ... its gone right down to the wire ... This match should be no different. The Mustangs have lost three of its last four games, while the Bulldogs have shown signs of peaking ... A little more defense on PHS's part and they'll knock off the NPHS cagers ... We don't see that big effort though ... North Pem 72, Portageville 62.

BERNIE AT WOODLAND -- Both of these two quintets were rated high in early season polls of projected SEMO powers ... but have been among the so - called "door mats" so far ... It's an extra hard game to predict ... but we'll stick our necks out and say Bernie 64, Woodland 63.

RISCO AT SENATH -HORNERSVILLE -- An earlier match between this two foes proved the Lions the best ... but it took a late quarter surge to post the win ... The Tigers will again prove a real test for the host ... but SHHS will prevail... 70, 62.

We see Ellsinore over Lesterville; Parkway West beating Cape Central South Pemiscot over Campbell, Fredericktown defeating Potosi; Clearwater edging Greenville; Van Buren adding their 18th; South Iron turning back Bunker; St. Vincent dumping Arcadia Valley; Leadwood over Ste. Genevieve; Flat River edging Bismark and Leopold topping Cape St. Vincent.

MISSOURI

The Sikeston Archery Club again topped the Cape Girardeau Archery Club in a rematch, with a total score of 2,719 to Cape's 2,493.

Archers from Cape were:

Team shoots will start Sunday, January 24. Anyone interested can obtain information at D. & M. Archery Lanes in Sikeston.

Coach Dan Devine named the first of his new Green Bay Packer coaching staff Thursday — Dae Hanner, who has been with the team 13 years as player and six as defensive line coach.

As part of his coaching duties, Hanner had been in charge of scouting in the Big Eight Conference and has known Devine personally from visits to the University of Missoui campus.

Amos Otis had the best hitting for the Kansas City Royals in 1970 when he went 5-for-5 against the Cleveland Indians on May 2.

Braves Top Bobcats

SCOTT CITY — Scott County Central gunned down Delta 71-60 to set the state for Saturday night's championship bout in the Scott-Mississippi conference tournament varsity bracket, where the Braves go against rival Kelly at 8:30 p.m. Illmo-Scott City knocked off Oran in a JV-clash Thursday to move into the title bout of that division against another Kelly quintet at 7 p.m.

A balanced scoring attack lifted coach Ron Cookson's sharp-shooting Braves into the finals and past the second seeded Bobcats. The Braves had five players in double figures, with Sophomore Louis Wheeler leading the attack with 16 points. John Fort added 15; along with Robbie Phillips while Charles Watson chipped in 13 and Denny Alcorn 12.

The Braves rebounded from a 19-12 firs period deficit into a 37-34 half time lead and added to the lead in each of the third and fourth quarters.

Bill Hanlon the smallest man on the court at 5-foot-8, led the Bobcats offense with 15 points.

I-SC bounced from an 11-4 first period defieit to unend the favored Eagle quintet behind the 27 point scoring performance of Rick Amick. Oran got 15 points from Bruce Roberts.

Consolation finals are set tonight.

LAND BANK OPEN - END FARM LOAN

Why shouldn't farmers be able to use their equity in farm land for capital credit needs as they come along without having to get a new loan each time additional capital funds are needed?

ANSWER: They should and they can under the OPEN-END plan. As a qualified borrower, you can obtain the money you need now -- additional funds for any eligible purpose may be borrowed at a later date, up to the predetermined level of credit established for a specified period. Complete details are available at your Land Bank Association. See your land bank man today.

Ann Landers

Vasectomy Not Legal in Conn, Maybe Texas

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you stated in your column that the vasectomy was legal in all states. This is to inform you that Section 17-19 of the Connecticut General Statutes allows vasectomy only on individuals who "would produce children with an inherited tendency to crime, mental illness or mental deficiency." Furthermore, Section 53-33 of the Connecticut General Statutes makes it illegal for anyone to perform, assist in, or otherwise promote the performance of the operation described in Section 17-19.

The penalty for violation of this statute is a fine of not more than $1,000 or imprisonment for not more than five years or both.

Your advice seems to be in violation of Section 53-33 since you appear to be promoting vasectomy in situations where there is no medical necessity. ----D.C.R. (Hartford Attorney)

Dear Hart: I appreciate your writing and I stand corrected. Your letter hints that I may be subject to a $1,000 fine and five years in stir, on the grounds that I am promoting vascetomy. I am not a promoter. I am a columnist who expressed views on a variety of subjects. Birth control is one of those subjects. I believe that people who want to limit the size of their families should be free to utilize any technique which they consider suitable for them - without interference from church or state.

Dear Ann Landers: Vasectomy is not legal in Texas because it may constitute legal mutiliation, which is defined as depriving an organ of its function. ---H.A.T. (M.D.)

Dear Doc: I hope one day in the not-too-distant future the Texas legislators will acknowledxge the fact that some organs have more than one function. Thank for letting me know that they have not yet reached this point.

Dear Ann Landers: How far should a mother go to save her married daughter from destruction? Her husband gambles and she is alone every night with her baby. The suppers gets cold on the table and she worries that maybe he is dead in a ditch somewhere. She can't work because of poor health. I'm sure most of her sickness is from worrying about bills and where her husband is. When she threatens to leave him he cries and says he needs her. They argue all the time about unpaid bills and her being alone so much.

If her health was good I would mind my own business but I feel it is my duty to help my daughter before she has a complete breakdown. The only solution I can see is for her to get rid of that no-good bum. How can I get this across to her? ---A Grieving Mon

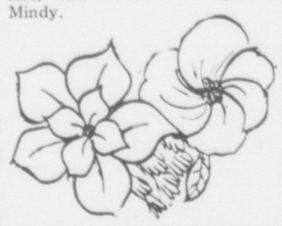

Dear Mom: When your daughter has had enough punishment she will throw the bum out. In the meantime, stay out of it. No one can save anybody. Everyone must save himself. If your daughter reads my colum she might be interested in the address of Gamblers Anonymous -- just in case her husband decides HE has had enough and wants to cure himself of this illness and lead a decent life. It's GAMBLERS ANONYMOUS, Box, M, Norwalk, California 90650

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marrige will work? Read Ann Landers' booklet "Marriage -- What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of Daily Sikeston Standard enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mrs. McMeachin said she advised the board in writing Dec. 9 that she did not wish to leave but heard nothing until she was notified last week that a replacement had been hired.

She argues that she did not apply for leave, nor does she want it.

"I will not resign and in order to be replaced I will have to be fired," she told the board.

Mrs. McMeachin presented a letter from her doctor stating that from a medical standpoint she could continue working until she develops labor pains.

The board said Monday night it would like to have more time to consider the matter.

Case for God: Part IV

Coming of Christ Gave Man Foundation for Hope

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the final installment of a four-part series about the case for God, dealing with the crowning revelation in His sojourn with men in the person of Jesus.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

The saga of man, striving for an ideal existence but never really making it, took a reassuring turn on that singular day, Anno Domini, the "Year of the Lord." After that, people could keep trying with higher heart.

They had a surer basis for it now, a foundation for hope, for the courage to push on, to reach for the dream. It was not just fantasy. It was real, flesh and blood, what believers see as the emergence of perfection in human history.

It could happen because it happened, the appearance of a genuinely new element in the life stream of man, and it opened a fresh era of marking time ever since, brightened by the coming of Jesus.

They wrapped the child in strips of swaddling bandages to keep his body firm, as was the Jewish custom, and laid him in a hollowed-out stone manger in the cavern stable, for there was no room in the inn.

"The Word was made flesh and dwelt among us."

It was a humble setting, in a conquered province, dominated by foreign military legions, oppressive and ruthless. The poor and the sick languished in the land and the innocents were slaughtered in Bethlehem.

Incidents even then foreshadowed the struggle that utter goodness faces in the world. But "the light shines in the darkness and the darkness has not overcome it," says John's gospel.

Humanity still falters, despoils and dies, but the advent of Christ, regarded by his followers as the union of man with God, showed forth the possibility among men of man's deepest yearning—an undefeatable life.

By whatever designation, the final goal of man's endless search for full living can only be an "intimacy with God," says Catholic theologian Karl Rahner, and Jesus is the "great sign" that it makes sense.

"Through Him the world and history have found their own meaning," he adds. It "can perceive its true destiny to be a partaking" in Him, and thus "hidden away in the Love of God."

Down the ages, as traced in Scripture, there had been intimations, inferences and events displaying divine concern for humanity, but "when the time had fully come," as the apostle Paul writes, "God sent forth His Son" to put the climactic seal on all of it.

"For God so loved the world..."

Like a flash of lightning in the midnight sky of man's ambiguities, frustrations and failures, he is seen as summing up God's revelation, embodying directly in the human grain the potentiality of what man can be, a cohering with God himself.

"I am the Way, the Truth and the Life," Jesus said.

However, while he is almost universally admired as a paragon of manhood, a towering teacher in word and action, expressing the highest ideals of insight, ethics, compassion and integrity, many question what church doctrine terms his "divinity," his oneness with God.

This doctrine isn't meant to say that Jesus was all of God in His multidimensional complexity everywhere, but that he flawlessly incarnated God's qualities as a man, that He was uniquely whole (the meaning of holiness) as a man, truly identified with God, but within man's boundaries.

"Man's brother" and "God's partner," Karl Barth once put it.

But the paradox, a form that deepest truth often takes in man's perspective, also bothered Jesus' apostles. As they headed with him to the Mount of Olives after their Last Supper, a worried, questioning Philip said:

"Lord, show us the Father, and we shall be satisfied."

Jesus sad: "He who has seen Me has seen the Father."

He repeatedly affirmed it on other occasions, "I and the Father are one." "I am in the Father and the Father in Me."

As many churchmen have pointed out, He was either who He said He was, or else a dishonest impostor or lunatic, and no great teacher at all, as some patronizingly suggest. It won't wash both ways, by His own assertions.

"I am the door," he said, man's bridge between his anxious incompleteness and his aspiration for wholeness. "I am the bread of life. I have come that they might have life, and have it abundantly."

But He also was fully man, "made like his brethren in every respect," Hebrews says, sorrowing, laughing, angry, tired, hungry, tempted by lures of self-aggrandizement, yet always submitting himself to Him for it.

"He who believes in Me believes not in Me but in Him who sent Me," He said. "My teaching is not mine, but His who sent me." "The Son can do nothing of his own accord ... I seek not My own will but the will of Him who sent me."

It was His behavior, actions and attitudes, however, more than any explanations, that distinguished Him. He shunned the will-to-power or self-gratification that have blighted humanity through the ages, always devoting himself to the good of God's will instead and crediting others.

"The Son of man came not to be served but to serve," He said. "For whoever would save his life will lose it; and whoever loses his life for My sake, he will save it." Again, equating service of God with helping those in need, He said, "As you have done it to one of the least of these, My brethren, you have done it to Me."

Ordinary people, however, while sensing that authentic fulfillment does lie in Jesus' way, and even experiencing fragments of it in their own moments of real commitment to others, also know they can't fully make it, on their own.

In short, they're fallible, fumbling, fouling up themselves and their world, sometimes even when trying hardest, caught in their own egotisms and a flawed history, a handed-down web of interacting injustices, fears, conflicts and evils that afflict men and disorder their communities.

Yet, at times, in fleeting, partial ways, people do surpass themselves, their minds rising above immediate data, catching a glimpse of something transcendant in themselves. It's a hint of what was given Christ in full measure.

"The Kingdom of God is within you," Jesis said.

Nevertheless, it is crimped, hampered, muddled, and so is human history. But Jesus has entered it, in all its difficulties, and with all the mystery of His greatness, attested supremely in His eventual crucifixion and resurrection.

He is the "encouragement to seize the hope set before us," says the epistle to the Hebrews. He displayed the full possibilities for man. "Through Him you have confidence in God," says Peter's epistle.

He is the promise of God within human history that it "will reach an ultimate fulfillment," says Lutheran theologian Carl Bratten.

It does not say man can do it all for himself, but it says that with God all things are possible among men, and leaves the future open, with hope injected into it.

"It points man ahead to the horizon of new possibilities," Bratten says.

That horizon remains obscure, charged with difficulties, setbacks and death, with no prescribed techniques for setting it all aright and no real basis for thinking it's possible to do so, or for hoping or even trying, except in Jesus.

But He has come, affirming that it can be done, that the effort is worth while, illuminating a path and lifting up a hope. "Now we see not yet all ..." Paul wrote, "but we see Jesus."

It is a commitment, not to any "ism", but to a person, one passionately involved in human life itself, bringing into it what believers consider the most man can know of God, His will and His purpose for each and for all.

To share it, He said, "Follow me."

Movies Insulting To Man, Animals

By DAVID POLING

An article in Variety noted that some 100 million people seem to be staying away from the movies. It's not that these people are against popcorn and cartoons; they simply want something better than is being offered and they will wait until it arrives.

In "Have Faith Without Fear" (Harper & Row), Kenneth L. Wilson nails the reason for the disappointment of the 100 million:

"A few years back, film producers listened to somebody who said, 'Tell it like it is!' and they never got over it. They discovered all kinds of things that most of us didn't know about, and they made movies out of them. To read the pages advertising today's motion pictures, you would think that lust, violence, brutality and general kookism prevail."

Wilson observes that the motion picture pages of our newspapers are a real shocker, even for mature audiences. "What happens to some of the characters in the movies today shouldn't happen to a dog—and doesn't. We're going to have to find a more accurate way of talking about 'animal passions' or 'barnyard morals.' Such epithets insult the animals."

A sick culture becomes mirrored or reflected in the arts. The confusion of man and the calamity of our moral condition is rather clear in art, theater and films. The unfortunate conclusion drawn by some is that everyone is corrupt, that every home rots and all teen-agers are breathless to be the next Easy Rider.

What the movies need (as well as our own personal reflections) are some fresh sensations of hope and improvement. Wilson says it for us when he writes:

"There's surely a better world out there somewhere. This is not only the American Dream, but the Christian hope. This has been the motivation of every scientist, every explorer, every social worker, every minister, every parent. Let's see where we are—certainly!

Baptist Commission Opposes State Aid to Private Colleges

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Christian Life Commission of the Missouri Baptist Convention Wednesday registered its opposition to the proposal of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes that the state help defray costs of students attending private colleges and universities.

Hugh Wamble of Kansas City, chairman of the commission, said in a statement "our commission is distressed and alarmed that the state's top official would recommend taxing all citizens to finance private higher education. Most private colleges are under church control. The governor, therefore, has actually proposed financing church-controlled education out of state tax funds."

In his message to the Legislature earlier this month Hearnes recommended a student assistance program that would be extended even to those who chose to attend a private school in Missouri.

Wamble reported that the Missouri Baptist Convention adopted a resolution at its annual meeting in October, 1970, opposing "the taxing of all citizens to finance church-related education."

"The vast majority of Baptists believes," Wamble said, "that it is both morally wrong and constitutionally impermissible for government to use its taxing power to raise money for church-controlled education. Missouri Baptists have three colleges-- William Jewell College of Liberty, Southwest Baptist College of Bolivar, and Missouri Baptist College of St. Louis and Hannibal–but we do not think the government has any right to tax us or other people to finance them."

SW Baptist Alumni Meeting Set Feb. 7

Area alumni and friends of Southwest Baptist College and prospective college students are invited to attend the annual Area 28 alumni chapter meeting to be held at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 7, at the First Baptist Church in Sikeston.

Jesse E. Wade, dean of alumni and college relations at Southwest Baptist in Bolivar, will be in charge of the program.

Betty P. Miller of Sikeston, chapter president, says it will be a time to greet old friends and make new acquaintances, and he urges all alumni and friends in the area to make plans to attend and bring others to the meeting.

The meeting will be open to the public, and Miller especially urges young people who will be entering college soon to come and familiarize themselves with what Southwest Baptist has to offer.

Rev. Howard Melton to Pastor Church

CHARLESTON--The Rev. Howard Melton of Sikeston has accepted the position as pastor of the Free Pentecostal Church on Johnson St. and began his duties Jan. 3.

Rev. Melton began his studies for the ministry six years ago and was ordained last month. A resident of Sikeston for 21 years, he and his family reside at 219 Petroleum St., Sikeston.

Rev. Melton had a radio broadcast on the Charleston station in 1969 and says he plans to begin a new radio program in the near future.

Area Youth To Meet at Illinois Ave.

An area youth service will be held at Illinois Avenue General Baptist Church in Sikeston Saturday at 7 p.m.

The purpose of the service is to emphasize the value of young people in the community and the need for them in the church program.

All young people are urged to attend and invite others who would like to fellowship with other young people. Adults are welcome to attend, also.

JASON AND MARYHAZEL
By KUET LASSWN

The first time Jason and Maryhazel sang together they didn't, because Maryhazel cried out of fright. "Jason had always been a single and I believe he should stay with it. I'd sung with groups but I was scared stiff."

That was almost two years ago. Today Maryhazel is smiling, laughing, and, because of what's happened to the young duo in the last few weeks, she and Jason are almost in a state of shock.

First, they were booked into New York's St. Regis Hotel and opened to rave reviews. The reviews attraced Johnny Carson, who immediately put them on his show. Also attraced were leading record companies, so that "now we are in a position to choose where we want to go," Jason said.

Overnight success? Not at all. Besides the hours the two have spent working together to perfect their style, each had paid their dues, Jason as a single with his guital playing coffee houses and clubs from coast to coast and Maryhazel singing with group in and around the Detroit area.

Both remember the same first musical experience, their respective mothers singing to them. Jason's mother and father were both in a chorus, and Maryhazel's mother is a classical ballet instructor and "sang with a sweet, soothing voice."

"When I was 17," Jason told us, "my family said if I wanted to be an entertainer, I'd have to do it on my own, so I took off with my guitar."

"I sang in chorus at Wayne State University and then began singing with groups. That's how Jason and I met. He was playing the Bitter End in Detroit and we touch of Lennon and McCartney and of all the rock and all the hit it off right away."

"I was looking for a girl singer to team up with. I took Maryhazel, my guitar, and my arrangements out to a park, unpacked them and told her to sing with me. That's when she burst into tears so I packed it all up again but finally convinced her that we'd be great together," Jason recalled.

About 75 percent of what the duo sings are Jason Originals, both words and music. "There's one I love best, 'Je Vous Aime Janne'," said the tall, pretty blonde with the peaceful blue eyes.

"Writing is hard work for me," Jason interjected. "You get an idea and you start on it and then you have to work and work at it until you get it all out of your head."

Jason's an intense, serious young man "Looking for the answers." Maryhazel is much more at peace with the world "because of her religious strength," Jason believes. One comes away with the feeling that the drive is Jason's, and what keeps the act even is Maryhazel. "I'm as excited every night as I was the first night," she says.

Jason, on the other hand, wonders "where do we go from here? The recording has to be right, the right company, the right arrangements, the right songs." And, he's thinking beyond that.

Just as their diffferent personalities mesh, so does their music. In tone and approach, their voices, like their personalities,play counterpoint to each other, and Jason takes full advantage of it in his arrangements. The music is the sum total mostly of Jason's musical experience. There's folk,there's jazz,(he idolizes top jazz guitarists) and there's a blues he's heard looking for the answer in one spot after another.

"There's so much more happening," Maryhazel says. "Sullivan is interested. People who wouldn't talk to us before are calling us for engagements."

Cape Allows Credit by Examination

CAPE GIRARDEAU--Southeast Missouri State College has joined the growing number of colleges and universities across the nation which allow college credit by examination through the college-level examination program of the College Entrance Examination Board.

The college-level examination program, commonly called CIEP, allows adults who have learned their lessons in the "school of hard knocks" or otherwise to take examinations in certain general and specific subject areas and receive varying amounts of college credit if they pass.

Currently available through CLEP are general examinations which measure proficiency in five basic liberal arts areas and subject examinations which measure achievement in 28 specific undergraduate courses.

Nearly 500 institutions of higher education throughout the country now participate in CLEP. Each college establishes its own policy as to the amount of credit it will accept.

The Southeast Missouri State policy permits up to 15 hours of credit by examination, whether it be through CLEP, the college's own credit-by-exam program, which is in its infancy, or a combination of the two.

To be eligible for CLEP credit at SEMO State, the prospective student must meet the college's admission requirements and be at least 21 years old unless he has served at least one year on active duty in the armed services.

No CLEP credit will be awarded to a student who has enrolled for any college work in the area or subject in which he takes an examination. And the CLEP credit is not officially recorded on the student's transcript until he has passed at least 30 hours of regular course work at the college with a C average.

The general areas and subjects to which credit through CLEP may be applied at Southeast Missouri State will be determined by the departments involved or the faculty committees on general education and credits and classifications.

The national CLEP program was established on an operational basis in 1967 and is funded by the Carnegie Corporation.

CLEP tests are normally given during the third week of each month at 57 test centers scattered throughout the states. However, there is an experimental program in Missouri, Project Circuit Rider, which in effect takes the tests to the people.

It is administered by Dr. Margaret Fagin of the Extension Division of the University of Missouri–St. Louis. Dr. Fagin will travel to out-state areas to give the tests wherever 14 or more candidates assemble.

AN AMERICAN LEGION PRAYER FOR OUR PRISONERS OF WAR

Lord, shelter the prisoners of war in Southeast Asia. Open the hearts and minds of their captors that they may be restored to their homes and loved ones.

Each has carried the burden of battle. Each has discharged an obligation of his country. Each has been subjected to hazard, pain, and imprisonment beyond the lot of the soldier.

O, Lord, these gallant men who bear so great a burden must not be forsaken. God of Justice to whom we pray, Thy compassion we beseech: Lift their burden, give them strength and strike the shackles that deny them freedom.

December 16, 1970

Dear Editor:

The above "An American Legion Prayer For Our Prisoners of War" is being sent to you with the hope that you will consider its publication in your newspaper. We seek this action as a demonstration to our own people and those of the world that during this holiday season America has not forgotten her servicemen who are prisoners of war in Southeast Asia.

This is the season of mankind's greatest expression of hope and all Americans share the hope that these men soon will be returned to their loved ones. Also, we are told by those who are well versed in dealing with the North Vietnam ruling regime that they are very conscious of public opinion in America.

We feel that this prayer expresses the hopes of Americans for these unfortuante prisoners of war, and we feel that its dissemination through the American press might be of some help to these unfortuante Americans who bear this burden during this Yuletide season. Some have done so for as many as six past Christmas seasons.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,
JAMES C. WATKINS, Director
National Public Relations Division

Pregnant Student Policy Changed

CHARLESTON--The board of education approved a change in the policy on treatment of students who become pregnant.

Under the old policy, a pregnant student was dropped from school and remained out until the year following the birth of the child.

Under the new policy, as under the old one, the student is to be dropped from school "after it has become apparent that she is pregnant."

The student can be readmitted, if it is not too late to get credit for the semester's work, "after the birth of the baby and after a doctor clears the mother to take part in normal school classes, including physical education."

A person readmitted will not be allowed to participate "in leadership roles of non-class activities."

A student who has a second child cannot be admitted without approval of the board of education.

In other action the board:

* Accepted the resignations of Bob Adams, Anniston fourth grade; Mary Susan McDonald, Hearnes school primary; Lucille Cox, business education, CHS; and Judith Ringwald, A.D. Simpson school. A sick leave of absence without pay was granted to Orva Walker, A.D. Simpson School.

* Approved the contracts of Jeanette Launius, business education, CHS; Peggy Grimes, A. D. Simpson; and Marilyn Henderhan, Hearnes School.

* Authorized Superintendent Tom Wells to decline a grant authorization under the federal Emergency School Assistance Program. The grant did not authorize the board of education to carry out the full program requested, and approval came too late in the school year for a full effectiveness.

Judgment Errors Cited By Park Board

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)--Actions taken by the State Park Board in acquiring or selling land in and around Babler State Park in St. Louis County have been called "errors of judgment" by a special Commission.

There was no surreptitious dealing or secrecy in the employment of the company owned by William W. Dolan for the appraisal and sale of some tracts, the Commission report said. Dolan was appointed earlier by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes as a member of the State Real Estate Commission, a regulatory body.

The Commission said the money paid Dolan, a total of $54,412, was about 20 per cent below the customary St. Louis metropolitan rate for handling real estate transactions.

Nor did the commission find anything improper in the employment by the Park Board of former state Rep. Eugene P. Walsh of St. Louis and special counsel in litigation against the Babler testamentary trustees.

That was even approved by the attorney general, the Commission said. It added that the Park Board also should have sought the attorney general's approval before employing Walsh's legal services in real estate transactions.

Walsh, former legal assistant to Gov. Hearnes, was paid $9,660 for handling the litigation against the Babler trustees and $6,020 for representing the Board in real estate transactions.

The Special Commission commended the St. Louis Globe-Democrat for bringing to light a situation "which needed public scrutiny," but it said the stories were too sensationalized.

St. Louis Comptroller John H. Poelker was chairman of the commission. Harold E. Thayer, president and chairman of the board of Mallinckrodt Chemical Co., and Harry F. Harrington, a director of Boatmen's National Bank, were members. Legal counsel was Howard S. Levie of St. Louis.

About 2 million American families now have a second or "vacation" home, and their numbers are growing at the rate of about 100,000 a year.

There was a time when such homes were sparsely furnished and had few conveniences, but now this has changed. Vacation homes have electricity, running water, bathrooms and even such plumbed-in conveniences as dishwashers. Water-using conveniences have been made possible by private water systems, which, unlike the old dug wells consist of the well, an electric pump, a storage tank, and automatic controls for turning the pump on and off.

However, the majority of vacation homes still don't have central heating. What heat they get is often provided by fireplaces, and they're lighted more for the rustic, old-fashioned aura they provide than for warmth.

This may be why most families enjoy their vacation homes only a few summer weeks or at most a few months of the year. The addition of central heating would make the home inhabitable the other three seasons. Even if the owner does't wish to use the home, it can be rented to others. This is a practical idea, since more and more families are taking their vacation during the winter, spring or fall instead of the traditional summer months.

So if you have an unheated vacation home, why not extend its useful life by adding a hydronic (hot water) heating system with baseboard radiation? The baseboard, installed around the perimeter of the rooms, will blanket the walls with warmth and enable you to keep even the most isolated homes comfortable. Moreover, if you rent the home, the heating system will pay for itself in no

Armed Forces

VALPARAISO, Fla.--Technical Sergeant Donnie O. Kesler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kesler, Route three, Sikeston, Mo., is a member of the Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., squadron that has received the air force outstanding unit award for exemplary performance in operating the Free World's first "space age" radar system.

Sergeant Kesler, a computer maintenance technician with the 20th Surveillance Squadron, will wear a distinctive service ribbon to mark his affiliation with the unit.

Squadron personnel maintain and operate a gigantic 13-story radar that performs the functions of many radars nearly simultaneously and is the first designed specifically for detecting and tracking satellites and ballistic missiles. The 20th was cited for distinguished service in installing, testing and subsequently operating the facility as part of the Aerospace Defense Command's frontline defense system.

Sergeant Kesler is a 1952 graduate of Morehouse (Mo.) high school. His wife, Sarah, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wylie, 704 Pine St., Sikeston.

Shooting Victim in Intensive Care

KENNETT--An 18-year-old Clarkton girl is in the intensive care ward of the Baptist Hospital in Memphis, recovering from a gunshot wound incurred in her home Tuesday night.

Dunklin County Deputy Sheriff Radford Raines said Norma Jones was accidentally shot behind the right ear at 9:10 p.m. Tuesday. Her boyfriend, Charles Tripplett, 22, reportedly told officers that he and the girl both had their hands on the gun when it accidentally discharged.

Tripplett and a Clarkton policeman took the Jones girl to the Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett and she was later transferred to Memphis.

A spokesman for the Baptist Hospital said that the Jones girl was still in instensive care but was "holding her own." Circumstances surrounding the shooting are still being investigated by the Missouri Highway Patrol, Deputy Sheriff Raines and the Clarkton police.

No charges have been filed.

Budget Hearing Tuesday

CHARLESTON--The Mississippi County Court will hold the required public hearing on the 1971 proposed county budget at the Courthouse next Tuesday, Jan. 26, at 10 a.m.

The session will be held in the County Court room on the south side of the Court house, according to County Clerk Arthur Lee Goodin.

A public hearing is required before the budget can be finally approved and sent to the office of the State Auditor to be filed.

Insurance Position to Huckstep

DES MOINES–Ronald G. Huckstep has been appointed assistant general agent for the Chester C. Elson, Mutual of Omaha Agency.

Huckstep came to Des Moines from Omaha, where he was a training consultant for Mutual of Omaha and its life insurance affiliate, United of Omaha. He was district manager for Mutual of Omaha at Cape Girardeau, three years during which his agency ranked in the top 10 of Mutual of Omaha's leading 100 United States agencies.

He was the receipient of the company's highest honor, the field management award. Previously he served for five years as a field underwriter for the company.

A native of Charleston, Mo., he is an alumnus of Murray State College in Murray, Kentucky. He is a licensed security underwriter and a member of the Health and Life Underwriters Association. He and his wife, Eunice, are parents of four children and are members of the Methodist church.

Judge Craig to Take Part in Panel

CAPE GIRARDEAU--A four-day regional drug education training program for 148 teachers and school administrators in Southeast Missouri will be held on two weekends next month at Southeast Missouri State College.

The dates are Feb. 5-6 and Feb. 19-20. The program will run from 9 a.m.-8 p.m. on Feb. 5 and Feb. 19 and from 9 a.m. - 4 p.m. on Feb. 6 and Feb. 20, according to Lester Leaton, assistant professor of chemistry at Southeast Missouri State and project coordinator.

Invitations have been extended to 50 southeast Missouri schools to send representatives with the number of participants allowed each school determinded on an enrollment basis, Leaton said.

The overall purpose of the seminar, according to the coordinator, is "to provide the latest information concerning the various aspects of drug abuse among young people."

"We will get into the problem during the first two days," the chemistry professor said, "and present some possible solutions during the last two days, although we are the first to admit we don't have all the answers."

Leaton emphasized that the educators chosen by the various schools should be present for all four days of the project, which is jointly sponsored by the State Department of Education and Southeast Missouri State.

Last August Leaton received specialized training in the development of drug education programs for local communities at the University of Wisconsin, and recently he helped conduct such a project in Springfield at Southwest Missouri State College.

He said the first item on the agenda for participants in the forthcoming program will be an evaluative test to determine how much they know about drugs.

This will be followed by a sociological overview, or sort of keynote address, delivered by Jim DeFee, instructor of social science at the college and a former prison official in Texas.

Other confirmed speakers and panel participants include Judge Marshall Craig of Sikeston; Robert Burdine, a Cape Girardeau juvenile officer; Al Seier, Cape County prosecuting attorney; the Rev. Max Jenkins of the First Christian Church of Cape; and the Rev. Dumitri Turk of the Teen Challenge Center near Cape.

An important part of the project, according to Leaton, will be small group discussions in which the participants will try to arrive at ways in which the information they receive can be used beneficially in their local communities.

Revised Capital Gain Tax Laws Help, Hurt Investors

ST. LOUIS--With the number of stock market investors having risen above 31 million in 1970 and the stock market having gyrated as it did, more income taxpayers than ever before will be affected by the revised tax laws covering capital gains and losses, says C. Robert Meyer, President of the Missouri Society of CPAs.

Long-term capital gains and losses realized in 1970, which will be reported in income tax returns to be filed by April 15, 1971, are subject, Mr. Meyer says, to new rules that may adversely affect taxpayers in medium and upper brackets.

The tax ceiling of 25 percent, exclusive of the surtax which applied for 1970 but has now expired, continues to apply a long-term gains Mr. Meyer says, on the first $50,000 of such gains ($25,000 for a married taxpayer filing a separate return). However, the tax ceiling on gains above $50,000 has been raised to 29.5% plus the surcharge, and will climb to 32.5 percent in 1971.

And the tax on long-term gains above $50,000 (or above $25,000 for a married taxpayer filing a separate return) is scheduled to go up even more. After 1971, one half of such gains will have to be counted as regular income. The top bracket on regular income is still 70 percent, so that after 1971 the ceiling on each year's long-term gains over the $50,000 or $25,000 mark will be 35 percent.

Effective with long-term losses incurred in 1970, two dollars of loss are required for each dollar of deduction, Thus. in order to deduct the $1,000 of loss allowable in any one year it is necessary to have incurred $2,000 in long-term losses. Pre-1970 long-term losses are still fully deductible at the rate of $1,000 a year until the entire loss has been written off.

Short-term losses incurred in 1970 or those carried over from previous years can still be applied, net of short-term gains, against ordinary income dollar-for-dollar up to the $1,000 maximum allowable in any year.

Taxpayers with unusually large long-term gains for 1970 can in some cases ease their tax burden, Mr. Meyer says, under new, more liberal conditions for income averaging. That is the subject of his next discussion.

House Approves Creation of Four New Committees

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri House Tuesday adopted rules for the session which included the creation of four new committees.

Rep. Richard J. Rabitt, D-St. Louis, majority leader and rules committee chairman, said the new committees would include environment and natural resources, consumer protection, urban affairs, and welfare.

All committee assignments are to be made by Wednesday, said Speaker James E. Godfrey, D-St. Louis.

The Democratic majority in the House successfully fought off efforts to amend other portions of the rules including an effort to make public the vote of committee members. The amendment was introduced by Rep. Robert Pierce, R-Cape Girardeau.

Other amendments called for creation of an expanded rules committee made up of nearly equal number of Republican and Democratic House memmembers.

Blackwell Belatedly Sworn After Bid to Halt Salary

The action came after A. C. Sullivan Jr. of Farmington had demanded that the state comptroller not pay Blackwell's salary until he took the oath of office in the Senate chamber as required by the constitution.

There was no fuss about the swearing in, although Blackwell reportedly told Senate leaders Monday he already had been sworn but did not say where or when.

Today Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, advised Blackwell about the Sullivan letter and the constitutional requirements. Blackwell then walked up to be sworn in by Lt. Gov. William S. Morris, the presiding officer.

Under the circumstances, Blackwell's $8,400 a year salary would not start until today.

"This senator," Sullivan said in a letter to Comptroller John C. Vaughn, "did not assume the duties of his office in accordance with the constitution and . . . he has performed no duties or services for the state and is not entitled to be paid until such requirements are met.

'It would seem to me if (Blackwell) . . . is going to lead the people out of darkness into the promised land then it is essential for him to assume his duties of office and faithfully discharge them.

"Since I am a resident of this senatorial district and voted for the senator in November and I am a taxpayer of the state, I have a right to raise the question of expenditure of state funds to him for no services performed."

Comptroller Vaughn said he assumed he would have to withold payment of any senatorial salary to Blackwell if Blackwell has not been sworn in for the 74th General Assembly that convened Jan. 6.

Blackwell led the successful referendum campaign against September, 1969, version of an income tax increase. He also was president protem of the senate for a year, deposed last January by his fellow Democrats because they felt he took too much power into his own hands.

$400 Million in Bonds Asked For Capital Improvements

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has recommended to the Missouri Legislature bond issues totaling $400 million to finance pollution controls and new buildings, repairs and maintenance work for state institutions.

One proposal calls for $150 million to help finance construction of sewer treatment plants and sewer systems, and the other for $250 million would go to building needs at state hospitals, universities and colleges and correctional institutions.

The pollution proposal, combined with federal and local funds, is designed to speed the day when the state's rivers, lakes and streams are no longer polluted by municipal wastes.

Hearnes said the need for capital improvements "is beyond reach of what we could accomplish through pay-as-you-go appropriations."

He urged legislators to take another look at the priority of capital improvement projects submitted to them two months ago and "carefully select and appropriate for those capital improvements in order that the people may know exactly what would be built when they vote on the bond issue."

Without the bond issue, Hearnes said, only about $18 million should be appropriated for capital improvements. Here is how major institutions would fare with the bond issue approved and in parentheses the bare bones recommendations for the governor:

University of Missouri's four campuses in Kansas City, Columbia, Rolla and St. Louis, $74 million ($2,500,000).

Southwest Missouri State at Springfield, $5,523,000 ($279,560).

Renovation of the state Capitol plus addition of a Centrex phone system, $2,522,900 ($1,500,000).

State Highway Patrol, $1,136,250 ($1,136,250), including Troop E headquarters in southeastern Missouri (not necessarily near the present location of Poplar Bluff) and Troop G headquarters at Willow Springs.

State fair at Sedalia, $4,208,934 ($106,800).

A new maximum security prison, $7,853,810 (nothing).

A new maximum security facility for the state Board of Training Facilities, $3,306,100 (nothing).

Training school for boys at Boonville, $1,066,828 ($125,000).

St. Joseph State Hospital, $2,096,750 ($224,084).

Farmington State Hospital, $4,244,075 ($333,500).

St. Louis State Hospital, $9,140,500 ($300,000).

St. Louis State Hospital, $9,140,500 ($300,000).

Higginsville State School and Hospital, $366,918 ($43,000).

St. Louis State School and Hospital, $1,442,000 ($343,000).

George Gershwin composed the first jazz concerto for the piano in musical history—"Concerto in F"—which he introduced in 1925 at Carnegie Hall, says The World Almanac. Gershwin had a genius for incorporating jazz and folk elements into his serious music, composing such other uniquely American musical expressions as "Porgy and Bess" and "Rhapsody in Blue."

Hearnes 'Way Ahead' of C Of C Proposal

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — St. Louis Chamber of Commerce officials, meeting Wednesday with Gov. Warren Hearnes found the governor "way ahead" of their proposal to establish a State Department of Transportation.

"The governor was way ahead of us in his thinking of such a department because of work done by the (Governmental Reorganization) 'Little Hoover' Commission," commented A. J. O'Brien, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Metropolitan St. Louis.

That commission is making a study on feasibility of establishing a state transportation department.

The idea behind a separate department of transportation is patterned after the federal Department of Transportation. It could coordinate all state transportation under one single unit. The purpose would be to modes of travel, rail, air and highway.

As the group from St. Louis talked with Hearnes about transportation, two proposed constitutional amendments were introduced in the Missouri House to cover the area.

One would convert the present State Highway Department to a Department of Transportation and add to its highway duties one to "aid state and local transportation systems."

MORE THAN DOUBLED is the fabric department at the T G and Y Family Center giving customers a large selection.

Fabric Center Almost Doubled

"Due to the tremendous acceptance os our fabrics, we increased the department from 16 tables of bolt goods, to 31 tables, together with an additional 50 feet display counters devoted to flat folds mill ends, remnants and upholstery materials," he said.

"We now have over 3,000 square feet of fabric space with over 1,000 bolts of first quality name brand fabrics."

The store has double knits in solids, stripes and bold designs, plus all the new spring fabrics. It also has patterns, supplies for knitting, crochet and embroidery work, together with zippers, threads, trims and other notions and accessories.

Jim Edwards Named Bank Vice President

NEW MADRID--Sam L. Hunter, Jr., president of The Bank of New Madrid, announced this week that James N. (Jim) Edwards has been promoted to vice-president and cashier of the bank.

Edwards is a native of New Madrid and started with the Bank of New Madrid in 1956. He was made assistant cashier in 1960 and was promoted to cashier in 1964. He is a graduate of New Madrid High School, attended Southeast Missouri State College, and is a graduate of School of Banking of the South at Louisiana State University.

The new vice president and cashier is an active member of the First Presbyterian Church where he holds offices of elder and treasurer. He is married to May Hillis of Brosley and the couple have three children.

Q—When was the length of a baseball game standardized?

A—In 1857, a new baseball rule fixed the length of a game at nine innings and provided that an interrupted game would be legal after five innings.

A—Brazil, whose official language is Portuguese, and Haiti, whose official language is French.

Mabrey Joins NATE Panel

CAPE GIRARDEAU--Dr. Cleo Mabrey, director of student teaching at Southeast Missouri State College, learned last week that he has been appointed for a three-year term to the fiscal affairs committee of the National Association of Teacher Educators, which has headquarters in Washington, D.C.

The committee assists the executive secretary of the association in preparing the organization's budget, which must then be approved by the national delegate assembly. The organization will open its national convention in Chicago on Feb. 23.

Dr. Mabrey, who has been a member of the Southeast Missouri State faculty since 1961, is also president-elect of the Missouri unit of the Association of Teacher Educators.

Earlier this year Dr. Fred Goodwin, associate professor of speech and director of forensics at the college, was notified he had been named chairman of the committee on intercollegiate debate and discussion of the Speech Communication Association.

This five-member committee has the task this year of formulating the national intercollegiate debate question for the academic year 1972-73.

The Prayer from the upper room

Fathers, do not provoke your children to anger, but bring them up in the discipline and instruction of the Lord. (Ephesians 6:4, RSV)

PRAYER: Father, forgive us for creating human ghettos that blight, twist and warp young lives in this era of affluence. Reveal to us the solutions to these overwhelming problems and give us the courage to apply them under Thy divine guidance. Amen.

Confession in Sleep No Test of Guilt

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

Barney went on an ill-fated business trip with several partners. After a day of conferences that were tough, he looked forward to a bed that was soft. He was so tired,in fact, no sooner had he hit the hay than he began talking in his sleep.

What he had to say really perked up the ears of two of his partners who were sharing the same bedroom with him. Specifically, Barney confessed to pilfering company funds in the exact amount that the company had earlier found missing.

The result? Barney's partners lost no time in having him arrested and charged with larceny.

"He's a real chiseler," the irate partners told the judge. "He carved out a fortune with our money. And, two of us heard it right from his own mouth."

The whole thing is absured," was Barney's answer. "They can't believe what I said in my sleep. My subconscious is a terrible liar. I'm innocent."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict sleep talking Barney of larceny?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that a man is not conscious of what he says when he talks in his sleep; that words spoken by him in that condition are no evidence of guilt.

Based upon a 1861 California Supreme Decision.

Ward Retires As Manager Of Airport

MALDEN--R. L. Ward, manager of the Malden Airport for the past 25 years, has submited his resignation effective as of Monday, Jan. 28. Mr. Ward requested the Airport to relieve him of his responsibilities as soon as possible in view of his health and advancing years.

George Anderson, Councilman of Ward IV and an employee of Farm & Home Appliance and Furniture Company, has been appointed manager of the airport to succeed Mr. Ward. Mrs. Anderson has resigned as a member of the City Council and as a candidate for re-election. Also, he has resigned his position with Farm & Home.

Bob Green, chariman of the Airport Boards, said that Mr. Anderson's appointment was approved unanimously by the Board. Mr. Green said that Mr. Ward will assist Mr. Anderson in becoming familiar with the responsibilities and duties that are involved in the job.

He said that the Airport Board expressed their appreciation to Mr. Ward for the outstanding dedicated service over the past 28 years that he has worked at the Airport of which most of this time was as manager.

The 2800-acred Airport and Industrial Park is owned by the City of Malden. It was deeded to the City of Malden after World War II by the federal government. The property is managed by an Airport Board appointed by the Mayor. The Board in turn appoints a manager who acts as supervisor. Mr. Ward has been the only manager since the city took possession.

A—The Biblical Book of Leviticus, chapter 25, verse 10.

Q—What is the political status of Monaco?

A—It is a principality. Under the terms of a treaty signed with France, if Monaco's royal family has no male heirs, the principality will come under French rule.

Today In History

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1901, an era ended in England as Queen Victoria died at 82.

On this date:

In 1957, George Metesky was arrested in Waterbury, Conn. accused of being the "mad bomber" who had planted 32 bombs in the New York City area in 16 years.

Ten years ago: President John F. Kennedy named a special panel on ethics in government and conflicts of interest.

Schaffner Gives Budget Review

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — James Schaffner, director of revenue who referred to himself as a "conservative old Dutchman," presented his 197172 budget to the House Appropriations Committee Thursday night.

Schaffner then provided a detailed explanation of every item on his $115.8 million budget as recommended by the governor.

The totals are about $15 million more than the department got last year.

The only exception to the governor's recommendations Schaffner took was for a machine to automatically insert licenses, forms and so forth into envelopes.

"Now that's not a shiny new toy," he said of the $17,000 machine which had been cut from his request. "That's a work tool" which, he said, would expedite handling the more than 20 million pieces of mail sent out annually by the department.

Schaffner told the committee that additions to his staff would be limited to data processing. He called the division a "training ground" for keypunch operators adding that the turnover in that division last year was 40 per cent.

The 28 full time data employes would add $158,000 to the department's payroll.

Schaffner estimated that it would cost Missouri about 11.3 per cent more for salaries in his department if it is placed under the merit system.

Steps Taken To Loosen Seniority

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats and Republicans have taken first steps to loosen the grip of the seniority system on committee assignments, but no big changes are likely for a while.

Acting in separate party caucuses Wednesday, the two parties approved new rules giving members a vote on committee chairmen who now are selected solely on the basis of seniority.

Democrats also limited each member to one subcommittee chairmanship, a move that will open up about 40 prized chairmanships to junior members.

Republicans, whose caucus was marked by a close fight between conservatives and liberals over a top party office, finished their work but Democrats adjourned a 12-hour session still not ready for the opening of the 92nd congress at noon today.

Although seniority changes approved by each party are minimal, their adoption is a triumph for younger members who pushed for the reforms against stubborn resistance by party elders.

The GOP proposal, requiring an automatic secret vote in the party caucus on top-ranking committee members, appears to be more effective than the Democrats' which would put the choice of a chairman to a vote only if 10 members request it.

However, it is somewhat easier for the Republicans, who as a minority party have no chairmen, to take a stronger stand against them.

In either case, given the 50-year stranglehold of the seniority system on the House, few challenges are likely to be made and even fewer to succeed.

The Republican caucus was enlivened by the fight over chairmanship of the GOP conference, the third-ranking party post. John B. Anderson of Illinois, challenged by conservatives, won re-election by a vote of 89 to 81 over Rep. Samuel Devine of Ohio.

A proposal by Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, one of Boggs' unsuccessful challengers, to make the whip's job elective was tabled and a move to limit the whip's tenure to two terms in office was defeated 71 to 68.

Before the vote, there was some confusion over the position of newly nominated speaker Carl Albert on the issue. Albert first told newsmen he favored electing the whip but later switched and said he wanted him appointed.

MOLLY KINSEY

Mrs. Molly Ann Kinsey, 83, a resident of the McMullin community, was found dead Friday morning in her home by neighbors. She lived alone. Coroner Gene Nunnelee said death was due to natural causes.

Record sales mean record resale value.

People are going for Duster in record numbers. Sales are up 58% for first quarter—'71 model year. And if you think we're loading the dice, last year they were 181% ahead of comparable sales the year before. Which is a big reason why Plymouth's small cars are leaders in their field in resale value.
